MARSHALL FIELD DIES IN NEW YORK FROM PNEUMONIA

SICKENED ON TRAIN

Becomes Ill Nearing Pittsburgh on Pennsylvania Limited, Taking on Physician Here.

FINAL YEAR WAS EVENTFUL

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Marshall Field of Chicago, millionaire merchant and a leader in the drygoods trade of the world, died at the Holland house at 4 o'clock this afternoon after an illness extending over more than a week beginning with a bad cold and developing quickly into pneumonia which affected both lungs. Mr. Field, although 70 years old, made a fight against the disease which the attending physicians characterized as being braver and stronger than would have been expected of a man many years his junior.

Mrs. Field and other members of the family were with him when he lapsed into the period of unconsciousness which ended in his death. In an adjoining room were many persons prominent in the business and social life of Chicago, intimate associates of Mr. Field who had come to New York when the seriousness of his condition became known.

Funeral Train.

An outline of the funeral arrangements was decided upon tonight. The body will be taken to Chicago tomorrow in a special train over the New York Central. There will be no services of any sort in this city. The funeral will be simple and unostentatious. Members of the family and intimate friends will gather around the bier in the Field mansion at 1905 Prairie avenue at noon on Friday to hear a short service and then the body will be taken to the Field grounds in Graceland cemetery, where the merchant will be placed beside the son who died recently. On board the special train in addition to the members of the Field family, the friends who came on from Chicago will be passengers.

Announcement was made tonight that Mr. Field's successor would be his brother, J. N. Field, of Manchester, England, who will take charge of all the Field houses. J. N. Field for years has been at the head of the Manchester branch of the Field business and has had general charge of all the foreign business done by the firm. He has not been in Chicago for many years.

A sinking spell early this morning which followed the remarkable rally of yesterday, presaged the coming of the end. The attending physicians first notified the members of the family and withdrew from the sick chamber.

Knew End Was Near.

Mr. Field was told last night that he had but the slightest chance for recovery. During the periods of consciousness which marked the last 24 hours of his life, he talked but little, seeming resigned and peaceful and occasionally expressing his appreciation of the fight his physicians had made for him.

With Mr. Field at his death, in addition to his wife, were Mrs. Marshall Field, Jr., Stanley Field, a nephew, and son of Joseph M. Field of Manchester, England, and Mrs. Stanley Field.

In the rooms adjoining were the attending physicians, Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago; Dr. E. G. Janeway and Dr. Walter B. James; William G. Beal of Chicago, Mr. Field's personal counsel; Mrs. Beal, Robert T. Lincoln, president of the Pullman Palace Car Company; Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago & Northwestern railway; Allison Armour, Charles Lunn, Jr., Augustus N. Eddy, Mr. Fields' brother-in-law; Catherine Eddy, Mrs. Preston Gibson, Robert M. Fair, Norman B. Ream, Mrs. Gillette, a niece; Philip James, a nephew; Mr. and Mrs. John B. King, and Mrs. Henry Dibblee, a sister.

Dr. Frank Billings, Mr. Field's physician, who came from Chicago, said that Mr. Field was unconscious for three hours before his death and that his temperature was 107 when he died.

Mr. Field's illness developed about a week ago, while he and Mrs. Field were on their way from Chicago to this city.

SILAS CARTER NOW IN THE CUSTODY OF POLICE

Negro Who Murdered Policeman Sheehy Four Years Ago Never Left the County.

After playing hide and seek with Pittsburgh policemen and detectives for nearly four years, Silas ("Kid") Carter, the negro who shot and killed Policeman James Sheehy on Saturday, May 17, 1902, was arrested yesterday by Policeman Matthew Bell, Detective George W. Cole and Special Officer Frank Curran, in a stable at the rear of 69 Fulton street. At central station Carter admitted his identity and said he killed Sheehy in self-defense.

Mrs. Nellie Hogan and her son, William Hogan, 21 years old, with whom Carter lived at 69 Fulton street, were arrested last evening by Police Inspector Robinson and locked up in Central station. Both knew the police wanted Carter for the murder of Sheehy, and are said to have harbored him in their home, knowing him to be a fugitive. Inspector Robinson believes Mrs. Hogan can be held as an accessory after the fact to murder.

Mrs. Hogan Sued Police.

Mrs. Hogan, at the time of the shooting, lived in Poplar alley, where Carter then made his home. Believing she knew where he was she was arrested at the time, but was later released after denying any knowledge of his whereabouts. She then sued John McAleese, who was superintendent of police, for $10,000 damages, but lost the suit, and later was herself sent to the workhouse for a year on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

When questioned by the police officials as to his whereabouts since the killing of Sheehy, Carter laughed heartily. At no time has he been outside Allegheny county. Most of the time he has been working right here in Pittsburgh. He often talked with police officers and chuckled to himself as he heard them boast of their ability to catch him. The story he tells forms a decidedly unfavorable comment on the ability and astuteness of the supposed guardians of the peace and safety of this community. To Assistant Superintendent Kennelly, Carter talked in the following fashion:

Carter's Beard Disguised Him.

"Why, I have often drank and talked with Policemen John Terry, Matthew Bell, 'Bob' Smethers and Tallman Hughes lots of times. They were all supposed to know me, but my beard fooled them. Once I talked to County Detective John Reed, and I have passed Detective George Cole in the streets lots of times. And then I often had a good laugh when I would read in the newspapers that Silas Carter had been caught in some far-off city or town."

MOB STORMS JAIL IN DELAWARE TO REACH NEGRO

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MILFORD, DEL., Jan. 16.—A hurry call for the militia was sent out late tonight to prevent a mob getting into the jail to take out a negro accused of attempting to assault Flora Booze, a school teacher, yesterday. Citizens who had been out last night and today reached the jail this evening with the negro, whom Miss Booze declared attacked her as she was returning from school.

A crowd gathered at the jail late tonight and broke some of the windows. The conservative men pleaded with the crowd and as this did not stop the angry ones appeals were sent to Attorney General Richards and Gov. Lea.

The Milford company of the state guard was summoned by Col. Townsend and if further attempts are made the soldiers will be sent to the jail. Sheriff Baker of Kent county and Sheriff Lynch of Sussex county hope to take the prisoner to the Dover jail tomorrow.

The negro gives the name of John Long. When he accosted Miss Booze yesterday he knocked her down, filled her mouth with dirt and tore her clothing. She managed to free herself and screamed. The negro fled to a swamp where he was captured this afternoon.

INNOCENT WOMEN AID CLEVER YOUNG THIEVES

Three Little Boys Describe Their Novel Method of Robbing Department Stores.

Bartley and Torley Ridge and Joseph Smith, small boys, confessed to a novel way of robbing stores to Alderman Groetzinger yesterday, and were held for the juvenile court. They were accused of stealing $3 worth of goods from a downtown department store.

The boys admitted they had been robbing stores for months, and this is how they did it:

The boys would enter a store and walk alongside a woman, giving the clerks the impression that they were the women's children. When the woman stopped at a counter they would stand alongside and pick up any article of value that was within reach. In this manner they would follow their innocent accomplice until they had made a good haul, when they would unobtrusively leave the store.

COPPER WORKINGS OF LOCAL MAN WORTHLESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

VERSHIRE, VT., Jan. 16.—After expending more than $1,800,000 during the past six years in purchasing and working the copper fields mines, for many years the third largest in the United States, George Westinghouse of Pittsburgh has abandoned his search for copper in the Vershire mountains, and as a result the village is now practically deserted.

Scores of miners and their families have left town, and now there are not a dozen families, where the population at one time was more than 1,000. Throughout the village all the dwellings formerly occupied by the employes are being sold and moved away or torn down.

The machinery, boilers and furnaces are being blown up by dynamite.

MR. CLEVELAND CANNOT GO TO THE FUNERAL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 16.—The Rev. W. M. Cleveland, brother of former President Grover Cleveland, died last night from the effects of paralysis. He was 73 years old and died at the home of his son, W. N. Cleveland, in this city. The Rev. Mr. Cleveland was a retired Presbyterian minister.

The body will be taken to Cleveland for interment. Relatives here say that former President Grover Cleveland cannot attend the funeral, as he is not able to make the journey.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Former President Cleveland came to New York today from his home in Princeton. It was said tonight that while Mr. Cleveland is not ill, he is not feeling in the best of health.

Dr. J. D. Bryant, Mr. Cleveland's physician, speaking of the former president's health, said: "Mr. Cleveland is slightly indisposed but is not by any means ill. The trip to Ohio is so long and so tedious I advised Mr. Cleveland not to go. He reluctantly consented not to do so."

STATE TREASURY SHORT.

Gov. Hoch of Kansas Makes Statement Implicating Two Holders of That Office.

TOPEKA, KAS., Jan. 16.—A total shortage in the Kansas state treasury of about $18,000, is shown by the report of Accountant Morris, in the treasury examination just closed, according to a summary of the report prepared by Gov. E. W. Hoch, and made public late this afternoon. The report covers the state treasury from January 1, 1896, to June 30, 1905, inclusive, including the two full terms of former State Treasurer Frank Grimes and one term and six months of the present administration of Thomas T. Kelly.

The larger part of the shortage is in the Grimes administration. Sixty thousand dollars is due to missing coupons from bonds owned by the state school fund and $18,600 to loss of interest on warrants issued by the territory of Oklahoma. Former State Treasurer Grimes denies any responsibility for the shortage in Oklahoma warrant interest, and says he is able to account satisfactorily for all the bond coupon shortage except $7.15.

PHILIPPINE BILL FOR LOWER TARIFF IS PASSED

OPPOSED BY PENNSYLVANIANS

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—At 6:30 this evening, after a long day of fighting, of charges and counter charges, of accusations of inconsistency, demagogy and chicanery of almost every sort, the house passed the Philippine tariff bill, without amendment except such changes as were recommended by the ways and means committee or accepted by the administration leaders. These changes were unimportant and, as the bill went through, importations from the Philippines to the United States will be admitted at 25 per cent of the Dingley rates until April 10, 1909, after which there will be absolute free trade between these countries.

The bill was passed with the aid of Democratic votes. The beet sugar men carried their insurrection through to the end, but they were too few to make very much of a showing. On the final vote there were 258 for the bill and 71 against. Of the 71 who voted against it, 61 were Republicans and 10 Democrats. There were 329 members present and voting on the last roll call, and thus it would have required 165 votes to pass the bill by a bare majority. Ninety-seven Democrats voted with the Republicans for the bill, and deducting this number from 258, leaves 161 Republicans who supported the measure, or four short of enough to pass it if the Democrats had not turned in and helped.

Five members of the Pennsylvania delegation voted against the bill—Cassell, Dresser, Lafean, Smith and Wanger. They were moved to take this course by the arguments of the tobacco interests of the state which insisted that the passage of the bill would do the Pennsylvania farmer a very serious injury. The one lone Democrat of the delegation, Mr. Kline, voted for the bill.

The Democratic substitute met with only the support of the minority and went down under a vote of 231 to 105. On the final passage of the bill the "insurgents" demanded a roll call that their record might be preserved.

The bill admits goods of the growth or production of the Philippine islands into the United States free of duty except sugar, tobacco and rice, on which a tariff of 25 per cent of the Dingley rates is levied. It provides that after April 11, 1909, there shall be absolute free trade each way between the United States and the Philippines. It also exempts Philippine goods coming to the United States from the export tax of those islands. Merchandise from either country is subjected to the internal revenue tax of the country in which such a merchandise is withdrawn for consumption.

USE OF MONEY IN POLITICS NOT BEFORE SOLONS

All Other Bills Presented in General Assembly at Harrisburg.

FOR GREATER CITY

STATE TREASURY INQUIRY

Special Telegram From
WALTER J. CHRISTY, Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—Bills covering all the subjects proposed in the call for the special session but that of the use of money in politics, are now in the hopper. Many others are to come, and next week will find the lawmakers hard at work with good prospect of completing their labors in 30 days. Tomorrow an adjournment will be taken until Monday as nothing can be done in the way of public hearings so late in the week.

In brief these are the bills now in the hands of the committees of the legislature in answer to the call of the governor:

Greater Pittsburgh bills by Representatives Cook of Pittsburgh and Henderson of Allegheny.

State deposits—Bills by Representative Creasy of Columbia and Richards of Northampton. The Republicans have not presented their legislation on this subject. Measures covering it have been prepared by Attorney General Carson.

Civil service—Bill by Senator Goehring of Allegheny.

Senatorial apportionment—Bill by Senator Roberts of Montgomery.

Will Know About Fund.

The house by a unanimous consent this afternoon adopted without a dissenting vote a resolution presented by Mr. Flynn, Democrat of Elk, calling upon the state treasurer and auditor general to furnish the legislature within 10 days an itemized statement containing the amount of cash in the state treasury and in the sinking fund, the amount of securities now in possession of the treasury and the character thereof, which have been bought within the last six days with the funds of the sinking fund; the amount of securities now in the treasury as part of the sinking fund or surplus fund; the amount of deposits of said funds and the security held for the same; also the sum raised by taxation last year and the current expenses and appropriations of the state government.

A similar resolution was introduced in the senate and referred to the judiciary general committee with instructions to report it within three days. There will be a caucus of senate Republicans tomorrow morning for the purpose of appointing a steering committee.

Annexation Measure Presented.

Mr. Cook presented the Guthrie-Watson Greater Pittsburgh bill this afternoon. At the same time Mr. Henderson put in the annexation measure prepared by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Pittsburgh. Neither of the representatives are members of the municipal corporations committee which will pass on the legislation. All the hearings desired will be granted.

Mr. Woodward, of McKeesport says he will not state his position on the bill presented by Cook until he has an opportunity to consult with his constituents. He would like to secure some kind of an amendment which would protect McKeesport now and in the future against annexation without a separate vote.

There is still an unsettled situation so far as the legislative and senatorial apportionment bills affect Allegheny county. In the senate Wilbert and Woods will fight for districts other than those prepared by Tredway. Wilbert has figured out this district for himself: the Sixth, Seventh, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-third wards of Pittsburgh. This would make a district with a population of 121,550. He really prefers his present district. In any settlement he will insist on the retention of the Fourteenth and Twenty-third wards. Mr. Woods is working out a district for himself.

In the representative apportionment Smith and Woodward want changes. Smith lives in the Fourteenth ward and he is placed in a district with the South Side. He is preparing a draft of a new district.

Woodward does not want McKeesport put into a separate district. He prefers to have the Eighth district lines remain the same and allow it to elect four members. There is a constitutional barrier to this, but he argues that if the constitution is not followed in making the senatorial apportionment, he should be allowed some leeway.

A Mean Democrat.

ESTIMATES REVEALED

They Call for Tax Rate of Over 17 Mills— Appropriations Increased Over $1,500,000.

MEETING OF SUB-COMMITTEE

A tax levy of 17½ mills and a bond issue of $1,000,000 is proposed by the present city administration for the fiscal year beginning February 1, according to the estimates which have been prepared by the departments of the city government and submitted by Mayor Hays to the sub-committee of councils which was appointed to make the annual appropriations and to fix the millage. The estimates were made public yesterday for the first time.

The appropriations, which are asked by the administration for the ensuing year, reach the sum of $9,714,426 51, independent of any bond funds that will be spent for filtration, water extension, payment of claims against the city and other purposes. The total appropriations of 1905 were $8,172,313 62. The estimates for 1906 show an increase over last year of $1,542,112 89. To raise this amount of money would necessitate an increase in the tax levy of about 4½ mills. The present tax levy is 13 mills.

The tax levy is based upon the valuation of taxable property. The taxable valuation last year was $400,000,000, and an increase of not over $6,000,000 is expected this year from new buildings, which would make a total valuation of $406,000,000 upon which to base the millage for 1906.

Bond Issue for Water Extensions.

When the millage is computed by the municipal financiers, 15 per cent is always deducted for exonerations, discounts and uncollected taxes. This would reduce the revenue-raising power of 1 mill to about $344,250, and require four and one-half times that amount to meet the proposed increase in the appropriations.

Besides this heavy increase in the appropriations, Director Bigelow recommends a bond issue for water extensions, which aggregate $1,000,000. The director asks for an additional appropriation of $681,863 for water extensions and the construction of new pipe lines, but there are many more items in connection with Mr. Bigelow's elaborate scheme extending the water system that are not included in the regular appropriations.

He proposes to spend $250,000 for water extension in the Black Horse hill district of the Twentieth ward; $232,000 for a new main out Second avenue, from Smithfield avenue to Greenfield avenue; $107,000 for a main in Second avenue, from Greenfield avenue to Glenwood; $58,000 for a new pumping station at Hazelwood, $26,000 for lines to and from the proposed Hazelwood station, $32,000 for the general improvement of the Hazelwood district.

Improvements for East End.

He asks for $120,000 for a line from Highland reservoir No. 1 to Larimer avenue, $48,000 for a line from Larimer avenue and Station street to Chaucer street, $125,000 for a line from Chaucer street to Penn avenue, $72,000 for a line in Penn avenue from Braddock avenue to near Lexington avenue, $14,000 for a line in Frazier street to Forbes, $6,000 for a line in Aliquippa street, $54,000 for a line from Herron Hill reservoir to Aliquippa street, $58,000 for a line in Forbes street in the Squirrel Hill district, $26,000 for a line in Bedford avenue and the Grant boulevard, and $15,000 for a line in the Beechwood boulevard.

Director Bigelow asks an appropriation of 180,000 for a general extension of the pipe lines and $60,000 to renew the 50-inch rising main from the Brilliant pumping station to Highland reservoir No. 1. He also asks for $20,000 to reline the Bedford reservoir.

Director Bigelow asks for a total appropriation this year of $2,449,305 96, an increase of $558,600 over last year. He asks for an increase of $80,000 for the bureau of highways and sewers.

Light Cost Slightly Reduced.

Although he has promised to reduce the price of street lighting at least $50,000 a year, he makes a reduction of only $26,-654 in the appropriation for light this year.

Mr. Bigelow proposes to spend less money for street improvements this year than he did last year. He asks for an appropriation of $132,300, which he will spend for the improvement of the following streets:

Seventh avenue, Liberty to Grant, $10,000; Second avenue, Grant to Smithfield, $2,000; Strawberry alley, Liberty to Smithfield, $2,000; Fifth avenue, Market to Smithfield, $1,500; Duny street, Penn to Mifflin, $3,000; Thirty-seventh street, Penn to Mifflin, $3,000; Twenty-ninth street, Liberty to Penn, $2,400; Twenty-fifth street, Spence alley to the A. V. R. R., $1,500; Center avenue, north side, Euclid to Aiken, $5,900; Center avenue, Shady avenue bridge to Craig, $5,000; Center avenue, Highland to Penn, $3,500; Baum street, Amber street, east, $5,000.

Street Repaving Schedule.

Moore Explains Increases.

Director Moore is asking a total appropriation of $1,724,742 52 for the public safety department, an increase of $25,-213 84 over last year. Director Moore submitted a lengthy statement with his figures. He explained the increases asked for the bureaus of his department.

The representatives of the newspapers were not invited to the meeting of the sub-committee, which was held in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon, but when they found the door unlocked and walked in they were permitted to remain, although the sub-committee refrained from discussing the appropriations while they were present.

Director Clark was present to explain the increase which he asks for the department of charities. Director Bigelow looked in the door a few minutes, but did not enter the room. Mr. Barry moved that the sub-committee adjourn to meet at the call of the chair and that the directors be summoned to appear at the next meeting to explain their estimates. The estimates for 1906, compared with the appropriations of 1905, are as follows:

THAT $100 REWARD MAY GO TO YOU

MANY PERSONS GET CASH

GAZETTE "LUCKY PIECES" MAY BRING REWARDS

Look for a "Lucky Piece."

If you find one, keep it. It may bring you $100.

A "Lucky Piece" is an aluminum disc, just the size of a half dollar, with a number stamped on one side and the familiar "Coon" on the reverse.

All through the wide territory in which the daily and Sunday Gazette circulate these "Lucky Pieces" are being lost. Each bears a number. Certain numbers will secure part of the fortune The Gazette is sharing among its readers. From time to time numbers will be called for. If you see in The Gazette's list the number of the good luck disc you hold, bring or send it to The Gazette office and get the amount named.

Do not expect to get a cash reward unless the number of your "Lucky Piece" is called for, but if the number of yours is announced, the amount named will be paid for its return. Watch the daily and Sunday Gazette for the lucky lists.

Someone has $100 coming to him or her for the asking. Some place in the wide territory in which the daily and Sunday Gazette circulate there's a "Lucky Piece" bearing a certain number, which will add $100 to the possessor's wealth. It may be you, or it may be someone else who will get it. But it is going to someone through The Gazette's generosity.

Heading the long new list of lucky numbers in next Sunday's Gazette will be that number. The "Lucky Piece" has been lost. Whether it has yet been found is not known, but the probability is that it rests quietly in somebody's pocket only waiting for the call. Of course, there will be plenty of other numbers calling for lesser amounts, and if you don't get that $100 you stand a chance of receiving something. Anyhow, it's worth while for you to get next Sunday's Gazette and see.

All day yesterday fortunate persons who had seen their numbers listed called at The Gazette office or sent in and secured their rewards. Two New Castle residents, Samuel Grigg of 173 Sampson street and Daniel Mooney of the St. Cloud hotel, each got $5. The former had No. 28,118 and the latter No. 47,522.

Five-year-old Elizabeth White-side of 1217 Sixth avenue, Beaver Falls, secured a dollar for each of her years by presenting No. 28,841, which she had found on the doorstep of her home. The little lady was thoroughly delighted with her good fortune. Another little girl of five also shared in the distribution. This was Ethel Cronin of Wood street, Wilkinsburg. When she picked up No. 34,618 on Franklin street some time ago she didn't know what it was, but when she arrived home her uncle told her what it was and advised her to keep it. She kept close watch on the lists as published from time to time in The Gazette and recently her patience was rewarded. Her uncle called yesterday and secured the money for her.

T. A. Devery, Fairmont, W. Va., No. 43,385	5
Mrs. F. D. Murton, 7039 Frankstown avenue, No. 21,127	2
A. H. Marlatt, Ambridge, Pa., No. 48,100	1
Miss Mary Morgan, New Castle, Pa., No. 47,671	1
Watson Antis, East Pittsburgh, Pa., No. 16,245	1
John Cochran, Hays, Pa., No. 44,822	1
Mrs. Anna McKean, 43 Lydia street, Carnegie, Pa., No. 43,502	1
Ralph E. Henninger, 121 Third street, Aspinwall, Pa., No. 45,627	1
Mrs. M. McGill, 1915 Vermont street, Allegheny, No. 21,582	1
John Curtis, Beaver Falls, Pa., No. 28,893	1

The foregoing are only a few of those who have benefited from The Gazette's generosity. What has come to them may also come to you if you find a "Lucky Piece" and watch The Gazette. That list next Sunday is going to be especially interesting to every holder of a "Lucky Piece" and you don't want to miss it. Better place your order with your carrier or newsdealer now for your paper. That $100 may come to you.

COURT CONTEST NOT FOR MAGEE

Even if Jenkinson's Nomination Were Upset, He Would Not Necessarily be Nominee.

ABLE LAWYERS ADVISE HIM

Recognizing that even if he succeeded in defeating the nomination of A. M. Jenkinson for mayor, his own nomination would not be thereby assured, William A. Magee yesterday abandoned his intention to contest in court the result of the primaries. The returning board will there fore canvass the returns in the usual way.

In abandoning his contest Mr. Magee says he does not therefore confess that Mr. Jenkinson was nominated, even on the face of the returns. The official returns are still enclosed in the envelopes sent in by the district primary election boards. The result announced on Monday by Chairman Leslie was figured out on the unofficial returns received at Republican headquarters. Mr. Magee still has hope that the unofficial figures may be proved to be incorrect. On his own unofficial figures he claims a majority of only 30; Jenkinson's majority, by the headquarters unofficial figures, is more than 3,700.

Although abandoning his idea of a contest before the returning board, Mr. Magee would still have a chance to upset the nomination, providing that his charges of fraud, violence, intimidation and bribery were true. He could go into court and contest Mr. Jenkinson's nomination certificate.

Would Not Nominate Magee.

If he proved his charges the court would declare the nomination certificate "wholly void," and Mr. Jenkinson would not be on the Republican ticket, but neither would Mr. Magee be put on the ticket by the court. The nomination being void, there would be a vacancy which the city committee would be authorized to fill. That committee could nominate a third party, or even Mr. Jenkinson, wholly ignoring Mr. Magee, and, therefore, he has abandoned his proposed contest.

The action of the returning board will be final, but Mr. Magee and his representative on the board, Kirk Q. Bigham, will scrutinize every step closely. Mr. Magee practically said yesterday that while he will not allow technicalities to thwart the wish of the voters, even of those who voted against him, yet he will insist that the precedents established when the vote of the last county primary election was canvassed, shall be adhered to. Where any papers indicate fraud in the counting of the vote or any other fraudulent practice, the representatives of both sides will insist on their rights.

Meeting of Returning Board.

The returning board met at 3 p. m. in the Republican headquarters in Grant street. The session was public, of course, and fully 150 Republicans were in the rooms. City Chairman M. G. Leslie, Secretary Robert Ostermaier and Treasurer Thomas G. McClure, three members of the board, were present. Mr. Leslie asked who Mr. Jenkinson's personal representative on the board was, and S. C. Jamison responded. Mr. Bigham came forward and announced that he represented Mr. Magee. Chairman Leslie said Vice Presidents F. C. Beinhauer and William M. Benham were also members of the board, but were unable to be present.

Mr. Magee said that before the board qualified he desired to make a statement.

He then read a typewritten document addressed to the city executive committee and the returning board. He said he objected and protested against Leslie, Ostermaier and McClure sitting on the returning board; that they, constituting three-fifths of the returning board (Mr. Magee does not agree with Mr. Leslie that the two vice presidents are members of the board) were biased in favor of Jenkinson and prejudiced against Magee, and would be unable to act fairly and impartially. Those three, he continued, managed and conducted the campaign of Jenkinson, had repeatedly declared Jenkinson to be the candidate of the Republican organization, and had announced they had canvassed the official returns and had found Jenkinson was nominated.

A Communication for Leslie.

Mr. Magee then read a separate communication to Mr. Leslie, as chairman of the city executive committee, asking him to convene the city committee, so that it might appoint a special returning board to act on the returns and contests of the primary election.

Mr. Magee then said if the board decided to qualify, he would like afterward to make another statement. Mr. Leslie replied:

"We shall be glad to hear anything you may have to say. The board will be sworn."

W. B. Horner, a notary public, administered the oath to each member. Then the board organized, Leslie being elected chairman, Ostermaier secretary and McClure treasurer. Leslie turned to Magee and told him the board was ready to hear him.

"I wish to say," said Mr. Magee, "that this board is unfairly and improperly constituted. I believe if this board were to hear the evidence which I intended to submit, by reason of the bias of three members of the board, my representative on the board and I would not obtain the fair and impartial hearing to which I am entitled and the decision of the board would be unfavorable to me; that I am advised by able counsel that I have no recourse in the courts in case of an unfavorable verdict from this court, and therefore my representative and I will not look further than the face of the returns to decide this contest. I thank you, gentlemen, for having heard me."

Would Abide by Precedents.

The board agreed to meet daily at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., beginning today, until the returns have been canvassed. Mr. Magee asked that the board decide certain questions which would be apt to arise in the course of the canvass, and he thought they ought to be decided before they arose; that is, that the board indicate in advance its policy on those questions. Mr. Leslie said that precedents in the canvass of the votes of the last county primary election had arisen and the board intended to abide by those precedents. Mr. Magee said that was satisfactory to him.

Mr. Magee's determination not to go into the courts was taken yesterday after he had heard from his counsel, D. T. Watson and J. M. Swearingen. Their letter to Mr. Magee is as follows:

You have consulted us on certain questions of law likely to arise in case you contest the nomination of Mr. A. M. Jenkinson as a candidate for mayor by the Republican party of Pittsburgh, and we advise you on these questions as follows:

First—The returning board by section 13 of rule 3 of the Republican party is made up of the chairman and other executive officers of the city committee, together with one other person designated by each candidate.

Second—A majority of this board may reject in whole or in part the vote of any district, if satisfied of fraud or violence.

Returning Board Decides.

Third—This returning board, under section 15 of rule 3 of the Republican party, has jurisdiction to hear and determine all contests.

Fourth—By section 16, rule 3, the chairman and secretary of the city committee shall certify the nominations to the county commissioners of the candidate who is declared nominated by said returning board.

Fifth—To this certificate filed with the commissioners you may file objection, both in that office and in the court of common pleas, and the court will speedily hear and determine the same.

Sixth—The jurisdiction of the court is not expressly and by words limited, but the act says (P. L. 1903, 225): "If the court decides the certificate or paper objected to was not filed by parties entitled under this act to file the same, it shall be wholly void." This would seem to indicate that the only question the court could pass upon is this: "Were the parties who did file the certificate the parties entitled to file the same?" That is, the parties appointed for that purpose by competent authority.

But the different courts of common pleas, including Judge Shafer in re Douglass' nomination, have held that the court had the power to go behind the certificate and inquire as to fraud, and under these decisions you could raise before that court the question whether the certificate is honest or fraudulent and the result of a conspiracy, the burden of proof being upon you to prove the charge of fraud and conspiracy.

Seventh—If the court sustains your objections the act says the certificate of nomination will be "wholly void."

The court's decision does not put you on the party ticket as a candidate. The power to fill the vacancy on the party ticket would seem to be in the city committee under rule 5, section 4.

PITTSBURGH DELEGATES PLEASED WITH WORK

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Pittsburgh delegates to the river and harbor congress which closed its meeting today are highly pleased with the work of the meeting and believe that much good will result from it. Capt. W. B. Rodgers, who was a member of the committee on resolutions and who is one of the executive committee of the permanent organization formed, said:

It was a very successful meeting and I believe its influence will be great in the direction of internal improvements. Our platform calls for an annual expenditure by congress of at least $50,000,000, and if the national legislators adopt our views it will mean the inauguration of a great scheme of improvement of our waterways. The speeches were of a very high order and were very instructive. Pittsburgh had 16 delegates in the convention, which I believe was the largest delegation sent by any city in the country.

George H. Anderson, superintendent of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, who delivered an address before the convention Monday night, that was well received, is also well pleased with the work of the congress. He said:

It was a magnificent meeting and I think it will have a good effect. Ideas were developed that will have a wide influence we hope, on the action of congress in the future in the matter of river and harbor improvements.

Among the delegates who left for Pittsburgh tonight were W. H. Brown, W. H. Crump, J. F. Tilley, O. A. Blackburn and I. N. Bunton. Capt. Warren Elsey and Mrs. Elsey will return tomorrow evening. All the Pittsburgh delegates called at the White House today when the President received the members of the congress.

NAME JOHN S. GILLESPIE.

County Commissioners Select Him to Succeed D. J. Boyle as Superintendent of Roads.

John S. Gillespie of the Thirty-fifth ward was yesterday elected county superintendent of roads by the county commissioners, to succeed D. J. Boyle, resigned. Mr. Gillespie was mercantile appraiser last year, and while acting in that office raised more funds for the state, with less complaint on the part of the assessed, than any of his predecessors during an equal period. His record in this office attracted the attention of the county commissioners in filling the vacancy caused by Boyle's resignation.

Mr. Gillespie is a native of Scotland and located in what is now the Thirty-fifth ward in 1868. He was at one time a member of the fire bureau and later a foreman in the department of highways and sewers, still later becoming assistant superintendent of the First district.

The commissioners decided to withdraw the petitions concerning improvements of Long Run and Guys Run roads from the grand jury, because none of the present board of commissioners has ever been over the roads. Hereafter all roads where improvements are to be made will be visited by the commissioners before the petitions are sent to the grand jury.

Nicholas E. Simons was appointed as assessor of the Second ward, Duquesne, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. J. Elchler.

INDEPENDENTS TO ORGANIZE.

Window Glass Manufacturers to Meet in Pittsburgh Thursday—Will Mean Much.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 16.—The announcement was made here tonight by President A. L. Faulkner of the Amalgamated Window Glass Workers of America that a meeting of the independent manufacturers would be held Thursday in Pittsburgh to perfect a strong organization. The meeting, it is said, will mean much to the window glass industry of the country and is being looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation on the part of the manufacturers, workers and jobbers.

It was stated today by President Faulkner that the independent manufacturers had applied for a charter from the state of New Jersey and that the name of the organization will be the Manufacturers' organization.

President Faulkner also stated there would be no revision of the present wage scale of the workers, which was contemplated some time ago, as the organization of manufacturers would place the price of window glass on a basis which would enable the workers and manufacturers both to be benefited.

GALA NIGHT AT TARENTUM.

Opening of a New Theater Made an Event of Much Note.

arentum's new $60,000 theater, the Tareco, in Corbet street, was opened last night with "Our New Minister" as the attraction. The boxes were sold for $100 each, while the 1,200 seats sold from $1 to $5. At the close of the performance a banquet was held on the stage for the members of the theatrical company and friends of the Tarentum Realty Company, which owns the building.

Thomas Gunmert, president of the company, was toastmaster at the banquet and many short addresses were given. Music was furnished for both the play and the banquet by the Tareco orchestra. The new theater is handsomely appointed. The interior decorations are in red and gold. It is the first theater Tarentum has had since the old Alhambra burned five years ago.

IS CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

Lawrence C. Mayhorn of Oliver Thought His First Wife Had Been Divorced.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Lawrence C. Mayhorn, a machinist at Oliver, and a brother-in-law of Samuel S. Reymer of Pittsburgh, has been lodged in jail on a charge of bigamy. Mayhorn claims he thought his first wife had secured a divorce.

His second wife is Sallie R., daughter of William Paris of Oliver, and sister of Mrs. Reymer of Pittsburgh. She married Mayhorn December 24, 1905. Mayhorn's first marriage took place 12 years ago, and four children were born, all of whom are living. Mrs. Mayhorn No. 1 lives in Washington county, and recently applied for a divorce in the courts at Pittsburgh.

SWALLOWS HIS FALSE TEETH.

State Normal Professor Drinks Down His Molars in a Glass of Water.

WASHINGTON, PA., Jan. 16.—Awakening with a choking sensation the other evening Prof. J. A. White of the California State Normal school seized a glass of water and drank it at a gulp and then discovered he had swallowed his false teeth. Physicians made an examination with an X-ray machine and the teeth were located in the professor's stomach, but in a few days had disappeared.

The professor is suffering no inconvenience from the loss and says the most annoying feature of the case is the fact it is almost impossible for him to keep the students of his classes in order as they have learned of his experience.

Judson Takes Dr. Harper's Place.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Dr. Henry Pratt Judson, former dean, is now acting president of the University of Chicago. The board of trustees ratified the recommendation that Dr. Judson be appointed temporary successor to Dr. Harper, made yesterday by the committee on instruction and education. Dr. Judson said: "My policy is that of Dr. Harper. I will simply carry out his great purpose and plans."

BURGLARS DRUG FAMILY AND RANSACK THE HOUSE

Eight Attempts Are Made to Enter Leetsdale Residences and Three Are Successful.

Eight houses in Leetsdale were visited by burglars, and in one case the whole family was chloroformed, the members awaking to find the house had been ransacked and valuables missing. This was at the residence of W. C. Thomas, in Washington street, where entrance was gained by means of a cellar window. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and several children were chloroformed, and one daughter, Helen, who was in another apartment, heard the intruders, but was too frightened to give the alarm. A gold watch, three gold rings and clothing were secured.

A suit of clothes was secured at the residence of Edward Dorscheid and several articles of value were taken from the home of Carl Renner. The residence of Chief of Police William Levin, Beaver street, and E. J. Laverty and H. C. Frew, Washington street, were visited, but the men were scared away. The burglaries are blamed on a gang which has been operating for several weeks past in boroughs along the Ft. Wayne railroad.

BELIEVE DEVIL HAS COME.

Weird Story in Circulation Among the Ignorant of Fayette County.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—A report of the birth at Beeson's works, near here, of a devil child, equipped with horns and tail is accepted as true by the credulous and superstitious both in Uniontown and at the place where the monster is alleged to have been born. The story is told that some time ago the woman was asked by a traveling agent to buy a picture of Christ.

She is alleged to have refused, remarking that she "would rather have the devil in her house that Christ's picture." The reported birth of the devil baby is pointed out by some as a visitation of God's wrath. A few of those who have helped to circulate the story, more daring than the others, declare when the child was seven days old it said to its mother: "I'm the devil, and I have come to stay."

PLEADED LONG SERVICE.

Former Convict, After 12-Year Term, Threatens Iowa Legislators for Refusing Him Job.

DES MOINES, IA., Jan. 16.—D. S. Clayman, a former convict, was arrested at the door of the senate chamber this afternoon charged with threatening the lives of Representative H. E. Teachout and Senator C. C. Dowell, because Dowell failed to get him employment.

Clayman was sent to the penitentiary from Adair county for wife murder 12 years ago. He served his time and then came to Des Moines, soliciting a position in the state house, because as he said, he "had served the state for 12 years." He threatened to blow up the state house when arrested today.

He was traveling on the Pennsylvania limited, and was taken ill early Tuesday morning just before the train reached Pittsburgh. There a physician boarded the train and came to this city with Mr. Field. When they arrived at 10:20 Tuesday night Mr. Field was taken at once to the Holland house, a New York physician was called and a consultation was held. Mr. Field was at once placed in charge of trained nurses and later the family physician and Stanley Field, Mr. Field's nephew, were summoned from Chicago.

In the early morning hours today gloom once more began to settle over those around the sick room. Mr. Field did not rest well during the last hours of the night. The disease spread in the lung and his condition at 9 a. m. was described by the physicians as "worse than last evening."

His condition continued to become more desperate with every moment and by noon the last ray of hope was gone. At 2 o'clock it was announced that the patient was sinking steadily and at 3:20 o'clock word came from the sick room that Mr. Field only had a few more minutes to live.

Enormous Business.

Mr. Field was America's greatest merchant. Beginning his business career in Chicago 50 years ago almost to the day, he forged ahead rapidly until his pre-eminence became unquestioned.

Laying the foundation of his fortune before the fire of 1871, he lost heavily in that holocaust, but rapidly retrieved his losses, and within a very few years his house was doing a business aggregating $8,000,000 annually.

In 1881 the Field stores were making sales totaling in the 12 months $25,000,000. In 1895 the aggregate business was conservatively estimated at $50,000,000.

Mr. Field's fortune is conservatively placed at $100,000,000. While these figures are the ones believed to be nearest the actual mark, many persons in Chicago, who knew Mr. Field intimately, declare he was worth $150,000,000. His fortune increased so fast in the last five years that it is said he himself hardly grasped its immensity. His dividends were large, his securities grew in value, his income, in fact, from every source was doubling and even tripling itself from year to year. His real estate holdings in and near Chicago are estimated at $50,000,000.

Mr. Field was a heavy stockholder in the Pullman Palace Car Company for many years. He owned large holdings in Chicago & Northwestern, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Baltimore & Ohio and other railroads. His interest in 20 corporations outside of railroads was extensive. His mercantile power spread to every country and into all climes. He had factories in most of the important European cities where articles of rarity and beauty are made.

Great Mental Capacity.

Mr. Field's ability to keep in touch with every department of his varied interests was peculiar to himself. He did so with apparently little effort. His was a mind to grasp. He quickly learned, and once the idea was registered in his brain there it remained.

Although immersed in business affairs from early manhood, Mr. Field loved his home. The death of his first wife darkened his life, but gradually he threw aside the gloom that hung him almost captive and mingled more with his families. Of late years he had played a great deal of golf and was devoted to the sport.

The last year of his life was eventful. He possessed a mighty joy and dealt a fearful blow. The high tide of his happiness came with his marriage, on September 6, 1905, to Delia Spencer Caton, whom he had known for 20 years or more. The wedding was held in London in St. Margaret's church, Westminster, and was attended by a few of the near friends and relatives of the contracting parties. A honeymoon trip on the continent ensued, but Mr. and Mrs. Field returned to Chicago late in October.

They had been home one month when the accident that eventually resulted in the death of Marshall Field, Jr., occurred. The young man was fatally injured by a shot from a revolver, which was accidentally discharged.

Mr. Field was born in May, 1834, at Conway, Mass., and was a clerk in a store at Pittsfield, Mass., in 1851.

Early Life in Chicago.

Entering into the employ of Cooley, Wadsworth & Co., in Chicago, in 1856, his services proved valuable enough to insure him in 1840, four years afterward, a membership in the firm. From then on his upward growth as a merchant was as great as it was remarkable.

The financial loss of the firm by the fire of 1871 was $3,500,000, on which insurance to the amount of $2,500,000 was collected. Temporary quarters were almost immediately rented in the street car stables on the corner of Twentieth and State streets. This new location was quickly filled with goods and customers. The old store, at State and Washington streets, was replaced by a new one of larger and finer proportions, and was devoted exclusively to the retail trade. A large building—one of the largest of its kind—was erected at Madison and Market streets for the wholesale business. The fire, instead of discouraging the firm, doubled its activity and capacity.

It was the policy of Mr. Field to keep this prestige and to encourage house popularity. His salesmen and his employes were aware of this wish, and their combined efforts have never permitted the house reputation to recede from the mark set for it by its head in the years gone by.

If in this Mr. Field took particular pride he also encouraged for the benefit of his employes a civil service system—a system by which through merit they might rise in his employ. It was possible, and often occurred, for a cash boy in his service to rise to the head of an important department and to become a confidential employe.

Rules of Business.

He generally devoted as many hours to business as did his employes. He often gave the retail store an hour or two in the morning. The rest of the day he usually spent in his office at the wholesale building. Most of the time entrances was free to any one having business with Mr. Field.

Of Mr. Field's social life there is not much to be said. His tastes were extremely modest. He lived in quiet luxury. He went but little into society and never was in public life. His charities were generous, but unostentatious.

His gift long ago of a large tract of land for the erection of the University of Chicago gave the impression that he was a Baptist. He gave to the city of Chicago after the close of the world's fair the now famous Field Columbian museum. His benefactions bestowed in private aggregated many thousand dollars every year.

Politically, Mr. Field was usually classed as a Democrat, though he was never a partisan. He voted for Garfield, Blaine and Cleveland, and later for President McKinley in 1900 and 1900. When he attended church he usually went to the First Presbyterian.

He was married in 1862 to Miss Nannie Scott, daughter of Robert Scott, a prominent ironmaster of Ironton, O. By her two daughters and a son were born. One of the daughters died 20 years ago, and the other, Miss Ethel, married Arthur Tree, son of Lambert Tree, former United States minister to Russia. Mrs. Field died abroad.

Secrets of Success and Misfortunes of Career of a Merchant Prince

Marshall Field was born May, 1834, at Conway, Mass.

He was a clerk in a store at age of 17.

He reached Chicago in 1856.

Four years later he was a partner in firm of Cooley, Wadsworth & Co.

He lost $1,000,000 in fire of 1871.

Died in New York January 16, 1906.

It was the rule of conduct of Marshall Field's business that the following unwritten laws were always obeyed:

Never give a note.

Never borrow.

Never heavily mortgage real or personal property.

Work always on a cash basis.

Buy for cash and sell on short time.

Hold customers to strict enforcement of their contracts.

On Wednesday Dr. Walter B. James, who had been in attendance, called in Drs. Edward G. Janeway and Austin F. Rigg, and after a consultation the physicians announced that Mr. Field was found to be suffering from pneumonia. Dr. James said that the severe attack of bronchitis that preceded the pneumonia probably was contracted from the draughts on the train on which Mr. Field came to this city from Chicago.

Rally Not Prolonged.

Sunday night Mr. Field appeared to be sinking rapidly and Monday morning the physcians announced that all hope for his recovery had been abandoned. Mr. Field himself apparently believed that the end was at hand and by his request all the members of his family were summoned. Everyone present regarded the scene as a death watch and all nerved themselves for the closing of the final chapter in the career of the great merchant. Suddenly about mid-afternoon, there came a remarkable change. The strength which gradually had slipped away from the patient seemed suddenly to be rushing back. He looked up and smiled, asked for a drink and then sank into a peaceful restful sleep.

SILAS CARTER IS FINALLY CAUGHT

was never out of Allegheny county since the shooting.

"The police did not recognize me with my beard and I was just as safe here as anywhere else. Why, seven months after the shooting, when I was all tired out, disgusted and without money, I decided to end it all by giving myself up. It was on December 12, 1903, and I came from Allegheny to the Pittsburgh public safety building to give myself up. I walked in the building and went back through the corridor as far as the office of John McAleese, who was then superintendent of police. Then I changed my mind again. I decided that as I had suffered and endured a great deal I might just as well stand more of it. I turned around and walked out of the public safety building and went back to Allegheny. While in the public safety building I bumped into a number of policemen and detectives, but none of them knew me.

His Actions After Killing Sheehy.

"After shooting Sheehy I went down Elm street to Wilson street, and from there out Fulton street. I worked my way to the Bluff, overlooking Second avenue. There I hid under some steps near the garbage furnace. I remained there all day Sunday. After dark I went down to the river and walked along the river to the Point bridge, where I stole a skiff and went across the river to Allegheny. While on the river I dropped overboard the revolver with which I killed Sheehy.

"For the first three weeks I was in Allegheny I lived in box cars and begged what I got to eat. At the end of that time my beard had grown out and my appearance was much changed. Then I went to work for a contractor in lower Allegheny who was excavating a ditch. I worked three days, but the work was too hard for me and I gave it up and went to High bridge, where I lived in a shanty and worked wherever I could get an odd job."

In connection with his life in this shanty, Carter told how one day when Nellie Hogan, the woman with whom he lived in Pittsburgh before he killed Policeman Sheehy, was scheduled to visit him in his retreat, and while he was awaiting her coming, he saw her approaching at a distance and at the same time noticed a man behind her who seemed to be following her. Carter soon made out this man to be a detective, and getting out of the shanty at the rear, hid in some bushes on a hillside. From that point he watched the detective make a thorough search of the premises after Nellie Hogan had gone away.

Cold Weather Nearly Weakened Him.

Continuing his story, Carter said:

"I lived in the shanty until the cold weather set in and then I went to the mills in Lower Allegheny and slept about the furnaces at night. A woman gave me an overcoat for chopping some wood for her and that protected me from the cold some. However, the weather was bitter cold, and it was then I decided to give myself up.

"When I saw the police and detectives did not know me I became encouraged and went to the Black Diamond steel works and got work. I worked there for three months. Nobody knew me. I went by the name of 'Dick' Hill. I left the mills because the work was hard and started to take odd jobs. I spent most of my time in Allegheny. Then I got work from James W. McFarlane, who owns considerable property in Allegheny and Pittsburgh. In April, 1905, he offered me a job as janitor of some flats at 69 Fulton street.

"I decided to take this job. I knew the police and detectives were of the opinion I was out of the city, and they would never think I would have the nerve to work almost in the same place where the shooting took place. My beard concealed the scar on my face, and I felt safe. Policeman Terry is on the beat in Fulton street, and I often talked to him. Terry and I were good friends. Terry once told me that he knew Silas Carter, and some day would catch him.

Often Talked to Policemen.

"'You will never get that coon,' I said. 'You cops don't know Silas Carter. I am the only man who knows Carter.'

"You know, Mr. Kennelly, when you have nerve you can do anything. One night I had a long talk with Turnkey Bob Smothers. We were standing in front of a club room. Bob started to talk about Silas Carter. He said he could pick out Carter's hide in a tan yard. I laughed. Poor Bob was talking to Silas Carter at the time. County Detective Reed and City Detective Cole I have passed many times in the street.

"County Detective Reed had me looking for myself. He came to the flats about a month ago and said he wanted to see Nellie Hogan. I called Nellie Hogan, and Reed said he wanted to search her rooms. Reed did so, and when he came out he called me outside of the house and told me he wanted me to look out for a negro known as Silas Carter, who was wanted for murder.

"He told me Carter came to see Nellie Hogan, and said the next time a negro came to the house who had a scar on the left side of his face to send word to the district attorney's office and he would come there for him. Reed stood close to me, but he did not see the scar under my beard. I told Reed I would look out for Carter, and I thought I would know him if he came around. Reed seemed pleased that he had engaged me for a stool pigeon."

"Mr. Kennelly, I never thought I would be caught. I could have been many miles from here if I wanted to go. But I knew the coppers in other cities and small towns would be making more effort to get me than the detectives and police would here. The local police never would believe I would have the nerve to remain right here. That's how I fooled them. Nearly every coon who gets in trouble jumps the town, and falls in the hands of constables or police of other cities or small towns.

"Why, I have read of 20 different negroes who were arrested for me. I would read of Detective Cole or Detective Reed going to some far away town in the south to identify a man who had been arrested there for me. That proves what I say, that the outside police were more alert in hunting for me than the local police were. That's the way I fooled them.

Gave John McAleese the Laugh.

"Once I read where John McAleese, then police superintendent, was sure he had me located in New York state.

"'That's my man,' McAleese said in the newspaper. That evening I saw McAleese passing in a street car and I laughed to myself. I never knew there were so many negroes who looked like me before.

"Well, I am caught, and I don't regret it. It's hard to live each day knowing the authorities are after you."

Policeman Matthew Bell was the first man to learn that Carter was working at 69 Fulton street as Richard Lee. He informed Assistant Superintendent Kennelly of the fact, and the latter detailed Bell, Special Officer Frank Curran and Detective Cole to make an investigation. Policeman Tallman Hughes was also detailed from the Center avenue station house.

The officers found Carter in a stable at the rear of 69 Fulton street. They asked him if his name was Lee and he replied it was. Detective Cole informed him he was wanted at Central station. "You are not Lee," said Policeman Bell, "you're Carter," as the officers suddenly closed in on the man.

Carter was described as having the first joint of the first finger of his left hand missing. Detective Cole pulled the prisoner's glove off and found the joint missing. "You are Carter," said Cole. At the Central station the prisoner admitted he was the right man and that he shot Policeman Sheehy.

Story of Sheehy's Murder.

Saturday, May 17, 1902, Policeman Sheehy went to assist Policeman John Joint in making an arrest in a barber shop at 32 Logan street. Joint took one negro and Carter was turned over to Sheehy. Carter, it is alleged, attempted to break away from the officer, and the latter beat him with his mace. Carter finally broke away and Sheehy gave chase. When he again caught the negro Sheehy jammed him up against a telegraph post and then started to pull his revolver. Carter reached for his weapon at the same time, and being the quicker fired four shots at the policeman. One took effect in Sheehy's shoulder and another in his breast. Sheehy fell under a wagon, and Adam Man, a well-known colored politician, assisted him to his feet and summoned a patrol wagon. Sheehy had been on the police force eight years at the time of his death. Carter at the time of the shooting lived at Nellie Hogan's house at 1326 Poplar alley.

Superintendent of Police Werner yesterday received word from Chief of Police Espick of New Philadelphia, O., that a negro had been arrested there who fitted the description of Carter. Supt. Werner notified Chief Espick that Carter was under arrest here.

Those who have been so insistently urging football reform will be pleased or the opposite, according to their idea of what constitutes reform, with the action taken in Harvard university and Union college in prohibiting the game for the present. Harvard's board of overseers has declared for "a decent, clean, pleasurable contest instead of the present apology for a rough and tumble fight." And that is exactly what the public, which supports the game with its dollars, would like to see.

Senator Brackett took occasion yesterday to urge on the New York senate his resolution demanding the resignation of Chauncey M. Depew from the senate of the congress of the United States. He was the only member voting for it, his 34 colleagues voting in the negative. It is true the insurance investigation cast aspersions on the character of Mr. Depew, but the gentleman has not been convicted of crime, nor of gross misrepresentation of his constituents. Mr. Brackett may think again.

A most encouraging announcement has been made by President Thomas of the Lehigh Valley railroad. It is that anthracite operators will meet John Mitchell and the mine workers' committee to discuss next year's scale. This removes one danger from the situation. We think President Mitchell of the union can be depended on to prevent any wholly unreasonable interpretation of the demand for "recognition of the union." Meeting the committee and consulting with it should suffice to satisfy that demand.

New York state's inspector of gas meters has been conducting a useful investigation, resulting in the discovery that of 6,887 meters in New York city which were tested last year, no fewer than 2,225 were found to be running in favor of the gas companies. Since one meter in three was found to be "fast," according to the same percentage there would be 300,000 in New York city defrauding the consumers. This question of "fast" meters is one not often brought to the consumer's attention, but it is worth looking into on the score of economy.

Predictions are now made, based on the current British elections, that parliament will be in control of the Laborites within ten years. It is a very unsafe prediction. One Laborite has been elevated to the cabinet by the Liberal prime minister and the constituencies have been encouraged to put up Labor candidates and support them. Unless these representatives make a showing of superior qualities in the house of commons they may be entirely eliminated within ten years instead of having control. English party sentiment is even less stable than the American.

In opposition to the Greater Pittsburgh bill the "Allegheny Defense association" has reappeared. As usual the ostensible objection is that Allegheny is not given a separate vote. This is a mere pretense to arouse "home rule" sympathy. The plain people of Allegheny are as anxious to get into Pittsburgh as the people of Pittsburgh are to have them come in. A separate vote would make no difference in the result, but would complicate the machinery. The "Allegheny Defense" is aware of this fact, but has no other plea to offer that is likely to appeal to public sentiment.

At last the Democratic members of council who have had possession of the department estimates have permitted them to be made public. They call for $1,514,562 more than the appropriations for the current year. This sum represents approximately four mills on the assessed valuation. In addition it is proposed to issue bonds to the amount of probably $1,000,000. One notable item of increase is for water extension and new mains, which was neglected a year ago to the public detriment. We may assume the estimates may be pared some, but the prospect is for a tax levy of not less than 15 mills, not an excessive rate if it leads to better things. It is better than putting off public improvements to make a false showing of economy as was done last year.

By the unanimous election of the duke of Almodovar as chairman, the Algeciras conference on Morocco organized for business yesterday. The duke announced three cardinal principles: the sovereignty of Morocco, commercial equality, or the open door, and the maintenance of peace and order as the desire of all represented. To this statement both French and German delegates gave cordial assent. There is left for consideration the method for preserving peace and order, on which French and Germans may split, but there is now no reason to anticipate war over the divergence.

Marking Out the Lines.

Former Senator Magee, on advice of counsel, abandoned the attempt to set aside the Republican party rules, or to coerce the returning board. He has contented himself with filing a protest against the board and making charges not supported by evidence. In the estimation of The Gazette he has taken his defeat with bad grace, but allowance will be made for the bitterness of disappointment. The future will be judged by what Mr. Magee and his friends do in the general campaign.

An investigation into the primary vote might have been welcomed by the party organization, because it would likely have resulted in complete refutation of all charges of fraud at the polls, but for the fact that it is time to begin the campaign for the general election in February. The opposition is in the field taking advantage of every circumstance that may be turned to bolster its case and the Republican party needs to bestir itself for its chosen candidate, nominated by popular vote, the fairest means known for selecting candidates.

Mr. Guthrie, the Democratic candidate, has been making public comment on the Republican dissension and the alleged "deal" with Citizens party leaders. He made no comment on the palpable deal between Citizens and Democratic party leaders three years ago, resulting in the present administration. Mr. Guthrie is too much a Democrat to notice that deal. But while he is appealing for Republican votes, he might better answer a few pertinent queries than to devote his time to imaginary "deals." If Mr. Guthrie is elected what part will William J. Brennen and James A. Clark play in administration councils? These gentlemen gave Mr. Guthrie the Democratic nomination. Are they to have any voice in the disposition of patronage? Mr. Brennen, at the instance of Mr. Guthrie, has been appointed a committee of one to dictate Democratic nominations for councils. Will Mr. Brennen have control of all such councilmen who happen to be elected? And what will be the relation between the mayor and the man who nominates all of the Democratic city candidates?

Lock Canal by Contract.

It has been decided by the administration to have the Panama canal built by contract. This decision is wise. It will relieve the administration of much responsibility and divide the work among contractors who can attend better to details than salaried men might. Of course, preference will be given American contractors and they will give preference to American machinery and supplies. It may be expected American labor will be employed as far as it is obtainable. The government will continue to handle the sanitary problem.

This decision in connection with that in favor of a lock canal assures confirmation of President Roosevelt's prediction that this generation will enjoy advantages from the canal. The decision favorable to a lock canal is proper enough despite the recommendation of the consulting engineers for a sea level canal. The engineers had to consider only ultimate conditions—the President takes account of expediency. It is notable the American engineers on the consulting board took the same view, having more regard for Uncle Sam's treasury and the immediate needs of American commerce than the gentlemen from abroad. We believe the American people generally will indorse both of these decisions.

An Imaginary Slaughter.

The report comes from Pittsburgh that in that city and its environs more than 17,000 persons were killed or injured last year in industrial establishments and on railroads. If that report is true it constitutes a reproach to civilization. Indeed, we might say that it indicates a lack of civilization and of progress in what is commonly supposed to be one of the most highly civilized and progressive communities in the world. Doubtless some deaths and injuries are inevitable. They are bound to occur in all circumstances of human existence and activity. But it seems virtually certain that due care would greatly diminish that casualty roll of 17,000.—New York Tribune.

The alleged news item on which the quoted editorial in the Tribune is based appeared in many newspapers under a Pittsburgh date line as of January 14. The high standing of the Tribune as a conservative newspaper demands some attention to the way in which it has been misled by one of the unprincipled "correspondence bureaus" that are trying to disgrace this city. There has been no official compilation of casualties in Allegheny county for 1905 and there is no authority for the figures noted by the Tribune.

While the correspondent who sent out the "news item" says the "persons killed and injured * * * * reached the enormous total of 17,700 in round numbers," he leaves the inference a large proportion have been killed or seriously hurt. The report of the coroner for the year contained a little less than 2,100 cases. Of these 323 were killed on railroads, most of them while trespassing on the tracks. A like number of killed is credited to mines, furnaces, mills and factories—altogether not one-half of the total coroner's cases. Of the injured there is no authentic record. Those suffering permanent injuries may possibly equal the number killed on railroads, in mines, mills and furnaces—say a grand total of 1,300.

This is a large casualty list, but it is far from the sensational assertion of "17,700 in round numbers." It does not rise to a sensation nor a "reproach to civilization." Minor injuries are suffered wherever industrial processes are carried on. Allegheny county has no undue proportion. It has its full share. Just as much care is taken here as elsewhere in this country, but more care might be taken. The Gazette has often pointed out remedies that would help to lower the casualty list of the county and of the state. But it protests most emphatically against the giving of credence to the monstrous stories sent out from here by penny-a-liners to the injury of Pittsburgh's reputation for ordinary sanity and humanity.

Philippine Bill Passed.

There is little indication in the final vote on the Philippines tariff bill of the "formidable insurrection" organized in the national house of representatives. One amendment was made to the bill, including rice with sugar and tobacco, to be dutiable to the extent of 25 per cent of the Dingley rates until 1909. Then the bill passed, 258 to 71.

Another test of the opposition strength will soon be made on the statehood bill. Objection to the admission of Indian territory and Oklahoma as one state has practically disappeared. The dissension is over the union of Arizona and New Mexico. President Roosevelt has charged the lobby with the corrupt use of money in opposing this portion of the bill. It is probable, however, the "insurrection" will rise no higher against joint statehood than against reduction of the Philippine tariffs. The same result may be anticipated in the house on rate regulation.

When it comes to considering the senate it is a different proposition. The senators are less afraid of possible popular sentiment and they are more vindictively opposed to the President's masterful assumption of authority. Mr. Roosevelt is regarded as a menace to senatorial prerogatives, senatorial dignity and senatorial courtesy. Some people say there is more real concern for "senatorial graft" (forbid the thought). In any event it is in the senate that genuine opposition to the administration measures may be looked for.

Making Hotels Safer.

Chicago's Iroquois theater disaster was followed by an agitation which resulted in making the playhouses of the country much safer for patrons. While the recent hotel fire in Minneapolis was accompanied by no such loss of life, it has started an inquiry not only in that city but in St. Paul, Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City and other places as to the means of escape provided by hotels in case of fire and the methods of construction of the buildings. The Minneapolis hotel, it is found, had "enormously heavy carpets in all its long halls" and nearly all the windows and many of the arches had heavy hangings. There were only two fire escapes on the big building and these were of the ladder variety, not of the modern stairway style. A Chicago newspaper wonders if there are more than two hotels in that city that are not "veritable firetraps." A St. Paul editor calls upon the Minnesota legislature for a law prohibiting the use of wood in the construction of hotels above a certain height. The Minneapolis hotel, ostensibly "as near fireproof as a building can be," contained 1,000,000 feet of lumber, according to the statement of one of its builders.

In addition to reforms in construction and an abundance of modern fire escapes, it is suggested that a vigilant watchman be stationed on every floor of large hotels to give a prompt alarm. A full discussion of the subject of hotel patrons' safety would doubtless result in the presentation of numerous other valuable suggestions.

The usually accurate New York Sun says President Roosevelt, upon the expiration of his term of office, will go to Africa to hunt lions and tigers. The African tiger is a decided rarity.

Enthusiastic correspondents seem to be doing their best to shoo the dove of peace away from the Algeciras conference.

As viewed through Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's monocle, the political situation is by no means rose-colored.

It is difficult to take seriously art criticisms coming from a town with such a wild west name as Buffalo.

Now Mr. Hearst will demonstrate he doesn't know when he's had enough by running for governor.

The "insurrection" in the house of representatives failed to come up to the advance notices.

The British Conservatives will know how to sympathize with American Democrats.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

By ERASMUS WILSON.

To really appreciate the present we must have the past as a background, and the more clearly it is outlined the more effective will be the picture.

By comparing your present state and condition with that of your immediate ancestors you will be enabled to appreciate your advantage. Without this background you will be more apt to feel that the world is not using you as you deserve, or that people were used better in the good old times than now.

And it may be remarked here that if you are not more favorably situated, and in condition to enjoy life more than your ancestors, you have hardly been keeping the pace set by them.

If you have not kept the pace set by your ancestors, if you are not as well fixed financially, if you are not as well educated, and if you do not stand as high socially, as they did, can you give a satisfactory reason why?

It might be well for all who have fallen behind their forebears in the race to ask the reason why, and determine upon whom the blame should rest, for you know that you should have inherited their qualities, and if you have added to this inheritance as you should have and done your part well you must be ahead of them, at least in intelligence, morals and general usefulness.

So, if you do not show to better advantage than your old folks it is important that you should strive to find out why you are as you are.

This alone should be sufficient incentive for you to look up your family history.

* * *

Mr. Quiet Observer:—My attention has been called to your article in The Gazette of December 30, '05, in which you speak of the mills of the early days, and in the course of the article you say, "There probably were no flouring or sawmills in the city proper, or nearer than Turtle Creek or Chartiers, Shirtee, as it was then called."

You must have forgotten that there is a stream of water on the west side of the river called Sawmill run.—We often see coal offices with the sign "Sawmill Run Coal."

Tracing the origin of the name we find that for many years there was a sawmill located at the mouth of the run, just above where the Pittsburgh, Chicago & St. Louis railroad bridge now crosses. The first old water mill was situated on the Steubenville pike a short distance above the site where Woods' rolling mill was afterward built, but on the opposite side of the pike, and for many years after the mill was abandoned the old water wheel could be seen hanging there after all else was gone.

I cannot give the date of the building of this mill. All the level bottom ground that is now covered with streets and buildings in the West End was then meadows, and the old mill race extended from quite a distance up the run through, or across, the meadows to the old mill.

Robert McLaren and Robert Suter, my father and my uncle, rented this mill from West Elliott, and my father added to the sawmill an apparatus for making oatmeal and barley, and was the first person to engage in that industry west of the mountains.

This was along in the last of the 20s and the early 30s. Later there was a sawmill built down on the level ground in the space between what is now Main street and the run, and below where the street crosses the run. Its power was steam and it was in operation for a long time.

In or about 1835 my father and uncle dissolved partnership, the latter bought a farm out near Chartiers creek, and father bought property on the Steubenville pike about half a mile from the river, where he built a steam grist mill, and filled it with grain, when it was burned with all it contained. He immediately rebuilt, and made flour, chopped feed and carried on his oat meal and barley trade for many years. The old mill building still stands, but has been converted into dwellings. It is built against the steep hillside, being but one story on the pike, while it is five stories on the lower side. The street cars running to Elliott and Sheraden turn off the pike (now Steuben street) just above the old mill building which is on the left side of the pike, or street, as you go from the city.

MRS. AGNES McLAREN WEAVER.

There seems to be a willingness on the part of the "old folks" to write reminiscences of early days and to tell again the stories they heard when they were young. And we can assure them that they are being highly appreciated, which should encourage them to keep up the good work.

No matter if your story is short, like the following, send it in.

Mr. Quiet Observer:—My grandfather told me that his parents emigrated from the north of Ireland in 1798. They came to Pittsburgh, bought wagons, oxen, etc., and drove out near Burgettstown, cutting a road part of the way to a farm which they bought, and where my grandfather was born in 1805. His elder brother was five years old when they arrived in this country and served in the war of 1812.

Grandfather remembered seeing Lafayette on his visit to Pittsburgh in 1825, I think, as all the local militia had a grand "muster day," and were drawn up to receive the marquis.

Plea for the Classic Course.

It is positively refreshing to find one of the captains of industry in this hour of material progress who places a high value upon classical education, and will not admit that any other system can displace it to the betterment of modern civilization. But Mr. Samuel Harden Church of Pittsburgh, Pa., is something more and something better than a railway official, vice president of a steel casting company, and Republican politician. He is also a student of history, and a poet, who has made many noteworthy essays in the literary field. In the Pittsburgh Gazette he publishes a plea for more of the old classical education and less reliance on mere technical training. The engineers, bridge builders and bankers themselves, he believes, would be better for it. He fears that "this practical age will crush out all imagination and beauty from the human intellect."—New York Times.

Adding to His Gas Supply.

Senator La Follette may seem to be doing nothing, but it is a safe guess that he is adding daily to his supply of pent up carbonic acid gas.—Chicago Tribune.

THE NORTHER.

Frosted white are the ridges high,
Gray is the icy floe;
But deckless blue is the clean-swept sky
Where the rollicking winds do blow.

The hunted mists drive on before,
The herded clouds behind,
And the wild woods whoop as they hear the blore
Of the horn of the Northern Wind.

"Ho! ho! ho!" laughs the good North Wind;
"Ho! ho! ho!" laugh we;
For he drives the cloud from the troubled mind
And the mist from the brooding sea.

Lone and grayly the marshland grieves,
Hushed are the hills forlorn;
But wildly gay is the dance of the leaves
When the Norther blows his horn.

He makes a rag of the flaunted flag,
A read of the rigid mast;
But the air is clean and the stars are sheen
Where the good North Wind hath passed.

"Ho! ho! ho!" shouts the Norther gay;
"Ho!" we hail again;
For he whirls the dust from the world away

SHOWS DRAWING ENORMOUS CROWDS

Automobiles Are Chief Topics in New York—Many Novelties Are to be Seen.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The two automobile shows are thronged day and night, neither appearing to have suffered through competition. While they are practically similar in exhibits, there are varied features in each, so that the lover of the automobile finds it necessary to go to both the garden and the armory to get the information he desires. More power, more speed, and more conveniences are being demanded in the 1906 automobile, and the leading manufacturers are trying to satisfy the tastes of the pleasure-loving public to whom the luxury of an automobile is approaching the line of necessity more closely year by year. But the big touring car, that commodious vehicle in which a man may bundle his entire family almost at a moment's notice and start off on a trip for health and landscape inspection, still remains a luxury and undoubtedly will for many seasons to come.

As a luxury, therefore, it is only natural that the owner who can afford the best should wish it to be eminently worthy of the name. Hence there has arisen a lively competition among the big manufacturers to add the greatest possible number of novel devices which may contribute to comfort while motoring. These luxurious fittings have been among the notable results of the past year. The limousine type, or closed car, introduced by the French carriage makers to this country a little more than a year ago, paved the way for the automobile to rival the most palatial private car for railroad use. The French were leaders in this type of car, as they have been in many other respects of automobile progress.

A Vanderbilt Builds Automobiles.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is to become a full fledged manufacturer of automobiles. There is no need, however, for the trade to worry at such fashionable and formidable competition in prospect, for Mr. Vanderbilt will only experiment in the building of cars for his own use. It turns out that this building of a racing car to uphold America's prestige in the two-mile-a-minute contest at Ormond was no mere temporary fad of the young millionaire. It has hitherto been a secret just where Mr. Vanderbilt and Francis Richard, the engineer employed to carry out his ideas, built the racers which may prove the sensation of the Florida meet. It was learned today that the shop is located at 353 Thirty-ninth street, and that Mr. Vanderbilt has leased the building for three years. He will equip it as a complete factory for his own builder.

McClellan Not a Reorganizer.

Mayor McClellan repeated today his statement he is not in politics, and he does not feel that "the reorganization of the party" is his task. It was suggested in a published talk with Edward M. Grout, that Grout, Littleton, the mayor and others had combined to reform the party from the inside, and emphasize the lesson of the last campaign, that the day of the boss is over. It was said that the mayor had discussed his plans with ex-President Cleveland. "I am not a politician, and Mr. Cleveland is not a politician," the mayor said. "I see Mr. Cleveland frequently, and we talk over many things, but we do not discuss politics. I am not making any combinations for the reorganization or reform of the party."

Coler Goes After Dirty Cars.

Borough President Bird S. Coler, in a letter to Health Commissioner Darlington, today characterized the B. R. T. cars as haunts of "malignant microbes," and asked that the health department compel the company to clean each car thoroughly every day and sweep the floor every trip. He said: "By the complaints of others and my personal experience I know of the exceedingly dirty condition of the cars operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company in this borough. It seems to me that absolutely no effort is made to keep these cars in a cleanly and sanitary condition. The seats and floors are covered with dirt and window panes are filthy."

Death Leaps Growing Popular.

The fourth suicide by jumping within 10 days was reported by the police today when Meyer Baum, a retired jeweller, leaped from 10th-story window at 51 Maiden lane to the roof of a two-story extension. He was killed instantly. Until January Baum was a member of the jewelry firm of Rothchild Bros. & Co., in the Maiden lane building, but on account of failing health, he had retired. Baum visited his old office this morning. He walked to the rear window, leaned out, and fell headlong, calling out as he left the window: "Good-by, all."

Words of Cheer from Croker.

John J. Scannell, former fire commissioner, returning from a visit to "Dick" Croker in Ireland, states the former leader of Tammany is pleased by the appointments made by Mayor McClellan and the latter's attitude. Mr. Croker also complimented Leader Murphy for his "brilliant leadership" in accomplishing the re-election of Mayor McClellan. Mr. Scannell added that Mr. Croker told him he proposes spending his last days in Ireland, but will visit this country on business trips.

Sibley's Retirement No Surprise.

Mr. Sibley's determination to retire from public life at the expiration of his present term in congress has been no secret, and his formal announcement of the fact will occasion no surprise. He has performed excellent service in the house and made a national reputation, but he feels that he must devote more time to himself and his own private affairs.—Oil City Derrick.

FIERCE POSTER WAR RAGED IN ENGLAND

During General Election London Was Plastered From One End to the Other.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Jan. 9.—War by poster has raged in England. There was not a blank on the side of a house where a poster could be pasted, that did not display some glaring indictment of one political party or the other.

Judging from the posters, England is going to the demolition-bow-bows by the first train in the direction. A stranger strolling down the Strand, and permitting himself to be influenced by these placards, would, after reading two or three, probably rush home in a motorbus and get his family out of the country before the dire catastrophe happens. Conservatives predict the downfall of England if the Liberals stay in; and there is no doubt whatever that the British empire will disappear from amongst the nations of the earth if the Balfourites should ever return to power.

When you read one set of posters, you get a new light on the character of Mr. Balfour. Without any question there has never been a deeper dyed villain since the days of Capt. Kidd. You are beginning to wonder how it is that he has escaped the gallows and been allowed to wander about where he could do so much damage; when you come on another poster, holding him up as the model of every political virtue, and making his opponent "C. B." stand in his former place. Never in the history of a political contest has the country gone in so heavily for poster politics. Lithographing firms were working with double shifts, and all the expert billposters in the country were engaged in plying their trade. What one party put one day, the other tore down in the night, despite the dire threats of prosecution from the side of the damaged candidate.

Lavish Use of Posters.

Probably no other country in the world lays itself out so recklessly on posters as England when a general election is on. Thousands of pounds were spent like water—or rather paste and water—to set forth the views of the contending parties.

Many of the posters, besides being works of art, and representing the highest developments of lithographic printing, gave striking views of the merits and shortcomings of the political parties now appealing to the country for support. Of course, Balfour and Campbell-Bannerman, "C. B.," were the most prominent figures, while Chamberlain also comes in for a large share of publicity.

One of the most striking posters displayed in many parts of London represented John Bull and "C. B." standing at the top of a flight of stone steps, the entrance to a dark archway, at the bottom of which is a river, with the word "ruin" on it. The steps to ruin are the Liberal policy, represented by Radicalism, inefficient army and navy, home rule, and disunited empire. "C. B." is saying to John Bull: "This way sir." The poster has attracted much attention, and huge crowds gathered in front of it to discuss its merits—or demerits—according to individual ways of looking at things. Home rule for Ireland has been made the main feature of several startling placards, while Chamberlain's protection policy attracts lots of attention.

An Effective Effort.

One of the most effective efforts on the last named subject represented Chamberlain in a shop, and a poor child asking the prices of food stuffs, such as eggs, meat, and so forth. "Everything gone up," says Chamberlain, "except meal for pigs—you can have plenty of that, cheap."

Many of the posters were humorous in character. One of the most amusing showed "C. B." in bed with a bedraggled cat—"home rule"—walking over the counterpane. Under this is the legend "electors, don't be deceived. Home rule is not a night-mare, but is still a danger to the empire." This poster was issued by the Conservative central office. Another funny one showed Chamberlain sitting on the bank of a river fishing for the British voter with the bait of "protection."

Every possible range of thought—"from grave to gay, from lively to severe" was represented by these posters, and, to the man in the street they gave a fairly good idea of the principal election issue. To the contestants, the posters "mean business," for they were often the cause of fracas in the street. Policemen kept pretty close to an exciting poster to see that it was not damaged by the opponents, and also that as few heads were broken as possible.

Legislature's Perplexing Problem.

The most difficult bills to deal with at this session of the legislature will be those effecting legislative reapportionment. A disposition is already shown by some members whose counties will lose representation to disregard the plain constitutional requirement. This has been done so long by legislature after legislature that it seems a small matter to some. It is of real importance, however, and in all probability reapportionment bills will be passed. There would be much less difficulty in this matter if it were attended to promptly every 10 years, as it should be, and as it very likely will be hereafter.—Philadelphia Press.

Heroism of the Fisherman.

The scenes attending the wreck of the Cherokee and the rescue of passengers and crew are among the most exciting in maritime annals. The vessel grounded in sight of a large city and all the direful events were in view of many thousands of people. All was done officially that was possible, but it was left to Capt. Casto of the Alberta, a little fishing schooner, to rescue the perishing and, under the greatest dangers, to bring the human freight safely to land.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Indiana's New Record.

Indiana has made a new record. All her congressmen are college bred, and it probably will not be long before the aspirant for congressional honors in that commonwealth will also have to be the author of at least one book. Indiana has taken up culture, and in Eugene Field's phrase she "will make it hum."—New York Tribune.

Would Simplify it Greatly.

A return to the old vest pocket ballot system would be all right if a few of the various freak political parties could be persuaded to go out of business.—Scranton Tribune.

TO CRACK A SMILE.

Tottie—I don't see why you are going to marry Jack. You're not in love with him.

Dottie—No, but another girl is.—Cleveland Leader.

"I love the country," said the young man from the city, "because everything smacks of freshness."

"Perhaps it does in some parts," replied the rural maid, but freshness gets no snacks here."—Chicago News.

Husband—Anything you want in town today, dear? Shall I order some more of that self-rising flour?

Wife—We have plenty left, but I wish you would stop at a registry office and order me a self-rising servant girl.—London Illustrated Bits.

Inherited.—"Pa," said Willie, looking up from his book, "what is a linear foot?"

"Why—er—a linear foot," stammered his father, "why—er—it's one that's hereditary, of course. Didn't you never hear tell of a linear descendant?"—Catholic Standard.

"Twas in the smoking car. "It's pretty tough to be continually called a robber," said the solemn passenger, "when you're merely trying to do the best you can." "I reckon it is," agreed the fat passenger. "What are you, pard, an insurance official or a baseball umpire?"—Louisville Courier Journal.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

"That's a dogged good story," remarked one of a party of half a dozen men in the lobby of the Seventh Avenue hotel.

"Dog-gone if it ain't," chipped in another, and so they went on with something about canines for several minutes, trying to play with the one who had told the story.

"You fellows may kid me all you please, but the story's true. Hughes is stopping here and he will tell the same thing," rejoined the one who had told the yarn.

R. P. Hughes of Clearfield came into the city from Bellaire, O., yesterday with a fine dog in the baggage car of the train in which he traveled. The dog was said to be worth $300, and naturally Mr. Hughes took great pride in him and watched him with much care. He got the dog from the car on his arrival here, attached a chain to the collar and then walked down Liberty avenue. A friend met him at Seventh and Liberty avenues, and a conversation of several minutes was indulged in. Finally Mr. Hughes pulled on the chain and turned to show his friend the handsome canine. But the chain hung loose and the dog was nowhere to be seen. Mr. Hughes found the chain had been cut. He secured the service of a detective agency, but up until a late hour last night the dog was still missing.

Dairymen and Breeders Arrive.

A large number of the dairymen and breeders of the state arrived in the city last evening and registered at the hotels. The Monongahela House is to be the headquarters for these men today and tomorrow for the seventh annual convention of the Pennsylvania Live Stock Breeders' association, and the eighth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's union. The latter's convention will open at 11 o'clock this morning. Aside from business at the morning and afternoon sessions, several addresses are scheduled, including "City Milk Production," by E. M. Bailey of Pittsburgh; "What Dairymen Are Doing," by H. E. Van Norman of Pennsylvania State college; "Some Phases of the Dairy Industry," by C. E. Lane, assistant chief of the dairy division of the United States department of agriculture, and "Some Things Science Has Done for Dairying," by J. L. Hills, director of the Vermont Agricultural experiment station. A joint session of the two organizations will be held this evening, the addresses being "Alfalfa in the East," by Joseph E. Wing of Ohio, and "The Man Behind the Cow," by the Hon. W. D. Hoard of Fort Atkinson, Wis. The Breeders' association will hold its sessions tomorrow.

Another convention at the Monongahela House today is that of the National Cut Stone Contractors' association. This meeting will continue through tomorrow, with a banquet tomorrow evening. The members will arrive this morning.

The Model Temperance Town.

But how do the doctors know that there are forged prescriptions on the market? How can they tell that possibly someone has written some reputable physician's name at the bottom of a disreputable prescription? Is it possible that anybody in Washington wanted some whisky, and wanting it, got what he desired? Have we not been told repeatedly that this was a temperance town, that no liquor was sold here, that it was model in the enforcement of the liquor laws, and that it was a good example of what a town should be in the way of abstaining from the use of the cup that cheers?—Washington Journal.

As to Campaign Contributions.

Gov. Higgins of New York goes straight to the point in that part of his message dealing with payments of money by corporations for political purposes. He asks that it be made a penal offense to be punished by exemplary fine and imprisonment. Gov. Pennypacker does not go so far, but he invites action by the legislature, in special session compelling publicity, and the opportunity is thus opened for radical dealing with a serious evil by instituting such means of prevention and punishment as will bring it to an end.—Philadelphia Record.

GOOD PLACES FOR LOCAL MEN

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM WALTER J. CHRISTY, Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—Speaker Walton had his committees ready when the house reconvened this afternoon. His prompt action brought forth a speech of praise from the veteran Cooper of Delaware. "Uncle Tom" told of the special session of 1883 under a Democratic governor when it required the speaker 10 days to make up the committees.

"Here we are," said he, "on the second day of the session fully organized and ready for business. This is unexampled in the history of the state. Beside my colleague sits the successful candidate for state treasurer, Mr. Berry. I think he will agree with me that the era of better things has set in."

In the makeup of the committees, Allegheny drew one of important chairmanships, that of representative apportionment going to Mr. McWhinney. This means that he will have the shaping of the new act. Following is a list of the house committees:

BILL IS PRESENTED TO GOVERNOR PENNYPACKER

President John Eaton of the chamber of commerce, and former Congressman H. Kirke Porter returned from Harrisburg yesterday, where they presented Gov. Pennypacker with the chamber of commerce Greater Pittsburgh bill and gave copies to the attorney general, secretary of the commonwealth and Representative L. B. Cook, who presented the measure.

"The governor is much interested in Greater Pittsburgh legislation," said Mr. Eaton, "and appeared to be fully acquainted with the text of our bill from conversation that had with Mr. Watson and Mr. Guthrie. As year to year I can learn the present session of the legislature will be guided largely by the governor's advice. The general impression seems to be that it is an admirable bill."

The public defense committee of Allegheny, of which W. C. Gill is chairman, will oppose the chamber of commerce bill because it does not provide for a separate vote for Allegheny. Mr. Gill stated yesterday his committee would advocate some provision for free bridges between the two cities and would fight any measure that did not provide for a separate vote, and would carry the fight into the courts, if necessary.

President Eaton has been requested by Representative Cook to take a committee to Harrisburg to appear before the legislative committee when the bill is under consideration, and will invite Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Watson, the framers of the bill, to join this committee.

USE OF MONEY IS NOT BEFORE SOLONS

of the representative apportionment committee and Mr. Morrison of Westmoreland secretary. There will be a meeting in the morning to consider the bills.

John Fow of Philadelphia is a mean Democrat. This afternoon he announced to the house that he had made a careful examination of the law relating to postage and stationery allowances to the members. Instead of $100 worth of stamps and $50 for paper and envelopes, Fow says the legislators are entitled at a special session to $50 for the two items. The stamps are always sold to a broker for $45 and the stationery money is a clear pick-up.

There was not a bit of applause when Fow took his seat and the members will not accept the decision as final. He also made the assertion there never has been any act of assembly allowing the $100 for postage. Fow has gotten his stamps in a number of regular sessions.

Senator Woods and the Westmoreland representatives have agreed on the lines of the two representative districts for the county. The first district has a population of 57,000, elects two members and is constructed as follows: The boroughs of Bolivar, Livermore, Coketville, Latrobe, Derry, New Alexandria, Donegal, Ligonier, Mt. Pleasant, Florence, Seward and Youngstown, and the townships of Cook, Derry, Donegal, Fairfield, Ligonier, Loyal Hanna, Mt. Pleasant, St. Clair and Unity.

The other district consists of the balance of the county, has a population of 105,000 and elects three members. The larger towns are Greensburg, Jeannette, Irwin, New Kensington, Arnold, Vandergrift, West Newton, Scottdale and Monessen.

Campsey Presents Bridge Bill.

Mr. Campsey of Washington has presented an interesting bridge bill and files with it a statement. His bill provides that, after public advertisement by the county commissioners, for the construction of any bridge or bridges, the contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, and that no responsible individual, firm or corporation desiring the privilege so to do, shall be denied the privilege of bidding. During the process of advertising for bids, the plans and specifications of the proposed bridge, or a copy thereof, shall be kept in the office of the county commissioners, open to the inspection of all intending bidders.

In the case of a bridge to be erected over a river between two counties, the advertising shall be done in each of the counties and the plans shall be kept in the offices of the commissioners of the two or more counties. At the discretion of the commissioners, provision is made for the issuing of bonds to pay for the proposed structures. In the event of a bond issue, the approval by a grand jury and the quarter sessions court is provided. The bonds may not be sold at less than the face value.

No Advertising for Bids.

In his statement accompanying the bill, Mr. Campsey says:

Under the present law county commissioners have been letting large contracts without advertising for bids or affording competing companies an opportunity to bid. The result is favored contractors and charges of graft. The act proposed remedies what is admittedly an existing evil, which increases to the counties of the state the cost of building county bridges.

There is no existing law providing for the raising of the money to pay the cost of building bridges except the levying of taxes necessary in the annual tax levy.

A good iron bridge across the Monongahela river between our county and the counties of Allegheny, Westmoreland and Fayette, is estimated to cost from $150,000 to $200,000. The Monongahela valley is so densely populated and the manufacturing establishments are so numerous that county bridges across the river have become a necessity. New bridges will have to be built and toll bridges belonging to private corporations will have to be bought. To pay our share of the cost of even one of these bridges in one year, with the other county expenses that we have to meet, would be burdensome. County bridges, such as are to have to build, like public buildings, are permanent improvements and the cost thereof, like that of erecting public buildings, should not be paid in one year, but by the sale of bonds. We have outgrown the old act regulating bridge building and should have the relief asked for.

Restricts Trolley Companies.

Mr. Campsey offered another bill requiring trolley companies to apply to the boards of county commissioners for the right to use county bridges. The commissioners may decide what alterations shall be made and shall make them at the cost of the traction companies. Any buildings built after passage of the act and upon which the trolley companies are now operating shall help the counties pay for the cost of construction.

Mr. Ammerman, Democrat of Montour, has introduced a primary election bill which covers all nominations. It is made unlawful to be nominated or to nominate or to place in nomination any candidate for any office in this state in any other manner than is prescribed in this bill, except that the conferee system in congressional, senatorial and judicial districts, consisting of two or more counties, shall remain in force. Two primaries are to be held annually on the second Tuesday of January and the second Tuesday of June. All persons seeking nominations shall then be voted for by the people directly. The elections are to be conducted by the regular election boards. All political parties having polled at least 5 per cent of the total number of votes cast at the last preceding national or state election shall place their candidates in nomination in a manner provided by the bill, and in no other way. No other party or political organization shall have any places upon the tickets or ballots excepting candidates running on nomination papers.

Nomination by Petition.

Any person possessing the requisite legal qualifications may be a candidate for the nomination for a state office if there be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth, at least 35 days before the primaries, a petition verified by affidavit, setting forth that such person is a candidate for nomination for the office specified, that his candidacy is bona fide and naming the political party with which he affiliates and upon whose ticket he is to be a candidate. The petition shall be signed in ink by at least 2 per cent of the total vote cast by the political party with which he affiliated at the last state election within the district which he is a candidate.

For all county offices the petition shall be filed with the county commissioners at least 20 days before the primaries. It must be accompanied by the signatures of at least 2 per cent of the votes cast in the district. In the case of state offices the secretary of the commonwealth shall notify the county commissioners of the announcement of the candidate.

In the case of members of congress, senators or judges, where more than one county is directly interested, the commissioners of each county shall be notified. In the case of all other offices, petitions shall be filed with the commissioners of the proper county, Fourteen days before the primary for United States or state officers, the secretary of the commonwealth shall notify the sheriff and county commissioners of all candidates who are to be voted for. The sheriff is required to give notice of the election 10 days preceding it.

Safeguarding the Ballots.

The county commissioners furnish the tickets for all primary elections, separate ballots for each political party. The same restrictions are placed about the safeguarding of the ballots as at general elections, and the polling places are equipped the same.

All electors who have resided in a district for a period of 20 days preceding the primary shall be eligible to vote, subject only to the right of challenge. The polls would be open from 1 until 7 o'clock p. m. No challenge shall be allowed except as to the voter's party affiliations and his residence, and a written affidavit is to be sufficient answer to the challenge. All minors becoming of age prior to the general election may vote.

No one but an election officer shall remove any ballots from the room in which the election is held. The voter must make affidavit to secure assistance in the marking of his ballot, and the helper shall make affidavit that he will not attempt to influence, nor deceive, nor reveal how the person assisted, voted. The vote, as soon as counted, shall be publicly declared from the window to the citizens present, and the statement posted in a conspicuous place.

The certificate and returns shall be enclosed in three envelopes. Every judge of election shall, before 2 o'clock on the day following the primary, deliver his envelope to the prothonotary to be preserved for public inspection. The envelope containing the tally sheet, ballots cast, unused ballots and all other records, shall be delivered to the prothonotary. These shall be kept sealed and uninspected for six months after the primary, at which time the prothonotary shall burn them.

Provides for the Count.

Provision is made for an official count of the votes by an official returning board, with a certificate of nomination to be issued by the court. The prothonotary is required to make a return to the secretary of the commonwealth as to the returns received by all candidates for state offices. All contests must be made before the returning boards and at the time the vote is being computed. The returning board shall have the right, at any time within six months, to order a recount.

Primary election officers will be paid $2 a day and the counties will pay all expenses of the primaries. State and county committees shall fill all vacancies. The state committee of the political parties shall designate candidates for presidential electors.

Any person who withdraws from a nomination without a good and sufficient reason, or who withdraws because of threats, bribery, fraud, corruption or promise of reward shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall suffer the penalty of a fine of not less than $100 or more than $3,000, or imprisonment from one to five years. All the safeguards thrown about the general elections are provided, except the closing of saloons.

John Hamilton of Philadelphia has introduced a bill which will probably be ruled out, as it is not germane to the call. It requires every banking institution, except national banks, to keep 15 per cent of its deposits at all times as a reserve fund. Forty per cent of this reserve must be kept in cash in the possession of the bank. The balance can be given to the institutions' reserve agents. These must be national banks or banks doing business in the state.

Reserve Agents Must be Approved.

The board of revenue commissioners must approve the reserve agents. If the legal reserve falls below the amounts fixed by the bill, the bank shall not be allowed to make any additional loans or investments until the reserve is restored. Should the fund continue short for 30 days, the banking commissioner, with the consent of the board of revenue commissioners, shall proceed to wind up the business of the bank.

Mr. Creasy, Democrat of Columbia, introduced the Castle bill relating to state deposits.

The house banking committee organized this afternoon by the election of Frank W. Jackson of Apollo as chairman. It was decided to hold hearing on all legislation on next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The hearings will begin at 8 o'clock. It is the intention to give every one interested an opportunity to be heard.

Mr. Eaton of Philadelphia presented a personal registration bill which makes all general election officers in first, second and third-class cities boards of registration. Mr. Fow of Philadelphia introduced a registration bill he had here in 1899.

Mr. Cook of Pittsburgh and Mr. Hitchcock of Tioga put in the Flinn primary election bill. They sit close together, but had not held a conference. The provisions of the proposed act were given in The Gazette today.

Berry Comes to Town.

Col. Guffey did not come here today to meet the Democrats. R. E. Berry, the treasurer-elect, arrived. He had a conference with Treasurer Mathues and made some inquiries about the routine duties. He says he found Mr. Mathues very willing to give him any information.

This afternoon Representative Black of Delaware brought Mr. Berry into the house. Mr. Black sits just across the aisle from J. Lee Plummer, the defeated Republican candidate for treasurer. For the first time he met and chatted with the man who beat him.

In the senate this morning Senator Grimm, Democrat, of Bucks, tried to have the body go into executive session for the purpose of confirming the recess appointments of the governor. It is a question whether this session has the right to confirm, and the matter has been held up. Grimm's purpose was to make a fight on the confirmation of the commissioners who will erect the Quay monument. They are Col. Samuel Moody of Beaver; ex-Senator J. Donald Cameron and David Lane of Philadelphia.

Senator Goehring of Allegheny presented the bill to establish civil service reform in the state government. It is the same measure he had at the regular session.

The judiciary general committee of the house this afternoon reported affirmatively the bills to abolish the fees in the offices of the secretary of commonwealth and insurance commissioner.

The elections committee of the house organized by the election of McClain of Lancaster as chairman. After Monday night it will grant hearings on all legislation before it. A free discussion is invited.

Prays for Reformers.

Chaplain J. Patten Moore made this prayer at the opening of the house this afternoon:

I thank Thee, O Lord, for the superb, brotherly, manly, magnanimous address of the honest speaker of the house, which has kindled the fires of patriotism in my heart. And now, O Lord, help these men, for they are all reformers, to get down to work; for the man who refuses to indorse the acts for reform will be consigned to political oblivion next November. May these reformers be blessed and may every man who stands by reform be returned to the legislature.

C. F. KIRSCHLER GETS DEMOCRATIC SUPPORT

Nominating Committee of Allegheny Minority Party Indorses Republican Candidate.

The name of Charles F. Kirschler will head the Democratic party column on the ballots used in the Allegheny city election, February 20. This was decided last night by the committee of five empowered by the convention two weeks ago to name or indorse a candidate for mayor. The committee met at the residence of Robert Beck, city chairman and chairman of the nominating committee. The other members are James McKay, Edward Dillon, Humphrey Lynch and John Geisler.

The meeting was very harmonious. McKay suggested shortly after sitting down before Beck's library fire that Kirschler be named as the party candidate for mayor. Dillon seconded the suggestion and Lynch, after hearing approval from the other members, offered the motion that the nomination be made by acclamation. This was done.

Then the five sat around and talked over matters pertaining to the campaign. Beck wanted to know if there was any reason why the Democratic party should support George B. Logan, candidate on the Good Goverment party ticket. He wanted to understand what real issue the new party had to base its campaign upon. None of the other members could satisfy Beck in this respect. The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, History teaches that better government is had when officials are elected by, and responsible to, political parties, than when they are elected by individual effort, and at individual expense, and are responsible to no one but themselves, and,

Whereas, The election to office of men who belong to, and owe allegiance to, no party, is destructive of all parties, and,

Whereas, The destruction of political parties will make impossible the election to office of men of moderate means and in the ordinary walks of life, and will give entire political control to men who are sufficiently wealthy to personally defray the expenses of a campaign, and thus rob the people of every vestige of political influence, and,

Whereas, The investigations of high finance now in progress in different parts of the United States, prove that the very wealthy are dangerous custodians of either the wealth or delegated powers of others, and,

Whereas, The nomination of candidates by primaries held by all the voters of political parties is a more American manner of placing men in nomination than the appointment of candidates by self-constituted committees, answerable and responsible only to themselves, and,

Whereas, An attempt is being made by a few persons in the city of Allegheny to destroy all political party organizations by electing to the office of mayor a man who refuses to submit his candidacy to the plain people at the primaries of any party, and,

Whereas, It is apparent that the election to be held February 20, 1906, will result in the election of either a Republican who insists on being a candidate without entering the primaries of his party or a Republican who has entered the primaries of his party and has been by it unanimously nominated; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Democratic party of the city of Allegheny, that in order to preserve parties in politics, and to aid in giving the city of Allegheny that good government for which the Democratic party has always stood, we do hereby indorse the candidacy of Charles F. Kirschler for mayor of the city of Allegheny, and do hereby direct the county commissioners of the county of Allegheny to place his name in the Democratic column as such candidate.

The Democrats of the First ward, Allegheny, met last night in the ward school house and indorsed Mr. Kirschler for mayor.

The Democrats of the Thirteenth ward, Allegheny, met in the Troy Hill Turner hall, in Hamilton street, and nominated D. W. Meyers and Otto Schaub for school directors. John Martin and Frank Hoff, who had announced their candidacy for the offices, withdrew in favor of Meyers and Schaub.

"Homeless 26" File a Petition.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—A petition was filed with Isaac B. Brown, secretary of internal affairs of Pennsylvania, today asking him to take legal steps to compel the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to abolish the practice of requiring a deposit of $10 on mileage books. The petition is signed by S. M. Williams of Pittsburgh, secretary of the "Homeless Twenty-Six," an organization of commercial travelers and business men, chartered by the Allegheny county courts.

Freight Engines on Pennsylvania Crash at Thomson Station With Serious Results.

In a head-on collision of two freight engines drawing cabooses on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Thomson station, at 11:30 yesterday morning, four men were injured and the engines and both cabooses were demolished. The injured:

Frank Kelly, Monongahela City, left hand and arm crushed.

O. G. Gardner, 2705 Sarah street, both arms broken and head cut.

The wreck, it is said, happened as the result of disregard of signals, and occurred on a part of road where there are four tracks. All four lines were completely blocked for several hours by the debris.

All of the injured were taken to the Allegheny hospital. Kelly and Saesel were able to leave within a short time, and Gardner, after having his injuries dressed, also asked to be taken home.

PEACE KEYNOTE OF CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON INSTRUCTIONS

ALGECIRAS, Jan. 16.—The opening of the Moroccan conference today was chiefly notable for the spirit of conciliation manifested. The events of the day were the gathering of the ambassadors with their extensive staffs and the one hour's session in which the duke of Almodovar, Spanish minister of foreign affairs, was unanimously elected president of the conference.

The duke's speech of acceptance breathed concord and peace. It counseled the nations to adjust their differences and emphasized the essential principles of the sovereignty of the sultan, the territorial integrity of Morocco and the open door. It was significant that both the French and German declarations heartily seconded the remarks of the duke, thus foreshadowing the amelioration of Franco-German relations.

The envoys were driven to the conference in court equipages sent from Madrid by King Alfonso. The mule trains in the narrow streets had to make way of these equipages. The delegates had agreed to make themselves comfortable and not to trouble about uniforms, so that most were in afternoon dress. The Moors were the last to arrive, and their white draperies, turban and yellow shoes added an odd touch to a gathering that otherwise looked like that at an afternoon tea.

Honors for Moors.

There were seven of the Arabs, dignified men with watchful eyes and all with athletic frames, except Mohammed El Torres, whose figure is bent under the weight of his 83 years and who walks with a long staff. The duke of Almodovar met Mohammed El Torres at the head of the stairs, a distinction not shown to others. The repose of the Moors was shaken for a second by the rattle of camera shutters in the hands of some 30 foreign photographers. Quite a hundred newspaper men and artists representing illustrated periodicals lined the approaches.

The duke of Almodovar, in welcoming the conference in the name of King Alfonso, said it was the second time that Morocco and the great powers had met in Spain to deliberate on questions of the highest importance, and he hoped that the common efforts of the envoys would result in the satisfactory fulfillment of the heavy task imposed upon them.

Herr von Radowitz, the German ambassador to Spain and head of the German delegation, then rose and pointed out that the position alphabetically of Allemange (Germany) gave him the right to propose the duke of Almodovar for president of the conference. The election of the duke was unanimous.

Keynote of Peace.

The duke thanked Herr von Radowitz and the other members of the conference, saying:

The powers have clearly shown their desire that order, peace and prosperity shall reign throughout Morocco. The sultan as well as the foreign governments desire this end, which is obtainable by introducing reforms upon the triple principle of the sovereignty of the sultan, the integrity of his territory and equal commercial treatment, namely, the open door, mutual respect for our reciprocal interests and a sincere desire to conciliate them must be, according to my view, our rule of conduct at this conference. Our own sentiment, as well as the important attitude of the world, dictates such a conciliatory solution.

Secretaries were chosen, among them being M. de Margerie, formerly secretary of the French embassy at Washington.

M. Revoil, former governor of Algiers, who heads the French delegation, warmly seconded the duke of Almodovar's statements. Herr von Radowitz joined M. Revoil in expressing the hope that the work of the conference would give a fruitful result.

The conference decided to first take up the question of the surveillance of contraband and then that regarding the reform of Morocco finances. This decision indicates the disposition of the conference to put off the more delicate question until the last.

Root's Instructions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—What part will be played by the Washington government in the Moroccan conference is clearly set forth in the instructions prepared by Secretary Root for the American delegation. In placing the confidential imprimata on these instructions the department is following a time honored custom which dates back to 1856, in which year the United States with other countries entered into treaty relations with Morocco. By this treaty the Washington government shares with other powers certain privileges, among them that attaching to the most favored nation treatment.

The secretary announces that the participation of the United States is based exclusively upon its treaty rights with Morocco, a rearrangement of which is now proposed by the sultan, who has extended invitations to the United States and other powers signatory to the treaty of 1880. By the treaty of 1880 it is pointed out that this government is pledged right of protection of a special class of native Moors. Further than this the treaty rights of this government, it is declared, are continued to an equal share in whatever privileges of commerce and protection or residence may be enjoyed by other foreigners.

American delegates will have practically nothing to do with the resolution of such problems save to express the hope that whatever arrangements may be entered upon an equality of rights shall be guaranteed to the United States.

They will impress the fact that while the Washington government gives hearty indorsement to the open door, its interest does not stop there. This government desires not only that the door shall be opened to the world's trade, but that it shall be utilized in a way that shall prove beneficial alike to Morocco and to the treaty powers. The American delegates will favor the betterment of religious and class conditions in Morocco, all of which are regarded as important factors in the proper and effective policing of the interior and in paving the way to intercourse between Morocco and the outside world.

Treatment of the Jews in Morocco is the subject of a special and supplementary letter. The secretary calls attention to the numerous and harsh discriminations imposed in Morocco against Jews. The American delegates are instructed to devote their best efforts to obtain the removal of such discrimination.

By their complete dissociation from any policy, act or expression which, in the remotest degree would tend to thwart or delay an harmonious arrangement, the American delegates are informed that this government hopes they may, in the event of such an unfortunate situation, use forcibly the absolute fairness of their advice, thereby in this negative, but none the less influential manner, making for the complete harmony and accord of the conference. The delegates will be in constant touch with the department by cable.

CITIZENS HOLD BACK ON FUSION

UPPERMAN NOMINATED AGAIN

The Independents, the Democrats and the Citizens of the Fourteenth ward met last night in the Oakland board of trade rooms to confer on a fusion ticket for councilmen and ward officers. The Independents and the Democrats agreed upon a ticket, and the Citizens said it was satisfactory to them, but before they gave their final answer they said would like to wait until after the Citizens city committee met tomorrow.

The Independents and Democrats have agreed that any fusion ticket in which they participate must have George W. Guthrie's name at the head of the ticket. The Citizens may indorse Jenkinson, and therefore they would be out of the fusion deal. They will know on Thursday what they will do. It is very likely that they will fuse with the Republicans, although they have agreed to meet the Independents again on Friday.

The ticket nominated last night is as follows: Select council, William H. Stevenson; common council, Michael McMorris, Simon Matthias, T. Herriott and John F. Moore. The present school directors, W. P. Getty and W. L. Elford, were indorsed, and H. H. Dovie was indorsed for ward assessor.

Logan's Friends Indorse Guthrie.

George W. Guthrie was indorsed for mayor by the Independent City party last night at the Hotel Henry. This is the organization which nominated Col. A. J. Logan for that office, Col. Logan declining to accept. A committee was appointed to confer with other organization, which have indorsed Guthrie. Dr. C. C. Wiley is the chairman of the committee.

The United Voters' league of the Thirty-second ward indorsed Guthrie at a meeting in its club rooms on Southern avenue.

John Upperman was nominated for select council in the Fifteenth ward last night by the Republican executive committee of the ward, there being no opposition to him.

Republicans of Carnegie will hold suggestion meetings next Monday and primaries on the Saturday following. Interest centers in the fight for the office for tax collector, which pays about $3,000 a year in fees. Two of the candidates are J. B. Hanna, a director of the Carnegie National bank, and Harry Pigham, borough clerk. Dr. Thomas McCooley will run on an independent ticket for burgess, while Dr. E. G. Husler is expected to be the Republican nominee.

Treasury Has a Surplus.

For the first time in many years the treasury of the McKeesport Republican executive committee is overflowing, and this year the committee has enough to meet all expenses and leave a surplus. When all fees are collected from candidates the treasury will have a cash balance of $1,399.25.

McKeesport Democrats are looking for fusion in the coming municipal election and will not file nomination papers until Tuesday. This will allow the committee to complete a ticket, after the Republican primaries are held next Saturday.

The Republican city committee of Braddock met last evening and arrangements were made for holding suggestion meetings in each of the four wards of the borough on January 25. Chief of Police William Bennett was elected chairman of the meeting and E. R. Oskin secretary.

Upon the petition of John A. McCartney of the Third district, Thirty-fifth ward, his name was ordered added to the registry list of that district, from which it had been omitted.

Ohio Postmasters Named.

KNOX JOINS IN SENATE DEBATE

Discusses Subject Which Has Bearing on Railroad Rate Regulation.

MAKES REPLY TO FULTON

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Senator Knox today participated in a little preliminary discussion in the senate that had a bearing on the railroad rate question. Senator Fulton of Oregon called up and spoke on his proposed amendment to the Dolliver railroad rate bill giving courts the power to modify orders of the interstate commerce commission when such orders are confiscatory. He said that the provision is intended to prevent the enforcement of unjust decrees and argued that as the bill stands in case such an order should be issued it would be impossible for the commission to change it until after great delay, with consequent great expense.

The discussion turned on the separation of legislative and judicial powers under the Constitution, and Mr. Knox said:

"Is it the contention of the senator from Oregon that the rule as to the separation of powers is the same under the Constitution of the United States as it is under the constitution of Massachusetts, or on the contrary, is it not different to a large extent under the constitution of the various states themselves?"

Mr. Fulton—I think as a general rule the constitutions of the different states divide and separate the powers very similarly to the way they are divided and separated under the constitution of the United States. Generally I think the constitutions are the same in substance. The legislative power is vested in the legislature; judicial power is vested in the supreme court and certain subordinate courts, and so forth. I think that it is generally the distribution of power. Now in Massachusetts it may be different. I have not examined the constitution, but I call the senator's attention to this fact, that they do not distinguish the Reagan case from their decision or the doctrine in the Reagan case, which they quote, on any ground that their constitutional powers differ from the constitutional power or powers of the supreme court of the United States.

Mr. Knox—Only one more word along the line at what has been discussed. It is an interesting question and it is very important in relation to the subject matter that is before the senate. There is a very wide distinction between the various constitutions of the commonwealths that form this nation, in my judgment, and the Constitution of the United States as to the separation of powers. I will use just one illustration which I think will make it very clear what my point is to everybody who hears me. Take the question of the granting of divorce. There are states in the United States that are wholly barred from any constitutional provision on the subject. It has been held that legislatures may not grant divorce because the granting of divorce is a judicial act and the legislature cannot perform that judicial function. On the other hand there are states where without any constitutional provision to that effect legislatures do grant divorce as formerly in the state of Pennsylvania before the existing constitution went into effect, so that illustrates that you cannot define that the separation of the powers under the Constitution of the United States can be determined by the decisions of the states.

Senator Knox's views on this question, thus briefly expressed, were listened to with interest by his colleagues. The question is one that will have a large part in the debate that will come when a rate bill has been reported to the senate.

Unexpectedly the senate today found itself considering the railroad rate question which was precipitated by Mr. Fulton's taking the floor. Mr. Foulton held the floor throughout, but there were many interruptions and other senators fully shared the time.

Mr. Scott made a brief speech in support of the merchant marine shipping bill, and Mr. Heyburn gave notice that tomorrow he would ask the senate to name a day for voting on the pure food bill.

The Death Roll

William Jackman.

William Jackman aged 82, the oldest resident of Bellevue, and one of the largest real estate owners in Allegheny county, died yesterday at his home in Lincoln avenue, Bellevue. Death was due to old age. Mr. Jackman was born in Ohio township on a farm which is now part of Avalon borough. He was the son of William Jackman, who came to this country in 1787 from Ireland and settled in this vicinity in 1805. The elder Mr. Jackman was the first white settler in Ohio township, which was then a wilderness, with many Indians still in the neighborhood. He founded the first Methodist Episcopal church established west of the Allegheny mountains. This church, which was known as "Jackman's meeting house," was on a clearing in what is now Mt. NEW YORK SENATORS PROTECT MR. DEPEW

Brackett Resolution Demanding His Resignation Is Defeated 34 to 1 Within Republican Lines, the Democrats Refusing to Vote.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—The state senate this afternoon, by a vote of 34 to 1, rejected the resolution of Senator Edward J. Brackett, of Saratoga, demanding the resignation of Chauncey M. Depew from the United States senate. After debate lasting more than three hours and characterized on the one hand by Senator Brackett's unsparing denunciation of Senator Depew and the insurance companies and on the other by almost equally harsh criticisms of the judgment and the motives of the introducer of the resolution the roll call showed Senator Brackett's own vote to be the only one in favor of the resolution.

Every other Republican senator voted against it with the exception of Senator Armstrong of Rochester, who is in New York at work on the report of the insurance investigating committee and he sent a telegram to Senator Tully, his colleague on the committee, that if he were present he would vote against the resolution.

The 14 Democratic senators were excused from voting on the resolution though the motion to excuse them was opposed by Senator Brackett, who expressed his desire to "put every senator on record on this moral issue."

Senator Grady, the Democratic leader, said the Democrats regarded the Depew issue as purely a Republican affair; they felt like the man who, looking on while his wife fought with a bear, cried: "Go it old woman, go it bear." The more severe the consequences to both the "old woman" and the "bear," the better the minority would like it. They did not regard it as Senator Brackett said he did, as a great moral issue.

The principal speeches in opposition to the resolution and in defense of Senator Depew were made by Senators Malby, Cassidy, Raines, Coggeshall, Lewis and White, while Senator Elsberg denounced the resolution and its introducer, and said especially that the senate was in no position to pass such a resolution while it rested under Senator Brackett's insinuation that its members had been debauched by the use of "yellow dog" funds.

Senator Cassidy referred to Senator Depew's active critics as fomenting public censure in order "under the cloak of reform, to steal his official position."

POSTMISTRESS IS NAMED.

Miss Mary S. Murphy Will Represent Uncle Sam in the Postal Affairs of Crafton.

The United States senate in executive session yesterday confirmed the nomination of Miss Mary S. Murphy as postmistress of Crafton. Miss Murphy, who is 35 years old, is the daughter of George M. She is said to be the first member of the fair sex to be placed in charge of Uncle Sam's postal affairs in Crafton, and will succeed Thomas F. Hoskinson, who is now serving the borough as postmaster. Miss Murphy has never been employed in the postoffice, but was highly recommended for the office.

Among other Pennsylvania postmaster nominations confirmed by the senate yesterday were: James T. Dunfee, Newville; Elmer Hull, Montgomery; Samuel Sparr, Williamsburg, and Johnson D. Neely, Deery.

Arthur Brown, aged 18, died yesterday afternoon at the Mercy hospital from injuries received early yesterday morning at the Edgar Thomson steel works, Braddock. Brown was an electrician, and while adjusting the machinery of an electric crane, fell from a beam to the ground, 55 feet.

Mary Kelly, aged 30, of Sandy Creek, died suddenly at her home yesterday. Dr. J. N. Hamilton asked the coroner to make an investigation of the case.

Tonsiline Prevents Diphtheria

Diphtheria is the most dreaded disease of childhood, because it is so often fatal. It is invariably preceded by Sore Throat—nature's danger signal.

At the appearance of Sore Throat the first thought should be its instant cure. Don't regard it lightly—don't think it may be gone tomorrow. An hour's delay may bring fatal results.

What good doctor in his practice now advises delay or thinks lightly of any Sore Throat, especially in children?

Modern medication wisely endeavors to quickly control and cure the simpler forms of disease—it's so much easier and so much safer than waiting for the graver diseases to follow.

It is right here and in this way that TONSILINE has its greatest value.

Tonsiline is the one remedy, sold largely throughout the United States, exclusively for the cure of Sore Throats. Its field is limited but it does its whole duty every time. We know of no case where it has failed during its years of use in thousands of homes.

Buy a bottle today and have it ready for instant use.

Tonsiline is the stitch in time. 25c and 50c at all druggists.

This hasn't been a very good year for large Furs—Coats particularly.

Sold more than many a previous year, but not enough to satisfy our idea of a successful Fur business.

Small Furs—Neck Pieces, Muffs and Setts—have surpassed all records.

That's why we are able to offer
$10.00 Furs, $5.00
—15.00 ones, $8.50—$20.00 ones, $10.00—$35.00 ones, $25.00—and so on.

Included are many fine Furs bought under price when manufacturers wanted to close their season.

Business had been so good here we were in position to take them—and ready cash forced prices away down.

That you're getting the benefit of now.

That was good business.

Here's the other side of the case.
Where we stand the loss—on large Furs—Coats and Blouses.

$75.00 loss to sell a $200.00 Seal Coat for $125.00.
$100.00 loss to sell two $300.00 Seal Coats at $250.00.
$75.00 loss to sell one $450.00 Seal Coat for $375.00.

$360.00 loss to sell nine $165.00 Persian Lamb Coats at $125.00 each.
$150.00 loss to sell two $225.00 Persian Lamb Coats at $150.00 each.

And other big losses on Fur Coats and Blouses to sell them at prices people will buy and save lots of money

$150.00 loss to sell a $400.00 Broadtail Coat at $250.00.
$550.00 loss to sell a $1,000.00 Broadtail Coat for $450.00.

And so it goes—every Fur Coat and Blouse of every kind so price fixed it will sell—and we'll take the loss as gracefully as we can.

$60.00 Squirrel Blouses, $45.00.
$125.00 and $135.00 Squirrel Coats and Blouses, $75.00.

BEGINS CLASSES FOR JOURNEYMEN

Two Hundred Young Men Will Learn Trades at Carnegie Technical Schools.

NEW INSTRUCTORS APPOINTED

As a result of the examinations of the applications for instruction in the school of apprentices and journeymen at the Carnegie Technical schools, 200 young men will be admitted out of 1,364 eligible applicants. The total number of applications filed was 2,109. The list of successful men will be published this week.

The selection of those students who are to form the first classes was the source of considerable difficulty. It was finally determined that in justice to all of the applicants the preference be given to those already at work at the trades and where possible, to give preference to the applicant who had the greatest experience and length of service at his trade.

The faculty of the school of apprentices and journeymen regret exceedingly being compelled to limit the number admitted to so small a proportion of the number of applicants and will make endeavor to make it possible to admit additional students at the beginning of next season's work. The limited available teaching space forced upon them this action; but in a letter which is being sent to every applicant it is explained that those who have already applied will receive the first consideration when the new courses are opened and additional courses are offered.

The following instructors have been added to faculty in the school of apprentices and journeymen: Paul A. Young, assistant night instructor in mechanical drawing for the manufacturing trades; Frederick Giffin, assistant night instructor in architectural drawing for the building trades; John F. Driscoll, assistant night instructor in plumbing; William M. Geist, assistant night instructor in machine shop, and Hugh A. Caldenwood, assistant night instructor in electrical wiring.

STRICKEN ON THE STREET.

Unknown Man, Aged About 25, Is Found Unconscious and Dies Shortly Afterward.

Stricken with heart failure while crossing the Twenty-second street bridge yesterday afternoon, an unknown man, aged 25, was found unconscious by Homer E. Moore of 2321 Carson street, and died shortly after being removed to Carroll's saloon at Brady and Forbes streets.

The body was removed to the morgue but nothing was found by which identity might be established. The man was about 5 feet 6 inches in height, weighed about 145 pounds and had dark hair and a dark moustache. He was clad in a double-breasted suit of dark material and wore a blue flannel shirt. In his pockets were found two watches, a knife and some keys. He was apparently a mill man.

WILL QUIT CONGRESS.

Mr. Smith of Punxsutawney Will Not Again Be a Candidate for National Honors.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Representative William O. Smith of Punxsutawney has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election this fall from the Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania district. Mr. Smith is now serving his second term and it having been the custom in that district to pass the office around among the four counties he is not disposed to do anything to upset this arrangement.

It is probable that the next congressman will come from Clarion or Armstrong county. Indiana county held it before Mr. Smith was elected in Jefferson county, and thus by the rotation, the place goes to one of the two remaining counties.

END OF BALFOUR IN POLITICS DEMANDED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The commercial heart of the kingdom remained faithful to the Unionist cause, the city of London returning A. G. H. Gibbs and Sir Edward Clarke with enormous majorities, approximately 10,000, over their Liberal opponents. Some of the other conservative London districts and provincial seats where the working class population is small, retained Unionists. Otherwise today's story of the struggle is a repetition of yesterday's heavily increased pollings of enormous labor votes.

The Unionists did not gain a single seat in today's balloting, but lost 22 to the Liberals and Laborites. The 247 seats already elected for the new parliament are distributed as follows: Liberals, 127; Unionists, 54; Laborites, 23; Nationalists, 38.

The solitary Unionist gain at Hastings, since the elections began, is met by a combined Liberal and Labor gain of 89 seats. T. P. O'Connor (Nationalist) was re-elected for the Scotland division of Liverpool. At Birkenhead the Liberals gained a seat and one at Edinburgh. The Laborites gained one at Dundee. This is regarded as an important indication of the drift of feeling in Scotland.

Albert Lyttelton, colonial secretary of Mr. Balfour's cabinet, and William Hayes Fisher, financial secretary of the treasury in 1902-03, lost their seats. William Ashmead Bartlett Burdett-Coutts (Unionist), maintains his seat for Westminster, but Sir Henry Seton Karr was defeated at St. Helens by Mr. Glover, a Laborite.

There was an exciting scene at Battersea after the poll showed John Burns was elected. Mr. Burns stood on the balcony of the Town hall on Lavender hill, wildly waving his hat while fully 20,000 of his supporters were as wildly cheering. When Mr. Burns got a hearing he exclaimed: "Now, go and tell my wife." A few minutes afterwards Mr. Burns was escorted shoulder-high through the Battersea streets.

An effort is made to demonstrate that the out and out tariff reformers have done better than have the nebulous followers of the Balfourian policy and this raises the hope of the eventual success of the policy of Joseph Chamberlain.

There are complaints that Mr. Balfour has retained office too long and has failed to give his party a definite lead. There is a strong feeling that he is largely responsible for the Unionist disasters.

DEATH BENEATH RIVER.

Four Workers in East River Tunnel Dead While Others Narrowly Escape Like Fate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Two negro tunnel workers were killed by suffocation and caisson disease, two were drowned, two others were seriously overcome, and the white foreman and assistant suffered severely in rescuing those who survived, when a compressed air pipe burst in the East river tunnel, on Man-o'-War reef, opposite Forty-second street, early today.

The bodies of the two drowned men still lie at the bottom of the shaft, 20 feet below the river level. These men were overwhelmed by the water that entered the shaft when the pressure was removed. The other two dead men were hoisted to the surface by the foreman and his assistant, who also rescued the two whose lives were saved. The foreman and his assistant left the bottom of the shaft and were hoisted to the river level with the bodies just in time to escape drowning and death by "the bends."

SUIT FOR DIVORCE IS BROUGHT

Mrs. Robert H. E. Porter Puts in a Claim of Non-Support and Desertion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Announcement of the institution of divorce proceedings by Mrs. Robert H. E. Porter, the daughter of the late Thomas Nast, a caricaturist, against her husband, the son of the late Gen. Fitz John Porter, was an all-absorbing topic of conversation today in the social circles of Morristown, N. J.

The grounds given by Mrs. Porter in her bill are desertion and non-support. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were married at the home of the bride's parents in Morristown, on September 30, 1891. After their marriage the couple went to Pittsburgh, where Porter was connected with the steel industries of that city. Two children were born to them. The eldest, a girl, has died.

CLOSE MANY SALOONS.

Omaha Court Cancels License of More Than Half of Those in the City.

OMAHA, NEB., Jan. 16.—As a result of the efforts of the Civic federation to secure the enforcement of the midnight and Sunday closing provisions of the Slocum law, Judge Sutton, in the district court today, ordered the cancellation of the licenses of 170 of the 265 saloons in Omaha. When protests of the federation were ignored by the license board the matter was taken to the district court.

A mass meeting of the saloon proprietors was called tonight for next Monday to consider the question of contesting the efforts of the Civic federation. It is said that the validity of the Slocum law will be tested.

IS FORCED TO TAKE MONEY.

Man Is Confronted With a Revolver and a Dollar Is Thrust in His Hand.

FRANKLIN, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Held up on a dark street and compelled to accept a dollar, was the experience of D. D. Rogers, a merchant tailor early this morning. The highwayman had a revolver and the seriousness with which he did the job at once dispelled Mr. Rogers' thought that his Masonic friends were playing a joke on him.

LEADERS ARE ARRESTED.

All Members of the Workmen's Council Are Taken Into Custody at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—All the members of the Workmen's council, numbering 22 persons, were arrested during the night. The police seized many revolutionary documents and a mass of correspondence.

The government officials consider that the future action of the revolutionists will be hampered by the capture of the members of the council and the revolutionary documents.

It Quiets the Cough

This is one reason why Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is so valuable in consumption. It stops the wear and tear of useless coughing. But it does more—it controls the inflammation, quiets the fever, soothes, heals. Ask your doctor about it, and do as he says.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been a regular life preserver to me. It brought me through a severe attack of pneumonia, and I feel that I owe my life to its wonderful curative properties."—William H. Truitt, Wawa, Pa.

HAS MANY VICTIMS.

Detective Johnson Arrests Allegheny Man Who Is Charged With Forging Names to Spurious Checks.

Detective Johnson of Allegheny, last night arrested John F. Stetter, aged 30, who says he lives in Avery street. The man was locked up in Central station as a suspicious person, and will be held until a large number of Allegheny saloonkeepers call there for the purpose of identifying him.

It is charged Stetter has been forging checks and having them cashed by North Side liquor men for four months past. Johnson has been working almost continuously on the case. Stetter made no resistance when Johnson arrested him on Robinson street shortly before 9 o'clock and took him to the office of the superintendent of police. The prisoner refuses to talk.

The checks now in possession of the police are for sums ranging from $5 to $15. The name of Louis H. Broudy, formerly a bottler of Allegheny, is forged. The police have had complaints for several months about a man who passed worthless checks on them.

DUTIES OF GOVERNMENT.

Congressman Littlefield Gives His Ideas to New York State Bar Association. Choate Is Made President.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador at the court of St. James, was chosen president of the New York State Bar association today at the annual meeting. Greatest interest attached to the speech made by Congressman Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, whose subject was "The Three Great Departments of the Government and Their Relation to Each Other."

Mr. Littlefield took up the duties of the legislative, judicial and executive departments and expressed the opinion that the restraining influence of the constitution was the greatest benefit to the people from unwise legislation. He said the President's prerogatives do not extend to legislation and his influence should not be extended to try to have his hobbies enacted.

WOMAN AND DOG PARALYZED.

Neighbors' Sympathies Go Out to Aged Mother Swarmstead of East McKeesport.

"Mother" Swarmstead, well known in McKeesport and the surrounding territory as a vender of remedies, was discovered in her little home at East McKeesport recently, helpless as the result of a stroke of paralysis. She was trying to care for her aged pet dog which had been stricken with paralysis at about the same time. Medical attention was given the woman and arrangements were made at once to send her to the hospital.

Sympathy has led her neighbors to many acts of kindness. One has begun calling on her patrons and delivering the remedies. Another has arranged to rent the little home which she purchased from her meager savings. Another has taken a small flock of chickens under her care for the paralytic and will sell the eggs.

WEDDED THREE SCORE YEARS.

UNIONTOWN, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—The Rev. and Mrs. P. G. Sturgis today celebrated their 63th wedding anniversary at their home in Smithfield, many relatives being present. Mr. Sturgis was first a school teacher and later a Baptist minister, but about the time of the civil war he entered the mercantile business and after continuing in that 20 years he retired.

Mr. Sturgis is 87 years old and his wife 84. Each Sunday Mr. Sturgis walks half a mile to Mt. Moriah Baptist church and teaches a class. The descendants of the couple number 19 including two daughters, Mrs. Ewing McCleary and Mrs. Jennie Holmes, six grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

YOUNG LADY KILLS HERSELF BY SHOOTING

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Miss Tessie Henry, daughter of John A. Henry of Hamilton, six miles south of here, committed suicide this morning by shooting herself through the heart with a 38-caliber revolver. Her family is one of the foremost in this section. Miss Henry had returned Saturday from a visit to a sister, Mrs. Charles Miller, in Campbell street, Wilkinsburg. Mrs. Miller accompanied Miss Henry home. Miss Henry had been in delicate health for years, but it was not suspected she contemplated suicide. While in Wilkinsburg and after she returned home no change from her usual manner was noted.

WHAT DO YOU CARE? YOU'VE GOT YOUR HEALTH.

Great Natures Do Not Despair at Disappointment—They Look for Something Else to Do.

The broad-gauged man of today does not get blue just because things don't always come his way unless there is something the matter with him. If he "falls down" on one proposition he immediately starts to look up another. He always looks forward and keeps on hustling. A man with his health and faculties has plenty of opportunities and the man who gives up or even feels like it has either a small nature or some physical weakness.

Dyspepsia certainly puts the best of men out of condition for work of any kind. You cannot blame the dyspeptic for getting blue. The very nature of his disease is most depressing and calculated to deprive him of ambition, energy and hope. There is hope for him, however, certain and sure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are recognized throughout the length and breadth of the land as the one cure that's safe and sure. Their unbounded popularity—resulting from the thousands and thousands of cures they have effected, prove beyond the shadow of a doubt their greatness as a cure. Wherein lies their greatness? In the very fact that they are Nature's own simple remedy. They do the exact work in exactly the same way that the digestive fluids of the stomach do because they are composed of exactly the same elements and possess the same properties. They relieve the weak and worn out stomach of its burden of digestion and permit it, without let or hindrance, to rest and grow sound and well. The stomach will get well quick enough in its own natural way if it is let alone. That is what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do. They not only let it alone themselves, but make the food taken into the stomach do the same.

You can satisfy yourself of the truth of this statement by putting the food you eat into a glass jar with sufficient water and one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The process of digestion will be taken up and carried out just as the gastric juice and other digestive fluids would do it. Their action is natural and they cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. In fact you forget you have a stomach when they begin to do their work, so mild and natural is the operation. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50c a box.

THE BATH COMEDY

By AGNES AND EGERTON CASTLE,

Authors of "The Pride of Jennico."

(Copyright, 1900, by Egerton Castle.)

The baronet straightway fell into an opportunely adjacent chair and there remained—his legs extended with compass stiffness, his eyes starting with truly bovine bewilderment—staring at the rosy visage, the plump little figure that now emerged from the Ingle-nook.

"Oh, dear, oh dear!" faintly murmured Stafford, and with a fresh breath he was off again. "Ha, ha, ha! for an ox, my Jasper—thou hast started on a lovely wild goose chase—as friend O'Hara might say."

While:

"Mercy on us!" rippled the lady. "I protest, 'tis the drollest scene. Oh, Sir Jasper, Sir Jasper, see what jealousy may bring a man to!"

"Musha, it's neither head nor tail I can make of the game," said O'Hara, "but sure it's like an angel choir to hear you laugh again, me darling."

The guileless gentleman approached his mistress as he spoke, and prepared to encircle her waist. But with a sudden sharpness she whisked herself from his touch.

"Pray, sir," she said, "remember how we stand to each other! If I laugh 'tis with relief to know myself safe."

"Safe?" he echoed with sudden awful misgiving.

"Aye," said she, and spoke more tartly for the remorseful smiting of her own heart, as she marked the change in his face. "You would seem to forget, sir, that you have carried me off by violence—treacherously seized me with your hired ruffians." Her voice grew ever shriller, as certain rumors which her expectant ears had already caught approaching, now grew quite unmistakable without, and hasty steps resounded in the passage. "Oh, Mr. O'Hara, you have cruelly used me!" cried the lady. "Oh, Sir Jasper, oh, Mr. Stafford, from what a fate has your most unexpected presence here tonight thus opportunely saved me!" At this point she looked up and gave a scream of most intense astonishment, for there, in the doorway, stood my Lord Verney; and, over his shoulder, peered the white face of Capt. Spicer all puckered up with curiosity.

CHAPTER XXII.

O'Hara drew himself up. He had grown all at once exceedingly still.

Mr. Stafford, gradually recovering from his paroxysms, had begun to bestow some intelligent interest upon the scene. There was a mist of doubt in his eyes as he gazed from the victimized, but very lively, lady to her crestfallen "violent abductor," and then to the gloomy countenance of the newcomer on the threshold. There seemed to be, it struck him, a prodigious deliberation in Mistress Kitty's cry and start of surprise.

"What is my pretty Bellairs up to now? Well, poor Irish Denis with all his wits is no match for her anyhow, and, faith, she knows it," thought he. Aloud he said, with great placidity: "Tie fie, this is shocking to hear," and sat the good-humored Chorus of the Comedy, on the edge of the table, waiting for the development of the next scene.

Sir Jasper, wiping a beaded brow and still staring, as if by the sheer fixing of his bloodshot eye he could turn these disappointing puppets into the proper objects of his vengeance, was quite unable to follow any current but this muddy whirl of his own thoughts.

Lord Verney alone it was, therefore, who rose at all to Mistress Kitty's situation.

"Are you the scoundrel, then," said he, marching upon O'Hara, "who dared to lay hands upon an unprotected lady in the very streets of Bath?"

"Monstrous!" remarked Capt. Spicer behind him. Then jogging his patron's elbow, "'Twas well spoke, Verney, man. At him again, there's blood in this."

Mr. O'Hara looked steadily at Lord Verney, glancing contemptuously at Capt. Spicer, and then with long, full searching at the beguiling widow.

She thought to scent danger to herself in the air, and womanlike, she seized unscrupulously upon the sharpest weapon in her armory.

"Perhaps," she said, with an angry, scornful laugh, "Mr. O'Hara will now deny that he and his servants attacked my chairmen in the dark, threw me, screaming with terror, into his carriage, and that his intention was avowedly to wed me by force in London tomorrow."

All eyes were fixed on the Irishman, and silence waited upon his reply. He had grown so pale that his red head seemed to flame by contrast. He made a low bow.

"No, Kitty," said he, in a very gentle voice, "I deny nothing." Then sweeping the company with a haughty glance. "This lady," said he, "has spoken truth; as for me, I am ready to meet the consequences of my conduct."

His eyes finally rested once more on Lord Verney. The latter grew white and then scarlet; while Spicer whispered and again jogged.

"Of course," blustered the youth, and wished that he had the curious digestion of his contemporaries, that his stomach did not so squeamishly rebel at the prospect of a dose of steel, "of course, sir, you must be aware—"

"It shall be swords," interrupted the irrepressible Spicer; "and gad, sir, what my noble friend will have left of your body I will myself make mince of this night! Aye, sir," said the captain, astonished at his own valour, slapping his bony chest and beginning to squint as was his wont under excitement; "I will fight you myself, sir."

"Fight you!" exclaimed O'Hara, suddenly stung into magnificent contempt. "Fight you, sir?" he ran a withering eye over the grasshopper anatomy of the toady as he spoke, "you, sir, you, the writer of the dirty note this morning, bidding me apologise—apologoise!" cried Denis, with his most luscious brogue, "to the man, Sir Jasper there, for having insulted you on the subject of your miserable mealy head—fight you, sir? Sure, rather than fight you," said Mr. O'Hara, searching for the most emphatic asseveration conceivable, "I'd never fight again for the rest of my life! But I'll tell you what I'll do for you: next time you thrust that ugly face of yours within the reach of my arm O'll pull your nose till it's as long as your tongue, and as slender as yer couvare, damme!"

"Oh, gad! what a low scoundrel," murmured Capt. Spicer, withdrawing quickly several paces and with an intensified cast in his eye. "'Tis positive insult for a gentleman to speak to him."

"Now, my lord," said O'Hara, resuming his easy dignity.

But that her comedy should drift into tragedy was none of Mistress Kitty's intentions. Briskly stepping between the laboriously pugnacious Verney and the poor Irishman whose eye (for all his present composure) shone with the lust of the fray, she thus addressed them collectively and in turn:

"Shame, shame, gentlemen, I protest! Is it not enough that a poor women's heart should be set a-fluttering by over much love, must it now go pit-a-pat again for over-much hate? My Lord Verney, think of your mother. Think of her, of whose declining years you are the sole prop and joy; recall to mind those principles of high morality, of noble Christian duty, which that paragon of women so sedulously inculcated in you!" Her voice quivered on the faintest note of mockery. "Oh, what would that worthy lady's feelings be, were you to be brought home to her a corse! What, ah what indeed would your feelings be if, by some accident" here she shot involuntarily what was almost the suspicion of a wink in the direction of O'Hara, "you had to answer for the life of a fellow-creature before tomorrow's dawn? Why, you could never open your Bible again without feeling in your bosom the throbbing heart of a Cain." She stopped to draw breath.

Mr. Stafford, one delighted grin, slid the whole length of the table on which he sat with dangling legs, to get a fuller view of the saucy face: "Incomparable Bellairs," he murmured to himself with keen appreciation. And: "So, no, my noble friend," thought he, as he shot a glance at the solemn Verney, "now do I know what has closed to you for ever the gate of Paradise."

"And you, Mr. O'Hara," resumed the lady, turning her eye, full of indefinable and entrancing subtleties upon the honest gentleman, "would you have me forgive you this night's work? Do not, then, do not force this impetuous young man to an unnecessary quarrel. Allow him to withdraw his challenge. Do that in atonement, sir," said she, with much severity of accent; but her eye said sweetly enough, "Do that for me," and gave further promise of unutterable reward.

"Madam," said O'Hara, glancing away as if the sight of her beauty were now more pain than pleasure to him, "'tis for my Lord Verney to speak; I am entirely at his orders. I understand," and here, for all his chivalrousness, he could not refrain him from a point of satire, "I understand, ma'am, that you have given him the right to espouse your quarrels."

"Most certainly," said the crimson Verney, who had been monstrously uneasy during his lady's sermon, not only because every word of it hit some tender point of his abnormally developed conscience, but also because of an indefinable sensation that he was being held up to ridicule, "most certainly, sir, it is as Mistress Bellairs' future husband that I find it incumbent—that I find myself forced, reluctantly—no, I mean—" here he floundered and looked round for Spicer, who, however, was ostentatiously turning his back upon the proceedings and gazing at the moon. "In fact," resumed the poor youth, falling back on his own unguided wits, "I have no alternative but to demand satisfaction for an attempt on the honor of the future Lady Verney."

"Mercy on us!" cried Mistress Kitty, with a shrill indignant little scream, "Oh, fie, my lord, who would have deemed you so blood-thirsty? Before heaven," she cried piously, glancing at the raftered ceiling, "before heaven, it would be the death of me, were there to be quarrelling, strife, contention for me—for me! Who am I?" she said with the most angelic humility, "that two such gallant gentlemen should stake their lives for me? Rather," said she, "will I give you back your word, my lord. Indeed," this with a noble air of sacrifice, "I feel Providence has but too clearly shown me my duty. Hush, hush, Verney, bethink yourself. How could I ever face your mother (were you indeed to survive the encounter) with the knowledge that I had exposed you to danger; that for me you had loaded your soul with blood-guiltiness!"

She shuddered and looked delicious.

"Child," said she meltingly, as Lord Verney faintly protested, "it must be so. I have felt it more than once; you are too young." There was a conviction in her voice that gave no hope of reprieve, and Lord Verney, who had already found out that Mistress Bellairs was too dangerous a delight to pursue with comfort, accepted his sentence with a Christian resignation that did justice to his mother's training. "All, all must now be over between us," said Kitty pathetically, "save a gentle friendship! Your hand, my lord."

GIFTED YOUNG WOMAN COMES WITH IRISH LADIES' CHOIR

MISS MADGE MURPHY

The violin soloist appearing with the Irish Ladies' choir, which will be heard at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall on Wednesday, January 24, is Miss Madge Murphy, a pupil of Sevcik, the teacher of Kubelik, Kocian and other great artists. She began her musical career in Ireland, where she carried off numerous prizes in the Feis Ceoil competitions. Then she studied with Sevcik and won the distinction of being the best female pupil that great teacher ever turned out. Miss Murphy is mistress of her instrument, and in addition to being gifted with that sentiment and ardor of a fine Celtic nature, has been endowed with the most valuable asset of a public artist, personal beauty.

THOMAS' ACTION STIRS MINERS

MITCHELL ADDRESSES MINERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Jan. 16.—A dispatch this afternoon from Philadelphia, quoting President E. B. Thomas of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company as saying that the anthracite operators have agreed to meet President Mitchell and representatives of the Shamokin convention in conference, created a big stir among the delegates to the Mine Workers' convention. But little else was discussed tonight. A majority seem to regard it as a good omen, coming on the first day of the conference here, but there was a large element that expressed dissatisfaction with Thomas' statement that Mitchell would be met as the representatives of the miners as in 1902—not as a representative of the organization.

This was regarded as an evidence of the old disposition of the anthracite operators to refuse to recognize the union. The temper displayed by many delegates tonight indicated that recognition of the union will be a cardinal principle in future negotiations with the anthracite operators, and they will be satisfied with nothing less. It would not be surprising if the radicals should attempt to have Mitchell and his associates reject the proposition of Thomas unless the union is recognized. It was learned, however, that the district officers of the anthracite miners are greatly pleased at the word from Thomas, and while they are noncommittal, they intimate a conference may soon be held.

No Prospect of a Tie Up.

There has been a lot of talk here among the delegates that no scale would be agreed on at this convention until an agreement has been reached with the anthracite operators, but there does not seem much prospect of a tie-up in the bituminous region until anthracite troubles are settled. It is not likely Mitchell can leave the conference here until it is concluded, and it is not probable the anthracite operators would agree to negotiate with any other representatives of the organization. Mitchell seems to be resting easy about the anthracite situation. In his annual address he discussed it as far as he cared to let the delegates and the public into its secrets. He gave no hint as to the progress of the negotiations further than to indicate it is satisfactory to him. It is believed he received the communication from Thomas several days ago, and it caused him to call the presidents of the anthracite districts here into conference three days ahead of the convention.

Practically all of the 1,200 delegates were on hand when President John Mitchell called the annual convention to order. The hall had been attractively decorated with American flags.

Governor Hanly Speaks.

Addresses of welcome were made by Gov. Hanly on behalf of the state, Theodore Perry, president of the Central Labor union; in behalf of Indianapolis union labor, and Alfred Potts, president of the Commercial club, in behalf of Indianapolis institutions. Mayor Bookwalter's letter, welcoming the miners to the city, was read.

The work of organizing the convention then began. The credentials' committee made its report, officially seating the delegates.

In the hall, besides a number of coal operators, were representatives of several railroads and other coal consuming interests. President Mitchell, Vice President Lewis and Secretary Wilson of the Miners' organization were given enthusiastic receptions. President Mitchell's voice is strong and all traces of his recent illness have disappeared.

Though the preliminary work, which pressed closely on the addresses, was long and tiresome, the delegates showed great interest. The report of the credentials committee, seating the delegates, showed that 1,461 local unions were represented.

In his annual address President Mitchell in speaking of the policy to be pursued by the miners in the coming joint conference with the coal operators said:

I am conscious of the fact that more than ordinary significance attaches to anything I may say as to the policy we should pursue when we meet the operators in joint convention; especially is this true at the present time, when it is well known that the miners of practically the entire country will soon be released of contract obligations and that they and their employers will be compelled in the event of a disagreement to find some other means of adjusting their relations. In connection with this subject it may not be amiss to review briefly the history of the recent past.

You will recall the depression in the coal trade in the fall and winter of 1903, which culminated in a reduction of wages in the spring of 1904. The adverse conditions prevailing at that time continued during the year 1904 and even up to the spring of 1905. From that time on, there was a gradual improvement both in prices and tonnage, which was continued until the present, and if the activity in the iron market, in the railroad, industrial and commercial affairs of the country is any barometer by which future conditions may be forecasted, the prospect of continued prosperity in the mining industry seems assured.

Sentiment and Philanthropy.

I recognize the fact that there is little sentiment and no philanthropy in the determination of our general wage agreement. However, it appears to me that inasmuch as we gave relief to our employers by accepting a lower rate of wages at a time when there was little demand for coal and when prices were falling below a profitable margin, they should reciprocate and voluntarily share with us their present and prospective prosperity.

And I recommend that the scale committee take these facts into consideration in the formulation of their report.

In the opening paragraph of this report, reference was made to the obstacles we have encountered in the work of organization. Lest our language be misunderstood when we speak of "open foes and professing friends," I desire, even at the risk of giving offense and inviting controversy, to say that we have been attacked from two sources which one would expect to be diametrically opposed.

First, we have had the intense opposition of the Parry-Post aggregation of union wreckers, who have antagonized every effort we have made to organize the non-union fields of the country, especially the Irwin, Connellsville and Meyersdale districts of Pennsylvania, the Georges Creek district of Maryland and the state of Colorado and the two Virginias.

Opposing Organizations.

Second, we have been opposed with equal vigor although with different weapons—by an organization styling itself the Industrial Workers of the World and by its principal affiliated body, the Western Federation of Miners.

The recognized spokesmen of these organizations profess great solicitude for the welfare of the coal miners. They seek to convey the impression that the coal miners are so densely ignorant that they are unable to conduct their affairs or successfully to manage an organization of their own choice. Indeed these self-constituted advisers, none of whom, to my knowledge ever worked in a coal mine in his life and most of whom have made failures of the several organizations with which they have been connected, justify their attacks upon us by saying that we make trade agreements which so tie the hands of our members as to render us unable to strike at any time during the year when conditions would seem propitious. They lose sight of the fact that if we had no agreements and were therefore at liberty to strike at our own sweet will the operators would have precisely the same right.

Seek Legislation.

Mr. Mitchell said there had been a substantial increase in the numerical strength of the organization, the paid-up membership having passed the 300,000 mark. The gain in the anthracite field was 41,671.

President Mitchell said the committees appointed at the Shamokin (Pa.) convention, to confer with representatives of the mining companies for the purpose of formulating an agreement was making satisfactory progress. He called attention to the increase in machine-mined coal to 28.78 percent of the total production and urged that strenuous efforts be made to establish a fixed differential. The executive board, he said, had prepared a bill for presentation to state legislatures, the object of which is to provide for the examination of persons seeking employment in mines and so prevent the employment of incompetent men. The bill presented in congress for the creation of a government bureau of mines was indorsed.

Expenditures High.

Secretary W. B. Wilson reported that notwithstanding the increase in the per capita tax by the last convention, the expenses of the organization has exceeded the income by $214,466.

The organization spent $66,000 for the support of the strike at Morris Run, Pa., $59,400 in district No. 10, $152,000 in the Meyersdale (Pa.) region, $23,597 for the strikes at Cabin Creek, W. Va., Spellman, W. Va., and other points in district No. 17; $2,842 for strikes in district No. 18, $17,623 for strikes in district No. 19, $402,724 in Alabama strikes and $1,400 in Michigan. The total expenditure for aid reached $754,722.

There are now 4,631 men on strike in Alabama, Tennessee, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Morris Run, Pa., strike cost in all $131,000, the Meyersdale $255,000, Alabama to November 30, $372,737 and Tracy City and Whitwell to November 30, $127,560.

There is in the national treasury $388,546; in 20 of the 28 district treasuries, $1,558,951; in 21 of the 31 sub-district treasuries, $115,449 and in the treasuries of three-fifths of the local unions $336,651, making a total of $2,679,133 in the organization's treasuries. The Journal has been run at a loss of $1,715 during the year. The total income for the year was $810,354 and the expenditures were $1,024,670.

Did Not Stop, Look and Listen.

Orrin Beam, a machinist of Corey avenue, Braddock, was injured last evening at Copeland station. He had just alighted from one of the Westinghouse specials on the Pennsylvania railroad and started across the tracks when he was run down by a train going in the opposite direction. His right thigh was crushed and his nose broken. He was taken to the West Penn hospital.

WILLARD APPEARS IN "THE FOOL'S REVENGE"

Favorite Actor Does Magnificent Work in the Climax of the Third Act.

Tom Taylor's fine old melodrama, "The Fool's Revenge," has not been seen here for years, except in the claptrap version of Thomas Shea, but it had a revival last night at the Nixon theater which recalled memories of the old days when Edwin Booth gave us Bertuccio, the jester. Despite its melodramatic tone and repellent theme, the play has acting opportunities that will keep it alive, and in the hands of such an actor as E. S. Willard it is raised to tragic dignity.

Mr. Willard's Bertuccio shows none of the lighter side of the actor's art. This is the first season he has essayed the role, which is almost as far from his ordinary vein as "The Man Who Was." He surpassed the expectations of his most ardent admirers, and the tremendous climax of the third act was a triumph of histrionic power. The acid bitterness of his foolery, the paternal tenderness toward his daughter, the terrible despair when he sees his revenge recoil upon himself, and the grim hypocrisy by which he seeks to win admittance to the banquet—all were interpreted with subtlety as well as force. This ought to become one of Mr. Willard's stock roles.

The support of the star was adequate, though not uniformly good. There is always a tendency, when blank verse is the medium, to become declamatory. Miss Ruth Barry, who played Ginevra, needs to guard especially against this overstraining. On the other hand, William Sauter, as Dell' Aquila, read his lines exceptionally well. Miss Alice Bonnon played Fiordelisa with charm, about all that is required of the role; Mr. Barfoot gave character and individuality to Ascoli, and Miss Rose Beaudet somewhat overdid a good bit of comedy as Brigitta.

There is perhaps one point where the stage management might have added another effective factor. This was in the scene where Bertuccio holds the ladder while his own daughter is being carried off. To bring the ladder forward would give Mr. Willard a chance for expressive acting at its foot, and would key up the audience for the finale of the second act.

The play was very prettily mounted and costumed, and the appropriate entr'acte music from "Rigoletto" deserves commendation.

This afternoon Mr. Willard appears as Jessan in "The Brighter Side" of Capus; and this evening as Goodwillie in "The Professor's Love Story," by Barrie.

SPITTAL QUITS THE SOO TEAM

WILL BE LEAGUE REFEREE

"I have played my last game in this league," declared Charles Spittal, manager of the Canadian Soo seven, last night at Duquesne garden, after the game in which his aggregation was walloped by Pittsburgh, 9 to 3.

"You can't blame one for quitting after being in such a game, can you? I am going home with the team and will begin refereeing in the league, taking the place of Gibson," he added.

Spittal's team is of that strength that would not make a manager go to bed feeling contented. It is an aggregation that would make a manager seek nerve tonics hourly. In other words, it is weak, bad and outclassed. Spittal was about the only first-class player on it, and he has seen better days, too.

The "cellar champions" were easy for the Pittsburgh champion aspirants, who outplayed them from the start. The Canadians, however, started off last night as though they were going to make a good game of it, scoring the first goal, but when the locals hit their right stride a different aspect rapidly was given the game.

The game was rough in spots. Bill Taylor of the Soo, was twice benched for roughness. Rattley and Campbell were benched for doing the "Gus Hill" act and Melville was chased for taking a well-directed wallop at B. Taylor's head after the latter had cracked him on the cheek, sending him to the ice.

Dave Taylor was the bright star in the goal line, shooting five. Campbell was second with three and Roberts with one. The feature of the night, however, was the clever playing of Red Stuart. His work in advancing the puck was worth watching.

B. Taylor shot the first goal for the Soo on a pass from Clifton. Melville, who played a good game, and Roberts rushed along the rubber and D. Taylor shot for Pittsburgh. Then Ward negotiated one for the Soo, but Campbell got it back by going the length of the ice and shooting while traveling at top speed. Campbell followed with another run and Taylor shot. Stuart went through the entire field and Campbell shot goal. Campbell took the rubber up and D. Taylor added another goal. D. Taylor shot one from a scrimmage early in the second half and Clifton secured one from a scrimmage also. Stuart went to the Soo cage and Campbell shot another. Taylor shot again when Roberts took the puck up, and Roberts sent in the ninth from a scrimmage just as the whistle blew. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—9.		Soo—3.

D. Taylor	F	Clifton

SIX OHIO TOWNS TO BE IN O. AND P. LEAGUE

New Castle and Either Braddock or McKeesport to Complete the Circuit.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 16.—After a harmonious session the Ohio and Pennsylvania league was launched today with eight hustling baseball towns as members, two of them being Pennsylvania cities, the remainder being in Ohio. The circuit comprises Youngstown, Akron, Mansfield, Newark, Zanesville and Lancaster, O., and Braddock and New Castle, Pa.

This circuit was not completed until several hours had been consumed in an inventory of the clubs seeking membership. Each delegation was called in turn before the six holdovers. Braddock, Youngstown, Akron, Newark, Zanesville and Lancaster were given a chance to air their advantages.

The towns applying were East Liverpool, Steubenville, Marietta, Mt. Vernon and Cambridge, O., and McKeesport. Finally New Castle was selected to succeed Butler, Pa., which paid for membership last year, while Mansfield was chosen to succeed Homestead. This done, the league unanimously elected Charles Morton of Akron to act as president, secretary and treasurer, he having served in this capacity in the old protective association. His salary was placed at $1,000, or rather he is paid $4,000 for the season and required to pay the umpires, the traveling expenses and his own expenses out of this amount.

Harry Smith of Lancaster, W. O. Anderson of Zanesville, M. G. Snyder of Akron and A. L. Cook of Youngstown were elected as a board of directors, while the schedule committee will consist of Cook of Youngstown, Palmer of Akron and Anderson of Zanesville. They are instructed to construct two schedules, one of 128 games and one of 140 games.

Frank Torreyson Objects.

The season will open May 1 and end September 25. The salary limit was placed at $2,500 but will not be operative until 1907, as many of the clubs have already signed their players for the coming season at a figure which is in excess of this amount.

Braddock's admission is conditionary. At present the Carnegie Steel Company, which is backing the Braddock team, does not allow its team to play Sunday ball either at home or abroad. Such an arrangement the other league members will not listen to and Braddock must either play Sunday ball away from home or surrender her franchise to the neighboring town of McKeesport. This Braddock must decide by Saturday.

Frank Torreyson, the McKeesport owner, does not exactly like this arrangement. He thinks he should have been admitted today and seem inclined to take part in the organization. As it stands now there are some things in connection with the organization that do not meet with his approval. Still he is likely to join if the chance is afforded him. He will not join any outlaw league, as he says his plant will cost him $8,000 before a game is played, and he wants nothing but organized ball under protection.

Steubenville and East Liverpool are likely to join the new league founded at Pittsburgh last week. Marietta will also ask to join this league, while Cambridge and Mt. Vernon will struggle along with independent ball. In order that there may be no such trouble as there was last year when no averages were compiled, the official scorers will be paid this season by the home teams.

Hogan Signs Frank.

The umpires will receive $100 a month and their transportation. President Morton will have entire charge of the umpires. In case of a team forfeiting a game it will be fined $200, unless unavoidable. Erie was represented at the meeting by Frank Baumeister, president of the Interstate league, but he showed that in order to take Erie in the Ohio and Pennsylvania league would be forced to pay the Interstate league $2,500 for its franchise. This was out of the question.

Marty Hogan today signed Doty Frank of Columbus, formerly with Terre Haute and Ft. Wayne, to cover second for Youngstown. Steubenville has secured Eddie Lee, formerly manager of the Altoona Tri-State league, to manage and catch for its team.

While there was perfect harmony existing at the meeting some of the larger towns are not absolutely satisfied, as they think at least two of the clubs may not draw well. The backing of each team is sufficient, but the larger cities want to draw something over the guarantee when they visit some of the other members. The southern end of the circuit, however, controlled the meeting, and two of the weaker towns were holdovers, who could be dropped, but the league did not know how to do it.

The constitution of the Eastern league with modifications to suit this league, which were prepared Monday, were adopted. The league will meet at the call of the president to adopt the schedule. It will probably be held at Akron.

Braddock was represented at the meeting by Don McKim. The Spalding ball was adopted for one year.

Before going to Zanesville Don McKim, the Braddock manager, said he was making the trip for the purpose of securing the forfeit money which he gave the association last year. He declared he did not want in the Ohio and Pennsylvania league, and when the matter of Sunday ball was under discussion at the meeting of the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia league McKim said the officials of the Braddock club would not countenance Sunday ball. McKim was one of the prime movers in the organization of the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia league, and it is a surething bet that the club will be in that organization. Torreyson has all along favored the Ohio and Pennsylvania league, and the chances are that he will have a franchise in that league and McKim in the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Larry Temple is now after Jack O'Brien good and hard, and his manager, Jimmy Mason, will leave today at noon for Cleveland to meet O'Brien and see if there is a chance for a match. Temple has fought O'Brien before, and while O'Brien had the best of the contest in the first part of the fight, Temple hit him a hard punch in the fifth round and broke the Quaker's rib, hurt him so badly that he did not fight again for almost three months. A responsible club in the east has wired Mason to see what he can do with O'Brien, and that is the reason of Mason's trip to Cleveland. While in the Forest City an effort will be made to secure Pat Carney to meet Paul Moore, and Irish Cunningham to meet Joe Aiton at the next boxing show after Saturday night.

Frank Carsey, who beat KM Brock without any trouble at South Sharon, will be one of the boxers in a show that will take place here in about three weeks. If Brock wants to redeem himself he will be given the chance. Jock Fhendicle will be on in one of the contests and his opponent will be a first-class man.

Archie Parker, the South Side wrestler, wants to meet any wrestler from 145 to 160 pounds. Father Hough preferred.

First Row—Wright, Dipple, Ross, R. Beam.

The Wilkinsburg Athletics, after two successful seasons on the diamond, are prepared to place in the field the strongest team which has represented Wilkinsburg in the past three years. In the past two seasons, out of 55 games played, 46 were victories. Last year Thounhurst, Messner, Wright, Bien, Fleeger and Dipple all hit over .300. Friday night a meeting will take place, probably at the Sterling hall in Wilkinsburg, when officers will be elected for this season.

DEAR BUTCH IS THE WINNER

LOSER IS QUICK AS A CAT

MONESSEN, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Andy Zember of Monessen, better known as "Butch," won a decisive victory over Jimmy Frazier of Pittsburgh here tonight in exactly 1 minute and 10 seconds. Both seemed to be in excellent condition, Zember appearing to be the heavier. The bout was for a side bet of $50 and was to have been six rounds. Ralph Herrera, said to be a brother of the Mexican who defeated Young Corbett recently at San Francisco, acted as referee for all the contests, which were watched by a crowd of 400 sports.

When the men entered the ring the betting was even money. When time was called the crowd settled down in the expectation of witnessing a bout that would go the limit. Frazier quite as a disappointment, landing lightly several times on Zember's body and face. The blows were unnoticed by the butcher boy, who appeared to be the cooler of the two. After fighting about a minute the men clinched in the middle of the ring. They made a clean break. Zember feinted for the body and followed it up with a terrific right hook to the point of Frazier's jaw, sending the Pittsburgher across the ring and under the ropes. Frazier's head struck the floor, where he lay seemingly unconscious. The referee began the count and Jimmy attempted to rise. He succeeded in getting to his knees, but he fell over on his back and was counted out.

For several minutes after the decision Frazier seemed to be dazed. He was taken to his dressing room, and was himself again in a short time.

In the preliminaries Pat Curley of New Kensington had the better of Tom Trimble of Pittsburgh in a six-round bout. Kid Sullivan of Homestead, at 105 pounds, broke even for honors in a four-round bout with Kid Glank of New Kensington, at 120 pounds. Young Bijou, colored, of Pittsburgh, fought Jack Rowe of Soho to a standstill. In this bout the negro seemed to be the favorite. Both were severely punished.

COLLEGE AND

STOCKHOLDERS ARE INSISTENT

The proposition made by the directors of the Lustre Mining Company before 250 stockholders gathered in Hotel Henry yesterday afternoon to increase the capitalization of the company from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, was deferred by a unanimous vote, a committee was appointed to audit the books of the company over the audit presented by the directors and another committee appointed to immediately raise $250,000 to buy necessary machinery. The sentiment of the meeting as expressed by the stockholders was adverse toward the management, and T. J. Gillespie, one of the principal stockholders, made some startling announcements in relation to the company's management. Among those present were some of the most prominent financial men in the city.

President H. D. Gamble of the company presided and read several voluminous reports concerning the company's mines, all of which are in Mexico. They announced that the ore sold last year averaged $12.25 a ton, and samples from some undeveloped mines had assayed up to $100 a ton in gold. The mines cover 939 acres. Urgent requests were made for additional machinery and a gas and electric plant.

President Gamble announced the liabilities of the company were $766,926.09, the quick assets, $235,405, and the balance of indebtedness, $533,517.28. Since May, 1904, the company has paid out $340,043.55 in vouchers, and, said President Gamble, "We have them here on the table—We thought we would bring them along to answer any questions." He told of going to Mexico, discharging the bookkeeper and having the books audited by Mexican chartered accountants, who worked six months on the books at a cost of $3,600 to the company. He then presented the proposition to increase the capitalization from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 to "meet present demands."

Plan to Increase Capital.

The plan was introduced by a letter received from the Lustre Mining and Smelting Company, which has recently been chartered under the territorial laws of Arizona, with a capitalization of $5,000,000. The officers are directors and stockholders of the Lustre Mining Company. This new company offers the stockholders of the Lustre Mining Company five shares of stock for one share of Lustre mining stock, plus $10 in cash. By this means $1,000,000 would be raised and the capitalization of the company would be five times greater.

At the conclusion of President Gamble's remarks, T. J. Gillespie arose and objected to taking up the proposition of increasing the capitalization until a clearer insight could be had into the affairs of the company, and the means by which the debt had accrued. He made some startling statements and his contentions seemed to have the unanimous support of the stockholders present, some of whom had met in caucus during the session. Mr. Gillespie said in part:

T. J. Gillespie Wants to Know.

I own several thousand shares of stock of the Lustre Mining Company, and am not only speaking for myself, but for others whose combined holdings are several times greater. I object to proceeding with this policy. I do not by any means oppose an increase of capitalization, nor do I charge the directors and officers of this company with crooked work; but there are some things we stockholders ought to know in detail.

I understand this company has been in existence 20 years and that a capital of $1,000,000, together with a debt of $766,000 and all money received for ore mined has been spent. What constitutes the $766,000 debt? We have no satisfactory explanation. One director has told me that $220,000 is due on outstanding notes and about $550,000 on open accounts. What for? One of the officers of this company has told me that the $550,000 on open accounts is largely due to the directors of the company. We object until we have a full and complete audit. It seems to me that in companies of this character it is only fair for us to have a detailed statement of how this money was spent. If spent in the mines, even though injudiciously, I will say Amen. A statement is due the stockholders.

Bought on Strength of Reports.

A number of officers positively informed me several months ago that the indebtedness of the company was $250,000. Afterwards I heard this report confirmed. On the strength of these reports I went into the market and purchased several hundred shares of the company's stock, paying as high as $37 a share for some of it. I was given to understand last September that by December the company would be free from debt. Now I hear that the indebtedness is three times greater than I was told, and from same source.

It seems to me we need proper management and direction. President Gamble has just told you that since Thomas R. Loughrey has been added to the directorate he has lent the company very valuable services. I am in favor of having a few more Thomas Loughreys on the board of directors. At the value of the ore in this mine, it ought to be a world-beater.

I'm in favor of increasing the output and the capital stock as well, but I want to know where we stand. Books should be carefully audited and a full and complete statement issued, so that the stockholders can act intelligently. You have one cold fact before you: That the company is $766,000 in debt and the capital of $1,000,000 has been spent. Let us know what this has been spent for. The proposition offered would get an additional million dollars. The debt is $766,000 and $250,000 is needed for machinery and you will have no working capital left.

Advocates Change of Directors.

As far as I am concerned, I am advocating a change of directors. Let's get a Pittsburgh or Pennsylvania accountant whom we all know to audit the books of the company, instead of a Spanish statement.

President Gamble replied that the officers and directors of the company were in accord with Mr. Gillespie's views, but another audit would take much time and would probably cost $3,000. Mr. Gillespie answered that he would give his pro rata share towards the expense and believed the other stockholders would do the same.

Charles Hanna, a stockholder, moved that an audit committee of three, with Mr. Gillespie as chairman, be appointed to have the books audited. This was unanimously passed.

Former Gov. William A. Stone, who was legal adviser for the directors in framing the plan for increasing the capitalization, made an argument towards having the indebtedness taken care of.

Directors Have Burdens.

"I don't think," he said, "that for your own sakes the impression should go out that you do not value your property at $1,766,600. Auditing books won't pay debts. These men (it was believed he meant the directors) have burdens to bear, and maybe the banks are pressing them for the money due them. I would suggest that you appoint a committee to devise means for taking care of the indebtedness."

A stockholder moved that the capitalization be increased $250,000 and the additional stock be distributed to present stockholders, according to their holdings, and the $250,000 be applied for the needed new machinery. Attorney Stone said the charter would not permit this.

Someone asked if bonds could not be issued at once to raise $250,000 for machinery. Attorney Stone replied that they could if sold at par.

A motion then prevailed that a committee of five, to include the audit committee, be appointed to raise $250,000 at once for new machinery, and that this amount be paid back as soon as some feasible and agreeable means for increasing the capitalization can be arranged.

The audit committee was named to include T. J. Gillespie, William Montgomery and William L. Abbott, and these men, together with John A. Bell and H. M. Marlin, will constitute the committee to raise $250,000 at once for new machinery and to offer propositions to increase the capitalization, providing the result of the work of the audit committee is satisfactory. The stockholders adjourned to meet again in the Hotel Henry next Tuesday afternoon to hear reports from these committees.

NORMAN H. GEYSER TELLS HIS STORY

HE MAKES A GOOD WITNESS

Norman H. Geyser, who was a witness for several hours in his own behalf yesterday strengthened his own case considerably by his work under the fire of questions from Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr. From 11:20 a. m. until about 4:30 p. m. he stood the ordeal of telling his own story and then repeating it under cross-examination for the commonwealth's attorney. No opportunity to get in telling blows and to break down his story was lost and all of the skill of Mr. Robb was centered on that purpose. Geyser refused to get excited.

He started by denying he had been unduly intimate with the dead woman, but said he knew her well and gave her money and furnished her with provisions prepared by his own mother when her husband was out of work. He also admitted he paid the expenses of Mrs. Kirkpatrick's trip to Sandy Lake in August, 1904. When cross-examined by Mr. Robb, who sought with all his energy to make him admit knowing certain things, so that he could show the jury that Geyser was not so drunk as the case seemed to show, Geyser parried them all, and on being questioned as to his actions in the Diamond that night his answers usually were, "I don't remember" or "I don't know." He said he got very drunk that night after 9:30 o'clock and remembered little except he was in Mullie's saloon on South Diamond street, and that he fell and hurt his hand on East Diamond street, shortly before he went home.

Denies Statements to Police.

Geyser denied that he told Assistant Superintendent of Police John Glenn, several of the Allegheny front office men, Mrs. Mary Miller, the matron at the North Side central station, Dr. Thomas L. Hazzard, or anyone else, that he hurt his hand by falling on South Diamond street, "near the gas office."

Character witnesses took up the first part of the session and then Geyser was placed on the stand. He was steady and deliberate, frequently pondering over the answer he would give to questions asked. He opened his testimony by saying he was 30 years of age, had lived in Allegheny all his life, worked for a broker at marking quotations on the stock board, was a musician, giving lessons and playing engagements. Then in response to questions he said he knew Mrs. Kirkpatrick from the day of her wedding, at which he played. He had known her husband for a long time. He said he had never threatened Mrs. Kirkpatrick's life, never told her husband he wanted revenge, never told him he was intimate with her. The last time he saw Mrs. Kirkpatrick was at 7 o'clock on the night of her death. It was on Federal street. She came out of a store and he came out of a saloon. She asked him if he was wetting his whistle and he answered in the affirmative. They talked for some time and she was very pleasant. She went up Federal street when they parted and he did not make an engagement to meet her again.

Met Husband in the Evening.

Geyser said he had met her at 5 o'clock the same day. He was in Wolfendale's saloon and a boy came in and said Mrs. Kirkpatrick was outside looking for her husband. He went out and saw her. She was worried and said she wanted to see her husband. Her eyes were filled with tears and she said her father-in-law was making trouble. They talked but a few minutes. Previous to this, at 4:30 o'clock, he had been standing at Enright's hotel when she passed and he spoke to her. He had quit work at 4 o'clock and gone to Wolfendale's saloon, where he took a drink of whisky. He remained there until 6 o'clock and went home to supper.

Geyser said he left there at 7 o'clock and went to Wolfendale's again. He met Crawford there and stayed until about 7:15. He drank three or four glasses of whisky. He went to Brunswick's saloon, where he thought he drank beer. He met Kirkpatrick there and they went back to Wolfendale's, where he drank more whisky. He left Crawford there. Then he went up Federal street and met Arthur Davis and they went back to Wolfendale's, where he had several more drinks. He left Wolfendale's with Davis about 20 minutes after 8 o'clock.

"I took a few drinks at Wolfendale's with Arthur Davis," Geyser said. "We then went up Federal street to Dietz's, where we sat at a table in the back part of the bar room, and each drank three or four whiskies. It was after 9 o'clock when I left Davis, and after that my recollection of what occurred that night is not very good. But I know I went to Mullie's saloon, on South Diamond street, near East Diamond. I think I stayed in the Diamond the rest of the evening until I went home. I also know that I fell in the Diamond that night and hurt my hand. I am positive it was on East Diamond street that I fell, for the fall brought me to my senses somewhat, and I realized that I was near the market house and a man had picked me up. I also recollect my right hand pained me considerably at that time.

"I do not remember the exact time I got up Sunday morning. I found my overcoat was dirty on the side and front, and I brushed it off. I then went downstairs and showed my hand to mother and told her how I had hurt it by falling on the icy pavement.

Went to Music Rehearsal.

"Mother told Mrs. Hall, my sister, to wash my hand, and she did so and put some salve on the wounds. I then read the Sunday papers, ate breakfast, and went to Mr. McNumery's, on Second street, to our music rehearsal, but he was sick, and I went back home. I remember getting up during the night and going down to the second floor for a drink of water. I went to see Crawford on Sunday morning, and I went out during the afternoon.

"The first I heard that Mrs. Kirkpatrick was found dead was when Simpson, the reporter, came to the house Sunday evening. Detectives William M. Spier and John King came to the house shortly after the reporter got there and told me Supt. John Glenn wanted to see me at police headquarters, and I went along with them."

On re-cross-examination by Mr. Robb, Geyser said he had lived in the First ward 25 years, and in the present house, on Rebecca street, 12 or 13 years. In answer to questions, he said: "I knew Mrs. Kirkpatrick before she was married, when she lived in Henderson street, Allegheny, and after her marriage. I visited her frequently when she lived in Henderson street, but after she came back from Sandy Lake I did not visit her at night.

"When 'Bert' was in Monongahela City I went to her house frequently, and one night, when 'Bert' was drunk and delirious, she asked me to stay all night. That was the only time I ever stayed in her house all night."

"How late did you usually stay?" Mr. Robb asked.

"Not very late, except one night, when I stayed until 2 a. m. 'Bert' was drunk that night also, and acting crazy."

The Sandy Lake Episode.

"Where did Mrs. Kirkpatrick stay while at Sandy Lake?"

"Yes. I frequently saw her going in there the each way."

Geyser denied he ever told anyone he had been intimate with Mrs. Kirkpatrick either before or after she was married. He said he met her at 7:30 on the night she was killed, in Federal street, in front of the Brunswick hotel, and that she started towards her mother-in-law's house in Isabella street when she left him. That, he said, was the last time he ever saw her.

He denied telling Detective King the night he was arrested that he supposed they wanted him because Mattie Kirkpatrick had been found dead, also that he told Glenn or anyone else he hurt his hand by falling on South Diamond street, "near the gas office."

On re-direct examination Geyser said he had furnished Mrs. Kirkpatrick with money and provisions while her husband was in the workhouse, and said Kirkpatrick knew that he (Geyser) was furnishing the money for the trip to Sandy Lake.

James O'Brien, who said he is "an entertainer actor" and lives in Rebecca street, Allegheny, and John Hubbert, a bartender, testified to Geyser's good character.

Thief Ransacks Coraopolis Home While Hostess is Making Things Pleasant for a Guest.

While Mrs. James Paxton was entertaining a woman friend at her home in Fourth avenue, Coraopolis, yesterday afternoon, a thief, who had entered the home after the visitor's arrival, ransacked the house. The door had been left ajar and the burglar, entering this way, searched the entire upper part of the house for valuables. He secured a watch, some small trinkets and clothing. Walking down the front stairs of the house he left the way he had entered.

Mr. Paxton, who was returning home met him coming out of the house. The burglar fled and Paxton, who is a cripple, could not chase him. Paxton gave the police a good description of the man.

A SAMPLE
THAT COSTS BUT A 2 CENT STAMP

Will give you proof that Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm will positively cure the worst case of catarrh and catarrhal deafness no matter how long you have suffered, how many remedies you have tried or how much money you have spent with specialists without permanent benefit. Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O., will send you a free sample if you will send them a two cent stamp for postage. The following testimonial is one of the thousands which they receive. It speaks for itself:

"I must write and tell you of the lasting benefit I have received from your catarrh balm—balm is surely the right name for it. It is now more than two years since I was cured by the balm.

"Then I suffered constantly; I could not go out doors and breathe the pure, sweet air which God intended we should enjoy. Now I can go out with my head bare and never suffer at all. Ever since I was cured I have recommended the balm to sufferers and all who use it get the same good results. The balm is a blessing to those afflicted with deafness. One lady to whom I recommended it for deafness said that it helped her the first night. A gentleman in Illinois wrote me if what was said about Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm was true, I sent a reply at once and told him that all—and more too—was true. If in any way I can benefit suffering humanity it is my wish to do so and if you can use this letter to effect that purpose, I shall be very glad."

WRITE FOR ATCHISON REFERENCES

For the past ten days a force of men has been clearing ground for the first machinery at Atchison. Grading has now commenced. THE RAILROAD SWITCH IS COMPLETED. The first carload of machinery has arrived at Atchison. We would produce a photograph showing this work, but have not the space. By permission, we refer you to T. R. Clendenin, President of the Committee of Forty at Atchison. If you doubt that the refinery work, as above stated, is commenced, send a stamped envelope to Mr. Clendenin and find out for yourself.

With one great refinery completed and in successful operation—with large storage and distributing stations on owned or leased grounds in the larger cities of Kansas, where by our own oil wagons the company can place its products at the doors of three-fourths of the population of Kansas—the Uncle Sam Oil Company continues to grow, until work has now commenced on refinery No. 2, on the banks of the Missouri river at Atchison. When fully completed this refinery will be the largest in the state, with a capacity of four thousand two hundred (4,200) barrels of crude oil daily. First carload of material arrived at Atchison last Thursday—balance is being shipped. Work will be crowded with a vim, until some time in May this plant will be turning out refined oil.

Along the Missouri river the Uncle Sam Company will establish large storage tanks at the principal trade and distributing centers for South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri, while at St. Louis Uncle Sam oil boats can reach by water the markets of the world at a saving of freight rates which in itself would pay large interest on money invested in the stock of this company at present prices. Don't wait until Uncle Sam oil wagons are patroling the Missouri valley states the same as they are in Kansas today, and then expect to buy this stock under $2.00 per share. Combined capacity of both refineries, when fully completed, will be five thousand four hundred (5,400) barrels of crude oil daily.

Sixty-nine miles of the main-trunk pipe line is now on the grounds. Over one-half of this sixty-nine miles is screwed together, while five-sixths of it is hauled and distributed along the right-of-way. Seventy miles more is contracted for. Men and teams are working continuously on this pipe line. Boilers and mammoth pumps for the two first pumping stations have arrived at Cherryvale. With main trunk pipe line, river refinery and barges completed, the Uncle Sam Oil Company will be one of the biggest dividend payers in the west. Allowing only 75 cents per barrel profits for refining the oil and 55 cents more per barrel—the actual amount that the company will save over railroad rates by owning its own pipe line and river barges—the total net yearly profits on five thousands four hundred barrels per day will run considerably over TWO MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR. Cutting this half in two would pay TEN CENTS PER SHARE yearly on stock offered you now at 20 cents.

To Secure Some of this Valuable Stock in this Fortune Making Enterprise at 20c on the Dollar Remittances with order should be forwarded promptly after you receive this paper

SUBSTANTIAL GROWING ENTERPRISE. DO YOU WANT YOUR INVESTMENT TO GROW WITH IT?

The Uncle Sam Oil Company today is a strong manufacturing enterprise. The refinery No. 1, at Cherryvale, now in successful operation, would in time complete both main trunk pipe line and refinery No. 2 on the banks of navigation, so when you buy stock you are not buying hot air or joining a wind-jamming concern, as a few jealous, blackmailing hirelings of the oil trust would have you believe, but you are getting value received and securing stock that has a future—stock that cannot help but steadily advance as the work goes forward, and with pipe line and second refinery completed will command a market value of $1.00 per share. The company is following safe methods, for doing what it promised, and now that it can soon commence paying dividends the balance of the stock will sell readily at from 20 cents to a half dollar per share. This 20-cent price offered herein is not going to last forever—don't think that you can delay about sending in your remittance and buy this stock at this price in ten days or two weeks—if you do you are very liable to get left, for the stock is going—the work will be crowded and the value of the stock increased.

THREE-FOURTHS OF THE STOCK IS SOLD.

The Uncle Sam Company has over 5,000 STOCKHOLDERS. They represent every state and territory in the union, also Canada and Old Mexico. These stockholders are working for the company—every day remittances are received from some stockholder who has secured an order for some of the stock from a friend. Besides this, hundreds of the stockholders have been on the ground and are doubling and trebling their holdings. The stock offered herein will soon be sold. The wires will be ticking orders for the stock before some sleepy heads realize what is offered them. Think of stock in a company with the strength and backing of the Uncle Sam Oil Company at the dollar. Such conditions will not last long. The stock is worth 40 cents per share right today, and with a few more miles of pipe line on the ground and a few more carloads of refinery material on the banks of the Missouri at Atchison, and that will be what you will pay for it, too. You can get 5,000 shares today for $1,000. It will cost you twice this in ninety days.

DIVIDENDS WILL COMMENCE JUNE 20.

Read over the advertisements of the Uncle Sam Oil Company and you will see that it keeps its promises—makes good, so to speak, and it will continue to do this. If you don't think so, put up some money on the wager that this company does not pay a handsome dividend on all stock issued and outstanding on the 20th of next June, and see how quick you lose it. On the other hand, if you have some money bringing 3 per cent in a bank that is liable to bust any day, send it down and take a few thousand shares of this stock. Secure property that will earn dividends for your children after you are gone. Pipe lines, refineries and oil wells are valuable—they are not going to run away—they will make money while you sleep. No reason on earth why this stock will not go to par, or $1.00 per share, and pay large dividends. At any rate, the company knows what it can do—it has the oil—the refinery is in successful operation—Uncle Sam oil wagons will reach out farther every day until the company will patrol the entire state—the profits in oil refining are enormous—the largest—if you want a part of them you can get them by purchasing some of this stock and you will get a dividend check on June 20. From then on the big river refinery will be completed, and if with the one refinery we can pay dividends, what can we do with the big one added to it? Let reason reign and line up with a really good, energetic enterprise once by securing some of this stock before it goes to a half dollar per share.

WE CONTROL OUR OWN OIL TERRITORY.

The Uncle Sam Oil Company can soon produce oil enough to furnish a 5,000-barrel refinery for twenty-five years from lands owned or controlled by the company. The company has the goods back of it. From 1,000 to 1,500 feet under the ground this company will, by pumping the oil from its own wells and through pipe lines and refinery and over barges, be able to reach the great population of the Missouri valley until it is burning in their lamps and under their furnaces. Oil is a necessity—it will always command a good price. Profits are certain.

OVER 30,000 ACRES OF OIL RIGHTS.

In Labette, Montgomery, Elk and Chautauqua counties and in the Indian territory the Uncle Sam Oil Company holds oil rights on over 30,000 ACRES. Some of this territory is the most valuable producing property in the oil fields. Considerable of this territory is what oil men term very good. However, no one knows what is under the ground. These oil rights alone, when developed, may make this company's stock worth five times what it is now offered at.

HAVE DRILLED TWO WELLS THAT STARTED OUT AT OVER ONE THOUSAND BARRELS PER DAY.

On eleven hundred-acre lot 47—in the Osage nation, near Bartlesville—the company has completed three big wells. The first one drilled was estimated by disinterested parties at from fifteen hundred to two thousand barrels the first day. However, the writer of this can make affidavit that it went considerably better than one thousand barrels the first day. Of course, anyone knows these wells settle down to about one-eighth of what they do the first day's run. However, the fortune-makers just the same. How would you like to own even a fifty-barrel oiler? Well, the Uncle Sam Company has been just fortunate enough to secure some of the cream of the oil fields. If you will come down we can show you this is correct, too. You can drill an oil well in deep territory on every four acres—and they will last. In the Kansas territory they ought to have five acres. Figure for yourself what the Uncle Sam Company can put on the THIRTY THOUSAND ACRES. Even though only one-fifth of this territory is good oil-producing territory, the output would still be enormous.

OWN OUR OWN DRILLS—DO OUR DRILLING AT COST.

The company owns four complete drilling rigs. Does its drilling at cost. This is a long mark in its favor, and goes to prove that it is in the business to stay.

HAS MILES OF LATERAL PIPE LINES COMPLETED.

At Cherryvale the company has pipe line connections with over three-fourths of the wells in the Cherryvale oil fields. All of these things cost money—run into the thousands of dollars. They are paid for, though, and they are a fixture for assets back of this stock.

CAN REACH OVER ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY (150) TOWNS IN KANSAS.

This company advertised on the start that within a year it would patrol Kansas with its oil distributing wagons from border to border. Well, nine months have passed and today we can reach from our main distributing station over ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY KANSAS TOWNS.

OWN OUR OWN TANK CARS.

The company owns TEN TANK CARS and is securing more. Think of it! We have the oil from our own wells, have our own tank cars, have our own tank wagons and storage tanks and about two thousand stockholders in Kansas demanding that every merchant handle Uncle Sam Oil. The facts are, this company has pretty near a lead-pipe cinch on the deal and is growing stronger every hour. It is anti-monopoly, bag and baggage, and is working for a square deal in good faith and is forcing the issue. Better join us while you can at a price that will make you good money. $200 will buy one thousand shares.

THIS COMPANY NOW EMPLOYS OVER FORTY MEN.

In the oil fields, at the refinery at Cherryvale, in the oil sales department and on the pipe line, more than FORTY men are crowding the work of the Uncle Sam Oil Company on to completion. During the next six weeks this number of men will be increased to over ONE HUNDRED. This company is doing things. An investment with it is bound to grow.

THE BALANCE OF THE STOCK WILL NET THE COMPANY OVER A HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

While this company is strong today—consider for a moment what a half million dollars more money placed in developing the different oil properties and completing the pipe lines and the big river refinery will do. When the stock is all sold there will be that much more cash back of the company. You are not joining any toy enterprise when you line up with Uncle Sam. You are securing stock that will be worth a dollar a share in a year, just as sure as you are a foot high.

CAPACITY OF CHERRYVALE PLANT IS 480 BARRELS DAILY NOW.

We can handle 480 barrels of the crude oil daily at Cherryvale. We are behind with our orders right now, as can be proven by letters. The company will ship two carloads a day for the next ten days and then not catch up.

SOLD 42,000 GALLONS IN ONE DAY TO ONE MAN.

This company can handle big orders. It has the goods and the equipment to put the refined oil on the market. Besides handling a large barrel trade and supplying the big distributing stations, the company is getting in line with the big independent producers all over the Central West. One of the largest independent oil producers in Southwest Missouri purchased FORTY-TWO THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX GALLONS in one day of this company. FOURTEEN THOUSAND GALLONS OF THIS OIL WAS LOADED AND SHIPPED the next day after the sale was made. As before stated, this is not a hot-air company. We offer you value received in the stock of this company and you will reap big rewards if you are fortunate enough to secure some of the stock before it is all sold and work completed.

CAN SAVE 55 CENTS A BARREL TO MISSOURI RIVER POINTS.

The company can save FIFTY-FIVE cents a barrel by pumping the oil over a main trunk pipe line to the Missouri river and then carrying it by barges to the different river points. This saving alone on the full capacity of the two refineries, when fully completed, would pay over SEVEN per cent yearly on each share of this stock. These are facts that can be proven and is one of the big reasons this stock is in demand.

ONE BIG STATION NOW IN OPERATION IN MISSOURI.

At St. Joseph, with over 125,000 population, and with the best railroad facilities possible for Northern and Central Missouri, the Uncle Sam Company has a large distributing station. Other stations will be located in Sedalia, Jefferson City, Chillicothe and a number of other Missouri cities.

BIG STATION WILL BE ESTABLISHED AT COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA.

By having a shipping point in each state where the Uncle Sam Company will establish stations, giving the company a great advantage—keeps the oil trust owned railroads from robbing the company by criminal rebates under the guise of interstate rates. From Council Bluffs this company will reach Iowa.

FROM OMAHA THE COMPANY WILL REACH NEBRASKA.

The farther north you go the higher is the price of coal and the better market for oil. From Omaha the company can reach the Nebraska trade. The same arrangements will be made in South Dakota.

WILL BE THE LARGEST REFINERY IN KANSAS.

The largest refinery the oil trust has in Kansas is 2,500 barrels daily. The Uncle Sam Company's big river plant, when fully completed, will have a daily capacity of FOUR THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED (4,200) barrels daily. The first carload of machinery is now on the ground. Balance will soon follow.

COMPANY HAS THIRTY-EIGHT ACRES OF LAND, WITH A HALF-MILE OF MISSOURI RIVER WATER FRONT, ALSO RAILROAD AND SWITCHING PRIVILEGES.

Contracts are signed for the river refinery. Here large storage tanks will be built. By-product manufactories will be completed. The company has a splendid site of thirty-eight acres. There is a water front on the Missouri river for nearly a half mile. Don't wait until the company has one of the greatest and most complete refineries in the West on this thirty-eight acres and then expect to buy this stock even at $1.00 per share. The time for you to get busy is now. Help yourself and this company, too, by sending a draft or check today. You can secure THIRTY THOUSAND SHARES now for $6,000, which is the largest amount the company will sell to any one man, or you are welcome to take 100 shares at $20. This is a common man's property. The rights of the smallest stockholder will be protected.

FIRST PIPE LINE PUMPS HAVE ARRIVED.

The first two main pipe line pumps have arrived, also boilers. The first pumping stations will be twenty-three miles apart. This company is preparing to pump FORTY-FIVE HUNDRED BARRELS of oil daily over this pipe line.

HOW WE WILL PAY DIVIDENDS ON THIS STOCK.

A certain amount of the profits made from the Cherryvale refinery now in full operation will be set aside monthly to meet a dividend in June. You will not have to wait for yearly to get returns from your investments when you buy this stock, and when the big river refinery is completed, which will be by the time, the dividends will, of course, greatly increase. The money raised from the sale of the balance of the stock will more than build the second refinery and complete the main trunk pipe line and drill close to 100 more oilers.

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TURN DOWN AN INVESTMENT IN THIS GROWING ENTERPRISE?

As you will notice by the following quotations on stock, so many shares, when sold, will pay for so many rods of main trunk pipe line. It is very important to complete this pipe line, and a special effort will be made to have it completed by the time the big river plant is ready to receive oil. Of course, if the line is not entirely completed, the company will use tank cars from the nearest railroad station at the end of the completed pipe line, and can make the pipe line a big payer from the word go—every mile of pipe line completed knocks off that much freight. We think that we can certainly pay for TWENTY MILES of this pipe line each month, and we base our calculations on the results from the past, when the company was not one-hundredth as strong as today. The offer on stock is as follows, and following each quotation is the number of rods of pipe line your remittance will enable the company to buy:

$1,320 will pay for one mile of the main trunk pipe line, and buys 7,000 shares, par value.....$7,000

$700 will pay for over one-half mile, and buys 3,500 shares, par value.....$3,500

$500 will pay for nearly one-half mile, and buys 2,500 shares, par value.....$2,500

$300 will pay for nearly one-fourth mile, and buys 1,500 shares, par value.....$1,500

$200 will pay for nearly one-sixth mile, and buys 1,000 shares, par value.....$1,000

$100 will pay for over one-twelfth mile, and buys 500 shares, par value.....$500

$50 will pay for 10 joints, and buys 250 shares, par value.....$250

$20 will pay for 4 joints, and buys 100 shares, par value.....$100

Every share of stock draws the same amount of dividends as any other share. The officers of the company are James Ingersoll, president; J. H. Ritchie, vice president, and H. H. Tucker, Jr., secretary and treasurer. These men also constitute the board of directors. All of the stock of the company has been sold for cash or its equivalent from the start. When you invest for stock your money goes into the enterprise to make the very stock you buy more valuable. The company is in touch with over TEN THOUSAND investors by special letter report. This announcement will appear in the principal and influential papers in the United States—will be read by over TWENTY MILLION PEOPLE. The company is a straight, legitimate enterprise—one that is already a far greater success than even the most enthusiastic expected on the start. References—Montgomery County National Bank, People's National bank and Cherryvale State bank, all of Cherryvale, Kan. The company has several pictures of the refinery at Cherryvale and different views of the oil fields which it will send with other information to investors who wish further information. The company is so well advertised and has so many working for it that without a doubt the stock will soon be sold, and investors would do well to not delay in securing the stock you want, as the company is one of great merit, and the price of the stock, with the assets back of it, offers every man an investment that he must admit is good, and far above the ordinary proposition. A MILLION DOLLAR PHIPPS PROJECT

Ironmaster Will Erect 14-Story Building in Duquesne Way to Include Natatorium.

EAST END REAL ESTATE SALES

Henry Phipps will add another 14-story building to his Sixth street group. It will cost $1,000,000 and will occupy the lot in the rear of the Bessemer building, extending southward to Cecil place. The general plans of the structure submitted by Architect Grosvenor Atterbury of New York, who has designed several other buildings for Mr. Phipps, have already been approved, and the details are now being worked out so that work can be started not later than April 1. By the terms of the contract the building must be completed within one year.

This project will serve two purposes—to provide a fine structure for storage and light manufacturing purposes and to furnish a home for the Pittsburgh natatorium. The site has a frontage of 120 feet in Duquesne way between the alley that runs alongside the Bessemer building and Cecil place. The former alley will be made 10 feet wider for the convenience of both buildings. To make the site symmetrical, 110x120 feet, Mr. Phipps has also arranged to take 20 feet off the rear of a Penn avenue store building, which he owns, and which now juts into the lot. On the front of this site, where now stands the Pittsburgh natatorium, there will be erected a 14-story building to extend back probably 80 feet. Near the center of the building there will be provided a very handsome entrance to the natatorium to be built on the rear of the lot. The front building will be similar in external design to Mr. Phipps' other big buildings near by, and will be erected with a special view to giving enormous strength. The building will be plainly furnished and provided with every modern appliance for the convenience of tenants desiring quarters for storage or particularly for light manufacturing. Such a building for the latter use has been needed badly in that locality for years, and it is altogether likely the structure may be entirely given over to those uses.

Special Architects for Natatorium.

The natatorium building to be provided by Mr. Phipps in the rear will be equal to any structure of its kind in the country. It will be three stories high, and special natatorium architects have been engaged the last few weeks by Mr. Phipps to travel over the country and embody in his proposed building the very best ideas they could gather from the structures visited. No pains or money will be spared in its construction, and its interior finish will be such as to entitle it to the name "A marble palace." It is likely that the building will have a side entrance on Cecil place. It will have at least double the capacity of the present natatorium in Duquesne way, which can handle about 1,200 persons a day. A splendid lot of Turkish baths will be one of the main features, and there will also be a swimming pool much larger than the present one. Shower, plunge and needle baths will also be provided, and on the first floor there will be a fine suite of offices. Some of the rooms on the upper floors will be devoted to apartments for men.

Although it is generally believed the Pittsburgh Natatorium Company, which renewed its charter a short time ago, will be the tenant of the building, it is authoritatively stated that no papers to that effect have been signed. The razing of the present natatorium in Duquesne way means that the Pittsburgh natatorium will be out of business for one year unless it secures some other location, which is hardly likely, it is said. The present building was erected in 1890 on ground leased from Mr. Phipps by the old company, which had a capital of $40,000.

$32,500 Sale in Braddock Avenue.

Another of the former West & Wilson holdings has been sold by J. E. Flint, assignee, for $32,500. The property is 150x60 feet on the north side of the Pennsylvania railroad, near Braddock avenue and extending back to Flora street. The brick buildings on the lot were formerly used as a planing mill and storage building by the Pittsburgh Construction Company, under which title much of the West & Wilson building was done. The name of the buyer could not be learned.

It developed that Charles Runnette was the first and Charles A. Brooks of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company the second buyer of the A. M. Martin lot at 5631-5639 Penn avenue, the sale and resale of which for $30,000 and $33,750 were announced in The Gazette yesterday. S. A. Dickie & Co. handled the first deal and Davies & Green and Coll & Totten sold the property for Mr. Runnette to Mr. Brooks. Although the latter figure, $900 a front foot, is now quoted for the frontage in that part of Penn avenue, it is not considered too high in view of the great activity in that section and the prospects of early improvements.

Thomas B. Moreland has sold to an East End physician 35x60 feet on the south side of Station street, near Collins avenue, for $11,500. The property is directly in the rear of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church, and is improved with a two-story store and flat building rented for $1,200 a year. The deal is credited to Woods & Coleman.

Union National Rents M. & M. Room.

The Union National bank will spend the next year, dating from April 1, in the old quarters of the Merchants & Manufacturers bank at 247 Fourth avenue. A few days ago the Union National secured a lease on this room during the time of erection of its 21-story skyscraper at Wood street and Fourth avenue. It was reported the bank would be moved to the Industrial National bank building at 333 Fourth avenue, but C. E. Dean, cashier of the Union National said yesterday the Industrial room was too small to serve their purposes. The M. & M. room is very large and can be reached from the Diamond, making it especially advantageous.

Through the Commonwealth Real Estate Company C. Davis, manager of the Pittsburgh Dairy Lunch, has leased for three years the three-story brick building of J. B. Kaercher at 413 Smithfield street, the rental being $7,500 a year. The place is now occupied by a clothing store. The same brokers leased for the estate of Charles Lockhart to Graff & Co., the three-story brick building at 958 Liberty avenue, for a term of years. Graff & Co. were lately burned out at 939-941 Liberty avenue, and will take possession of their new quarters at once, the building having been vacant most of the time for a year.

L. A. Clark & Co. have leased for Dr. X. O. Werder to the New York Hat & Cap Company the store room at 1034 Fifth avenue, for three years at $5,400 a year.

New East Liberty Firm.

The latest real estate firm to be announced in the East End is the Central Realty Company, which has opened offices at 6001 Penn avenue. Alfred Haas, formerly of the firm of P. W. Haas & Co., will be manager of the new company, and with him are associated several experienced real estate men. The company will do a general real estate business, paying special attention to renting.

The United States Steel corporation has awarded the contract to the Homestead Realty Company for the erection of 100 frame houses on Munhall terrace, about one mile from the Homestead steel works. The new dwellings will furnish homes to the dozens of foreign families who are being routed out to permit of the razing of houses at Potterville, where new mills will be erected.

James Solsson of Connellsville has commissioned Architect William Kaufmann of this city to prepare plans for a theater at Main and Pittsburgh streets, to cost $40,000.

Architect Marius Rousseau has plans for a brick store building for Antonio Adolina at Duquesne, to cost $20,000.

Frank Pearson, treasurer of the Commercial Sash and Door Company, will build a $12,000 residence in Irwin avenue, between Shady and Murray avenues, Squirrel Hill, from plans by Architect H. S. Bair.

Sale in Thomas Boulevard.

Through the office of S. H. Lloyd, John McSorley has sold to J. W. Anderson 33x140 feet on the north side of Thomas boulevard, near Homewood avenue, Twenty-first ward, for a price approximating $12,000. The site will be improved with a $15,000 residence.

Occupants of Boxes at the Benefit.

There is every indication that a successful benefit for the Juvenile Court association will be held this afternoon in the Nixon theater. The boxes have been disposed of and almost the entire house sold. In addition to the box parties there will be many theater parties throughout the house, a number of the patronesses entertaining parties of friends. The Duquesne club will be the rendezvous for luncheon today, most of the box parties being entertained there before the matinee, while several large parties will come up from Sewickley and lunch there or at the Union before going to the theater with the others.

Mrs. Henry Kirke Porter will not attend the matinee, but her daughter, Miss Hegeman, will have a small party of friends in the box, her guests being Mrs. Frederick G. Kay, Mrs. William R. Blair, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny and Mrs. Herman Griffen.

The Lauders will not occupy the box which Mrs. George Lauder took for the benefit, Mr. and Mrs. Lauder and Miss Wilson Lauder having sailed for Europe last Saturday. Mrs. David T. Watson is also out of the city, having gone east, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. George Fales Baker, and will not return in time to occupy her box this afternoon. Mrs. Helen Rook Carroll has taken a box and her guests will include Mrs. John Brown Heron, Mrs. Ralph Baggaley, Mrs. Charles A. Rook, Mrs. Richard M. Jennings and Mrs. Rowland Irving. Mrs. Carroll will give a luncheon at the Duquesne club before the matinee.

Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon's guests in her box this afternoon will include her two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Wightman and Miss Emma Wightman, who are visiting from their way from California to Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Harvey Miller and Mrs. W. W. Blair. Mrs. George E. Tener of Sewickley will have a box, her party including Miss Ella Sill of Banberry, Conn., Miss Mildred McCloskey, Miss Marietta Salibush and Miss Edith Tener. Mrs. Tener's party will have luncheon at the Duquesne club.

Mrs. A. R. Hamilton will give a box party today composed of Mr. and Mrs. George B. McGrew, Mrs. Percy H. Smith, Mrs. F. Brown and little Miss Josephine Hamilton. Mrs. John Eaton's party will comprise Mrs. S. Jarvis Adams, Mrs. George L. McCoy, Miss Leonard, Miss Genevieve Eaton and Mrs. Louis Brown. Mrs. Eaton will entertain her guests at luncheon at the Duquesne club.

Origin of Pittsburgh Institutions.

The growth of prominent institutions of Pittsburgh and Allegheny was discussed yesterday afternoon by members of the Woman's club of Pittsburgh, following the paper on "Homes and Hospitals of Pittsburgh," prepared and read by Mrs. Ama Sawhill. Mrs. Sawhill covered the field fully, mentioning the institutions which stand for the cause of philanthrophy in the two cities. In the discussion which followed Mrs. William P. Price, the leader, spoke of the founding of the Allegheny General hospital through the gift of $20,000 by William Thaw. From this small beginning has grown the institution which today is housed in a fine new building, one of the best equipped within the state. The work of Thomas Drulit, the cripple, for the newsboys, from which developed the present Newsboys home, was described by Miss Tollie Orr Hays, while to the story of the lengthening of the lines in all directions for the sick and the suffering, the poor and neglected, Mrs. Charles W. Gerwig contributed the description of the inception and the work for the widows and orphans of the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the founding of the home at Hawkins station by the Ladies of the G. A. R.

Because of the absence of several of those who were to have presented the program yesterday afternoon, one of an entirely different character was given. Mrs. Minnie G. Roberts talked of the government of Russia, tracing it from the time of Peter the Great to the present day. The condition of the Jews under the present czar of Russia was described by Mrs. S. G. Rosenstock at the invitation of the leader. Mrs. W. P. Price. Mrs. Rosenstock spoke of the outlook as presented a few weeks ago by Dr. David Blaustein of New York when he spoke before the Columbian council of Jewish Women, and predicted that in the next 10 years the field of opportunity for settlement work will not be in this country attempting to assimilate the large foreign element coming to this land, but will be in Russia teaching the Jews and the peasant to adapt themselves to the new conditions arising from the more liberal form of government which is being given the people by the czar.

Mrs. W. C. Butterfield talked on "Optimism," urging the club women to look for the bright side of everything, to look for the best that is to be found in every one and in everything. In this connection Mrs. Price spoke of the mission of the Sunshine society with its branches throughout the country.

During the short business session Mrs. Charles W. Gerwig, Miss Anna Gerwig and Mrs. Wilhelina Matthews were appointed to represent the Woman's club in the summer playground and vacation school work during the coming season.

Describes Scenes of Recent Visit.

Mrs. G. B. Kellogg entertained the members of the Colonial club yesterday afternoon with descriptions of scenes which she visited during her trip to Europe last summer. Mrs. Kellogg spoke particularly of Rome, St. Petersburg and the vatican, showing many fine photographs and pictures illustrating the great beauty of the interior of the church, as well as the main features of its exterior. The Colonial club held its regular meeting yesterday in the Hotel Henry, Mrs. William Pennock presiding. Mrs. A. E. Knox was the leader for the afternoon, "Grecian Art" was the subject taken by Mrs. E. R. Sullivan, and Mrs. A. E. Thorne spoke of the period of Charlemagne and his reign. The musical program was rendered by Miss Patrick.

Bellevue Club Studying Russia.

The Woman's club of Bellevue met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Murphy. The club has taken up the study of Russia this winter and the program yesterday related entirely to that country. "An Ode to the Deity," the work of one of the Russian poets, was read by Miss Mary A. Finley, a paper on the "Period of the Appanges" was read by Mrs. Murphy, and a paper on Ruskin by Mrs. H. L. Mitchell. The club has applied for membership in the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Robert C. Hall Purchases Painting.

Both paintings which Martin Borgord, the critic at the Art Students' league, exhibited this year in the annual exhibition in the Carnegie art galleries have found an owner. Robert C. Hall purchased the painting showing the head of a peasant, which was a result of the visit of the artist to Laren, Holland, a few months ago. The other painting, as previously announced, was purchased for the permanent collection of the Carnegie art galleries.

Reading Before Sewickley Club.

The second "artists' day" meeting of the Woman's club of Sewickley valley took place in the Edgeworth club house last evening. Mrs. S. B. M. Hooper presided and the honor guest was Miss Chamberlain of New York, who gave a reading from "King Rene's Daughter." The usual social features were observed, and Mrs. Hooper was assisted as hostess by Mrs. George E. Tener and Mrs. S. G. Cooper.

Ibsen Day in Ben Avon.

The Woman's club of Ben Avon met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Courtney, Brighton road. It was Ibsen day, and Mrs. H. R. McMichael read a paper on the life of the dramatist, with selections from his works. Mrs. J. C. Swin sang. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Schmucker next Friday evening.

Leper Mission in Jerusalem.

Miss E. Dunn will address a woman's meeting in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian association in Sewickley next Monday afternoon. Miss Dunn has just returned from Jerusalem, where she was a missionary for 15 years, and her talk will be in the interest of a leper mission there.

German Society's Tea.

The life and works of Wilhelm Busch, the humorist-philosopher, formed the subject of study and iscussion at the afternoon tea which the Germanic society held yesterday afternoon in the Twentieth Century club house. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. William Dalzell and Miss Forsyth.

Distinguished French Lecturer.

Julien Tiersot, librarian of the Paris conservatory, lectured last evening before the Alliance Francaise in the Twentieth Century club house, Duquesne way. His subject was the "Popular Songs of France," and was illustrated with song.

ITALIANS ATTACK NEGRO.

GREENSBURG, PA., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Bad feeling engendered over a small loan resulted in what may prove a double murder at No. 1 plant of the Jamison Coal & Coke Company this morning. Oddy Epps, a negro, is in jail charged with the murder of Guiseppi Mankins, an Italian barber. Jack Rotanda is in the Westmoreland hospital in a serious condition.

Mankina and Rotanda went to Epps' shanty last night and it is alleged battered down the door. Epps, it is said, shot three times, one bullet lodging in Mankina's heart, causing instant death. Rotanda is reported to have attacked Epps with a knife and was severely beaten with a pick handle. Epps gave himself up to Constable James H. Martin and was brought to jail.

RELIEF FUND GROWING.

Response to Second Call Brings the Total Up to $10,885.25.

The second call for aid recently issued by the Pittsburgh Society for the Aid of Russian Sufferers is bringing additional contributions to be applied to relieve the starving and homeless in the land of the czar. Yesterday $5 was added to The Gazette fund. Receipts to date are as follows:

I. Goldinger	$ 5.00
Previously acknowledged	10,880.25

NOT A "PATENT MEDICINE."

Scott's Emulsion is not a "patent medicine." It has no secret ingredients. Your doctor can, no doubt, tell you as much about it as we could. We have merely perfected the method of blending the Norwegian cod liver oil, hypophosphites of lime and soda and glycerine. As one grocer will blend coffee better than another so we have succeeded in making Scott's Emulsion a little better than any other cod liver oil preparation. There's no "patent" and the only secret is the secret of knowing how, with the perfected mechanical means at hand to do it. Get Scott's and you get the perfect emulsion. It's the greatest thing in the world for regaining strength and flesh lost through wasting.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

THE annual Yale promenade in New Haven will be held this year next Tuesday. Only a few Pittsburghers expect to go on for the "prom" this year, but among these will be Miss Mary Flinn, Miss Margarita Frew, Mrs. Thomas Rodd and her daughter, Miss Mary Rodd. Miss Flinn and Miss Frew, both of whom are members of this year's debutante set, will go west together, leaving Pittsburgh tomorrow evening. They will be chaperoned by Mrs. George Darr, at whose home in New York Miss Flinn will spend a week. After the "prom" on Tuesday evening Miss Frew expects to spend some time with New York and Philadelphia friends before returning to Pittsburgh. Mrs. Rodd and Miss Rodd, the latter of whom will be formally introduced to society next winter, have planned to leave Pittsburgh for New Haven on Friday evening. On Wednesday they will leave New Haven for New York, there to board the White Star steamer Republic, sailing for Europe on January 26. Mr. Rodd will sail with his wife and daughter and the three will spend the remainder of the winter and the early spring in foreign travel. They will go first to Italy, where they expect to spend the greater part of the next three months.

Former Pittsburgher Returns.

Mrs. Aaron C. Chesbrough, who was formerly Miss Wilson of this city, is spending a fortnight with her mother, Mrs. James Robb Wilson of St. James street, Sharpsside. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Chesbrough was guest of honor at a delightful reception given by Miss Grace Hamilton at her home in South Highland avenue. From 4 until 6 o'clock Miss Hamilton and Mrs. Chesbrough received together, assisted by Mrs. Albert Hamilton, Miss Anna McCreary, Mrs. J. T. Hamilton, Mrs. G. A. Samuels, Mrs. H. B. Siddle, Mrs. Howard M. Hooker, Miss Wilson, Miss Helen Wilson, Miss Young, Miss Margaret Young, Miss Irene Succop, Miss Vernie Collord and Miss Shaw. The aids, with an equal number of men, were entertained at bridge in the evening. The decorations both for the reception and for the bridge were exquisitely dainty. Palms flanked each side of the drawing room mantel, both shelves of which were banked with maidenhair ferns and primroses. A jar of white roses occupied a position on the piano. The chandelier was shaded and decorated in its entire length with poinsettia leaves and asparagus plumosa. Ferns and primroses banked the mantel in the hall. The dining room was especially attractive. The mantel was banked with ferns and in the center of the table, which had a handsome lace cover over a green satin slip, was a large mound of poinsettia and candy tuft. A cibodium fern drooped over the edge of the buffet.

Gives Tea for Brother's Bride.

One of the prettiest social affairs yesterday was Miss Ruth Hay's tea, given at her home in Dunmoyle place, East End, to meet her brother's bride, Mrs. Ralph Watson Hay. The assistants for the afternoon included Mrs. Samuel W. Hay, Mrs. William Herron Cameron, Miss Olive Dodds Munroe, Miss Elizabeth Dorchester, Miss Helen Wood and Miss Nellie Brown. Southern smilax was used in profusion over the doors and windows in all the apartments and made a particularly pleasing appearance over the white woodwork of the daintily furnished drawing room, where pink decorations of the enchantress variety gave a contrasting note of color. In compliment to the guest of honor, who was formerly Miss Daisy Baker of Anniston, Ala., yellow daisies were used as a centerpiece on the tea table. Yellow and white were the colors also carried out in the confections and ices.

Entertaining Canadian Guest.

Miss Louise M. Hays of Montreal, Canada, is spending several days with Miss Carolyn Irwin Hays of Westminster place, Shadyside, and tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Francis Sellers Guthrie will entertain with a small 4 o'clock tea for her sister's visiting friend. There will be no assistants, and the guests will include only the members of the debutante set. Although their names are the same, Miss Hays and her guest are not related. The former gave an informal luncheon yesterday at her home in honor of the Canadian visitor. It was a small affair, but had pretty appointments. Miss Euphemia Bakewell of Shady avenue will give a luncheon for Miss Hays at the Golf club preceding Mrs. Guthrie's tea tomorrow. This, too, will be informally conducted and covers will be laid for Miss Louise Hays, Miss Carolyn Hays, Miss Rachael McClintock, Miss Elsie McClintock, Miss Jean McClintock, Miss Nancy Marshall, Miss Mary Rodd, Miss Martha Chambers, Mrs. Thomas W. Bakewell and the hostess.

The guests were from 1 until 3 o'clock, during which time Mrs. Clemson and Mrs. Goheen received together and unassisted. The luncheon table in the dining-room was decorated with Liberty roses and white lilacs were used in the drawing-room. The library was done in American Beauty roses and the hall and billiard-room were decorated with primroses and ferns from the Clemson conservatories.

Murphy and Mrs. Henry Passevant, both of whom are from Overbrook and are visiting Mrs. Charles Alexander Rook of Ellsworth avenue.

Miss Bowman is Hostess.

It was a charmingly appointed affair with which Miss Bowman of South Linden avenue entertained yesterday afternoon. It took the form of a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Robert Tindle McElroy, a recent bride, who is a niece of the hostess, and Miss Culberston of Lewisburg, who is visiting Miss Anne Wood Tindle of North Negley avenue. A dozen guests were present and each one received a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley as a favor.

Luncheon for Miss McAdams.

The luncheon which Mrs. Jean Roberts gave yesterday at her home in Howe street was in honor of Miss Louise McAdams of Richmond, Va., who is visiting Miss Annie A. Beatty and Miss Lorraine T. Beatty of Rebecca street. The luncheon was an informal one of 10 covers, with decorations of sweet-peas carrying out a color scheme of green and white. The Misses Beatty will entertain at cards for their guest this afternoon and again on Monday afternoon.

Give Evening Card Party.

Eighteen tables were taxed into play last evening when Mr. and Mrs. William Speer Kunn were host and hostess at cards at their home in Morewood avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Macknight Speer, a recent bridal couple, were the guests of honor. Bridge was the game, the score of which the dainty prizes were awarded, the ladies receiving beautiful little crystal baskets. Jars of American beauty roses and vases of white lilacs formed the decorations. A feature of the affair was the musicale given during the serving of supper.

Mrs. McKee's Luncheon.

Covers were laid for 10 at the luncheon which Mrs. George W. McKee gave yesterday afternoon at her home in North avenue, Allegheny. Miss Euphemia Bakewell and Miss Elizabeth C. SENDS PUGILIST TO WORKHOUSE

BELIEVES ARREST IS PROPER

After he had intimated that the workhouse was the best place for the defendant, Judge Young sentenced Fred, better known as "Young" Zirringer, an Allegheny pugilist, six months to the workhouse on a plea of no defense to charges of assault and battery and malicious mischief.

The charges against Zirringer were made by George C. Pardick, a restaurant keeper at Anderson and Lacock streets. Pardick said Zirringer went into his place with several friends and started a fight. When Pardick interfered Zirringer assaulted him and threw a bowl through a large mirror. It was shown from the records of Alderman Abernathy that Zirringer had been charged with several offenses of a serious nature. Zirringer, with his hands tied up in bandages, which he told the court had been injured in a recent fight with a boxer from Buffalo in a local tournament, admitted he had been arrested for stealing a pocketbook, but denied being concerned in any other trouble. He said he was boxing in Buffalo at the time he was alleged to have robbed an Allegheny varnish concern. He also said the docket was wrong if it showed he served time in jail.

Other cases were: Morris Schwartz, assault and battery, fined $25 and costs; John Bukovioski, keeping a ferocious dog, fined $50 and costs; Simon Levy, entering a building, 60 days to jail; Joseph Denny, assault and battery, fined $25 and costs.

Judge Frazer refused to take off a non-suit in the case of Leo Rosette against John G. Trimble, an action for damages for alleged false arrest. The court finds that the arrest of the plaintiff and his brother, F. E. Rosette, was justified. A similar motion was also refused F. E. Rosette.

Minnie Y. Johnson has answered the divorce suit of James Johnson, denying his charges of cruelty and barbarous treatment and demanding a jury trial. She charges he threatened to burn the house to kill her and steal their child.

Sarah Ann McNulty filed a suit for divorce from Frank W. McNulty, alleging indignities. Leslie J. Johnson took an appeal to the superior court from the decision of common pleas court No. 1 in refusing him a divorce from Lizzie M. Johnson.

The master in the divorce suit of Kate Blanchard against Adolphus E. Blanchard has filed his report. It is alleged he drank, beat her and called her vile names, and in the presence of others falsely accused her.

Helen B. Kunkleman filed an equity suit against the Schenley Farms Company and the Moran-Phelan Contracting Company asking the court to restrain the defendants from blasting near her property.

Writs of foreign attachment were issued against George B. Warren by Albert, S. H. and Mrs. S. H. Warren. The aggregate bail required is $3,000.

Charles McKnight filed equity suits against J. J. Cain and P. Zeigmond asking for decrees restraining the defendants from preventing him entering their buildings to erect party walls in the construction of the plaintiff's building in the Twelfth ward.

MR. KNOX WILL NAME THE PENSION AGENT

Pittsburgh Congressmen to Be Consulted About the New Appointment.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—"Senator Knox will name the next pension agent at Pittsburgh," said Senator Penrose today. "I do not know whom he intends to appoint, but the place is a senatorial appointment and Senator Knox will select the man."

Senator Knox has not yet indicated whom he did select for the place. The impression has gotten abroad that the senator will, if the four congressmen from Allegheny county agree upon a man from that county, appoint the man whom they recommend.

Representatives Barchfield, Dalzell and Burke are all in favor of the appointment of Daniel C. Ashworth and stand ready to recommend him. Representative Graham is supporting the candidacy of Frank Blair, of Allegheny, but it is learned that if he finds his three colleagues are agreed upon Ashworth and that a disagreement will cause the appointment to go to one of the other western counties, Mr. Graham will join in the recommendation of Ashworth.

It seems pretty certain that M. M. Garland, surveyor of the port, will get another term in that position. Mr. Garland has strong backing with the administration, having done effective work during the last presidential campaign that won him the esteem of National Chairman Cortelyou and the President. And, besides, there is little inclination upon the part of the congressmen, so far as expressed, to disturb Mr. Garland, although the matter has not yet been definitely decided.

SUSPENDS ACTION.

New York Attorney General Gives House Cleaning Insurance Committees Opportunity to Reform.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The unofficial but positive announcement was made today that Attorney General Mayer has consented to postpone any proposed legal action against the Mutual Life Insurance Company, the New York Life Insurance Company and several other companies whose affairs were probed by the legislative investigating committee until the so-called house-cleaning committees within the companies have finished their tasks.

Attorney General Mayer conferred with Gov. Higgins regarding the matter and the governor has agreed to the course of action. It is said that if Mr. Mayer is not thoroughly satisfied with the work of the house-cleaning committees he will proceed with the suits against the Equitable Life Assurance society, brought some time ago, as a guide for other actions.

GIRL GENIUS WITH ORCHESTRA.

Marie Hall, Violinist, at Carnegie Music Hall Friday and Saturday.

The Pittsburgh orchestra concerts at Carnegie Music hall will be resumed Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, when Mr. Paur will present one of the best programs of the season. The soloist is Marie Hall, violinist, a young English girl, who is making her first American tour and is creating a sensation wherever she appears. Miss Hall, although not yet 20, is acknowledged as a genius. Six years ago she was playing the violin in the streets of London for pennies. Some one became interested in her unusual talent and she was educated in London and at Prague under the famous violin teacher Sevcik.

The orchestral numbers on the program include the most brilliant of the Beethoven symphonies, No. 8. Mozart's "Don Giovanni" overture, Richard Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" and the overture to "The Flying Dutchman" by Wagner. Miss Hall will play the Bruch G Minor concerto and a most interesting group of solo numbers.

CAPTAIN CASTO WILL BE AT THE CLOVER CLUB

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—(Special.)—The Clover club today received a telegram from Capt. Mark Casto, the life-saving hero, who rescued the passengers of the steamer Cherokee, accepting the invitation of the famous dining organization to be its guest at dinner Thursday evening. The medal which will be presented to the gallant captain is now in the hands of expert workers in gold and jewels, who are laboring night and day to complete it in time for the dinner.

Injured While Making Arrest.

Peter Waters, a police officer, is lying in the St. Francis hospital in a serious condition as a result of a wound on the head said to have been inflicted by William Fairfax, alias Willis. Fairfax escaped. Waters noticed Fairfax acting as he thought in a suspicious manner in the neighborhood of Fortieth and Ewing streets. He attempted to arrest him and while struggling with the prisoner Willis' wife approached and held the officer's arms, Willis relieving him of his pistol, with which he beat him over the head. Mrs. Willis was arrested at her home and her husband is still at large.

Marshall by his election will be head manager of the team in 1907. He is a member of the sophomore class.

Lulu Glaser as Dolly Dollars.

Charles Dillingham's production of "Miss Dolly Dollars" with Lulu Glaser in the title role will be the attraction at the Nixon theater for the week beginning next Monday. In addition to the regular Saturday matinee, there will be a special afternoon performance Wednesday. If metropolitan critics can be taken as criterion, the music of "Miss Dolly Dollars" eclipses anything Victor Herbert has composed since "The Serenaders."

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

Much interest is being manifested in the return to the Belasco theater on Monday night next of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram." This rattling farce was seen at the Belasco theater a few weeks since, and made a great success. It came here practically unknown so far as Pittsburgh was concerned, although it had an extended engagement in New York and Chicago.

COALBOATS START OUT.

Three Tows Are Made Up and Leave for Down-River Points.

The velocity of the wind yesterday made it almost impossible for poolboats to navigate. There were no boat movements in the Allegheny on this account. Despite the wind, several tows were made up and started for the south with coal. The boats which left were the Boaz with 22 barges, the Sam Clark, 22 barges, and the Tom Doddsworth, 8 barges and 11 coalboats. These boats were assisted down the river by the Rival and Volunteer, which will later help the Harry Brown and the Exporter up river with coaling.

It was reported yesterday that the sale of the Ross Hite had been closed, but this was denied by officials of the Pittsburgh and Morgantown pocket line and by John Davis, the broker who has the matter in charge.

The Keystone State arrived yesterday about 24 hours late. She will remain here until Saturday and will leave for Cincinnati on the time of the Virginia. The Virginia will arrive on Monday and take the place of the Keystone State.

SPECULATION QUIETER, BUT PRICES HELD WELL

Minor Iron and Steel Stocks Scored the Largest Gains—Heavy Trading in Mining Shares the Feature of the Local Market.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

New York stocks were less active yesterday, speculation was quieter and there was considerable irregularity to prices, but on the whole the tone of the market was steady to firm. The falling off in business was partly due to the interruption of telegraphic service with the west, but at the same time there appeared to be a disposition on the part of the public to wait for some pronounced tendency. This was a noticeable feature of the market during the early part of last week. The range of values is so high that every experienced trader feels a turn is not far off. Hence the leaders are closely watched for a sign to indicate a shifting of position from the long to the short side of the market.

At the opening yesterday the market held comparatively steady, despite the continuance of heavy profit-taking in those stocks which have been the leaders of this great bull movement. It was reported that one broker representing large speculative interests had marketed more than 75,000 shares Union Pacific the past two days. Part of this stock was sold in London, but the bulk of it in New York, and the chronic bulls, who have been reiterating the prediction that the stock will reach 175 before the directors meet to declare the next dividend, referred to the story of heavy profit-taking as evidence that large interests were absorbing the stock, even at these prices, because the market has advanced in the face of liquidation. The stock closed yesterday at a net gain of 1¼ per cent. Southern Pacific closed unchanged, and St. Paul ⅝ higher, but the other granger stocks closed slightly lower.

It looked as if the manipulators of the market had temporarily turned their attention to the Pennsylvania group, which has been a laggard throughout this entire movement, and Reading, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio showed more strength and closed with larger net gains than the other railroad issues.

The strongest stocks in the market, however, were the minor iron and steel issues. Colorado Fuel and Iron was conspicuously strong, and in the late dealings made a rapid advance, touching 69¾ and closing with a net gain of 6¾ per cent. Tennessee Coal and Iron closed unchanged. Pressed Steel Car advanced from 60⅛ to 63¾ and closed with a net advance of 3¾ per cent. The preferred stock closed 1⅝ per cent higher. Republic Iron and Steel closed slightly higher. Locomotive and United States Steel common closed unchanged for the day, but Steel preferred closed ½ higher.

The copper stocks were rather dull and heavy, both in New York and Boston. Amalgamated lost 1 per cent at the opening, selling off to 112⅜, but it subsequently recovered to 114⅛, and closed at 113⅝. Anaconda copper closed 5⅛ per cent lower. There was much irregularity in American Smelting, but the stock finally turned firm and closed ½ higher for the day. A rather improbable story was current in the street during the day to the effect that a gigantic combination, which would embrace Amalgamated Copper, United Copper, North Butte and the American Smelting Company, was being negotiated, and that if these properties were not actually controlled through a holding company, a deal would be effected which would mean a very close affiliation, which would control the copper producing and smelting situation.

The money market ruled fairly easy, call loans averaging under 5 per cent, although $1,000,000 gold was withdrawn from New York banks for shipment to Mexico.

Heavy transactions in mining stocks were the feature of the local stock market. Out of a total of more than 36,000 shares for all stocks, 30,530 shares consisted of mining shares, and of this total 28,065 shares were Ohio Tonopah. The latter advanced to 39 cents a share, the highest quoted on the present capitalization, and closed at 38 cents, an advance of 3 cents a share. There were reports that the development of the property was progressing satisfactorily, and also that negotiations were on for acquiring additional property. Lustre made a strong rally of $1 a share, selling at 28 and closing at 27¾, a net gain of $2.75 a share. The special meeting of stockholders to consider the proposition for increasing the capital met at 2 o'clock and was still in session when the market closed, so that the latter did not receive any influence from that event. Tonopah Extension rallied from $7.50 to $7.90, and closed at the top. United Copper closed slightly lower at 84⅝.

Crucible Steel common was the most active of the regular industrial list, nearly 3,000 shares changing hands at 144@147⅝. Only 51 shares of the preferred were dealt in, and the stock closed a fraction higher at 78⅞. American Sewer Pipe was strong on the report of an extension of the pooling agreement, and closed a dollar a share higher at 33¾. National Fire Proofing common and preferred closed dull and unchanged. The announcement of the declaration of a dividend of 97 cents a share on River Coal preferred and the publication of the annual report, showing total net earnings of $194,476, an increase of $20,709, had no effect upon the market, the stock not even being quoted all day. Pittsburgh Coal was weak, the preferred declining to 57¼ and closing at 57⅝, a loss of ⅝ per cent. The natural gas stocks were firmer, and Manufacturers Light and Heat closed ⅝ higher at 43¾. Philadelphia Company sold at 53 and advanced to 53½ bid at the close. The Westinghouse stocks were dull but steady.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The directors of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company yesterday declared a dividend of 1.94 per cent, or 97 cents a share, on the preferred stock, out of the earnings of the fiscal year ended October 31, 1905, payable January 25 to stock of record January 19. This dividend compares with 1.54 per cent, or 77 cents a share, paid out of the earnings of the previous fiscal year. The annual meeting of stockholders will be held today, and the directors yesterday gave out the report which will be submitted to that meeting. The report shows that during the fiscal year ended October 31, 1905, the company mined a total of 5,501,756 tons of coal, an increase of 835,508 tons over 1904. The profits for the year, after deducting all expenses, bad debts and other losses, were $1,869,151. There was charged to maintenance and repairs on river craft and to depreciation the sum of $695,575, leaving a balance of $1,173,576. Deductions on account of interest on bonds and certificates of indebtedness, royalty on coal mined, reinvestment in coal lands and retirement of bonds foot up $979,120, leaving a balance of $194,476 applicable to dividends on preferred stock, which is equal to 1.94 per cent, the amount of the dividend declared yesterday. The amount of bonds retired during the year was $324,000, making a total of $1,969,000 in the reduction of the bonded debt since the organization of the company. A statement of the liquid assets and liabilities shows an excess of assets of $3,336,387, a decrease of $151,263 as compared with the previous year.

In his statement to the River Coal stockholders President Francis L. Robbins says "the average selling prices for the year, as a whole, have been lower than even those of the preceding year, owing to overproduction and general demoralization. The first five months of our fiscal year were very unfavorable, owing to almost continued severe weather and ice. The spring and summer months were favorable with respect to frequent rises in the river, but the shipments were comparatively light, because of the limited demand for coal during the summer months and the quarantines in the south, the increase in southern shipments being only 241,090 tons, or less than 16 per cent." As to rail conditions, President Robbins says: "The shortage of coal cars seriously curtailed our production and increased our costs. The company purchased 500 cars during the year, and now has for the use of these cars would not have been able to fill contracts." The balance sheet of the company as of October 31 follows:

The reports current in Wall street of the enormous individual holdings in various stocks, notably in Union Pacific, which were being liquidated had the effect of accentuating distrust over the market attitude of those visited with inside information regarding conditions of the properties whose shares make up the stock market. The realizing in Union Pacific was supplemented in its influence on sentiment by the persistent pressure on Amalgamated Copper. The near approach of the dividend meeting for this stock gave rise to much surmise and uncertainty. The announcement of a reduction in the price of copper on the metal exchange was an additional influence on Amalgamated Copper. The London market for copper also showed a notable spread in the discount on futures as compared with the price of spot copper. The recovery of these two prominent market leaders was of much influence in reassuring speculative sentiment.

A good effect was produced by the advances shown in some of the railroad stocks of the substantial grade and of a free enough market supply to prevent their movements from being suspected of manipulation to the same extent as would be the case with closely held, very high-priced stocks. The Pennsylvania group, the Gould group and the Southern group were examples of this class.

New York bank clearings yesterday rose to $637,479,105, a figure never before exceeded except by the January 2 clearings of this year. The very large amount of dividend and interest falling due on January 15 serve to explain these heavy check exchanges, and these disbursements may be expected to help the money market later. Large currency shipments from the interior are still arriving in New York and the gain by the banks from the sub-treasury since the bank statement rose to $5,885,000. The shipment of $1,000,000 in gold to Mexico was of small effect under the circumstances.

There was a sharp advance in London discounts yesterday, which was in response to the taking of money from the market by the Bank of England, which is a usual preliminary to an advance in the bank's official discount rate. Paris discounts became easier and in Berlin it is expected that the Imperial Bank will reduce its official rate of discount at the next meeting.

Directors of Amalgamated Copper are scheduled to meet tomorrow to take action on the dividend.

C. B. MacDonald, the most active trader on the New York stock exchange, is going abroad this week. Last week he sold a big line of long stocks. He is still bullish on the market, but is in need of a rest. He has traded in 100,000 shares a day on several days during the last four months.

The returns of the 47 trust companies of the city of New York, as of January 1, compared with November 9, shows a decrease of $95,015,900 in loans, a decrease of $68,724,600 in deposits, a decrease of $9,224,500 in investments and an increase of $15,202,700 in total cash.

The statement of this country's foreign trade for December shows an excess in value of exports over imports of $58,554,000, more than doubling the trade balance in our favor of the preceding December. The vast resources thus placed at the command of the foreign exchange market largely explain the facility with which the enormous demand has been met for remittance, and the ease in making loans from foreign lenders. Another factor in this result is an awakened demand on the part of foreign investors for American railroad mortgages which bond houses in Wall street report to be a conspicuous development of the last few days.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Federal National bank H. M. Landis was elected vice president and cashier. Mr. Landis has been cashier of the bank since 1902.

About 8,000 shares Golden Anchor changed hands in the curb market at prices ranging from $1.47 to $1.70, the latter the highest ever quoted.

The Mahoning Coal Railroad Company declared a semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent today. The company declared its first dividend at this rate last July, having therefore paid 10 per cent a year, but with the dividend divided into one semi-annual declaration of 7 per cent and another semi-annual declaration of 3 per cent hereafter the dividends are to be declared 5 per cent semi-annually.

The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railway has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on its common stock, payable March 1 to holders of record February 10.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad has declared the customary annual dividends of 5 per cent on its first preferred and 3 per cent on its second preferred stock, both payable to holders of record February 1.

The American Graphophone Company has declared its regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable February 15 to stockholders of record February 1.

The Earnings of the American Sewer Pipe Company for the year ended December 31 last, it is stated, amounted to approximately $530,000, or over 7 per cent on the stock. It requires $235,000 to pay dividends at the rate of 2 per cent. This would leave $335,000 to be added to the surplus account. The surplus, it is reported, has been expended in purchasing some of the outstanding bonds, and the company now has $600,000 of the issue in its treasury, but not canceled. The outstanding bonds are retirable at the rate of $50,000 a year.

The Bethlehem Steel Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable February 1.

Speyer & Co. have purchased from the Vandalia Railroad Company $3,000,000 Vandalia Railroad Company consolidated mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds, due February 1, 1955. The proceeds are to be applied as follows: For redemption of second mortgage bonds of Terre Haute & Indianapolis railroad, $800,000; for purchase of real estate and for freight station at Indianapolis, $600,000; track elevation at Indianapolis, $270,000; additional equipment, freight cars, $550,000; tracking, $1,200,000.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The American Consolidated Copper Company has been incorporated at Portland, Me., with an authorized capital of $150,000,000. Larkin T. Trull of Lowell, Mass., is president.

The experimental plant with which the management of Boston Consolidated of Bingham is to determine the method and devices that shall be employed in the big concentrator at Garfield is now in commission, with 20 tons of copper bearing ore passing through the crusher daily. In appearance the concentrator is identical with that at the Utah Copper Company's mill.

The Jay Gould mine near Helena, for many years one of Montana's largest gold producers, is to be sold to an eastern syndicate. The purchase price is understood to be about $500,000. It is reported that John W. Gates and his associates are the purchasers.

Ore running as high as $100 a ton, principally in copper and gold, has been found in the property of the Iowa company, operating within the Helena city limits.

The company owning the dam across the Missouri river near Helena is now supplying power at $20 per horsepower, and the same company is building a second dam, so great has been the demand of the mining industry in Butte, Anaconda, Helena and the intervening sections. The new dam will produce 27,000 horsepower, and upon its completion the cost will be reduced to $35, which must prove of still further benefit to the industry.

The ownership of the Motel mine at Cobalt is under dispute and a large number of witnesses are being examined before Frank Cochrane, minister of mines, to determine who is the rightful possessor. The rival claimants are H. J. M. Rothschild of New Lickeard and J. O. Handy of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—A decline in the exchange rate, freer offerings by importers and speculative liquidation caused a sharp break in the London metal markets today and prices lost over £2. Spot closed at £165 5s and futures at £165 7s. Locally the market was weak in sympathy, with spot quoted at $36 00@36 50, or about 75 points net lower on the average. Copper was rather irregular in London, with spot about 7s 6d higher at £79 5s, while futures were lower at £77 5s. The local market was quiet and easier, it being claimed that copper for forward shipment is available on somewhat cheaper basis owing to the recent offerings of China resales. Lake and electrolytic are quoted as $18 50@18 75 and casting at $18 25@18 50. Lead again declined in the London market, closing at £18 12s 6d, and was also easier locally with quotations ranging from $5 60@5 80. Spelter advanced 2s 6d to £28 3s 4d in London, but remained quiet locally at $5 50@5 60. Iron was about $@@1 lower in Europe with standard foundry quoted at 52s 7d and Cleveland warrants at 52s 7½d. Locally the market was firm and unchanged, with No. 1 northern foundry quoted at $18 75@19 25, No. 2 foundry northern at $18 25@18 75, No. 1 foundry southern at $18 50@18 75 and No. 2 foundry southern at $18 00@18 25.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—The general market today was dull, with the exception of U. S. Mining, which was very strong, climbing 2½ points on heavy transactions. Considering the heavy liquidation of yesterday, the demand for stocks is very encouraging. The principal interest in the market at present is in stocks, which ratter connects with the coming consolidation, principally in the Utah and Bingham camps.

CHARACTER OF TRADE BUT LITTLE CHANGED

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Herald this (Wednesday) morning says: There was very little change in the character of the stock market trading yesterday. The same conflicting influences which were at work on Monday again developed and made the course of prices highly irregular. The undertone, however, continued strong and prices, as a rule, showed net advances at the close. The shifting of accounts from certain issues into others continued, and this operation as carried on by the operators rendered the trading somewhat confusing. The industrial list showed strength under the leadership of the railroad equipment stocks, and the steel corporation shares sympathized.

The volume of business was curtailed to a marked extent at times, but the dullness usually gave way to buying or selling movements. Toward the close the general market showed strength under the sensational buying of Colorado Fuel and Iron. The movement in this stock, it is understood, came from the same quarters that were active in the Tennessee Coal and Iron movement.

Discussion of coming dividend meetings, particularly that of the Amalgamated Copper Company, as well as the Union Pacific railway, played a considerable part in the speculation. The usual market rumors were of a conflicting character, showing that speculative sentiment is pretty well divided at the present time. One of the important developments which served to show how the money market was able last fall to borrow heavily in Europe was the publication of the December statement of the country's foreign trade. The report showed an increase of about $50,000,000 in the value of imports and an increase of $6,000,000 in exports. The excess of exports over imports during December amounted to $58,554,000, a total which explained the heavy sales of sterling bills in this market several weeks ago. The total exports amounted in round figures to $200,000,000, an amount which breaks all previous records. The heavy increase in exports of staples of the farm and mine for December have already been referred to, and the combined statement reflects the magnificent results of the great harvests of last year. In this connection it is to be noted that there have been decreases in prices of some of the leading articles when figured so prominently in the December trade statements.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 5 points under European selling and private cables from Hamburg reporting that there was no basis for the reports that leading European bankers had underwritten to float the proposed Brazilian loan to secure interest payment on which an export duty on coffee was to have been imposed. Europe was a seller here, but there was a fair demand attracted by continued light Brazilian receipts and large warehouse deliveries, and the market ruled generally steady during the early session, to yield to continued pressure later, and closed steady at a decline of 5@10 points. Sales were reported of 89,750 bags, including January at 6.75@6.80c; February, 6.85@6.90c; May, 7.05@7.10c; July, 7.20c; September, 7.35@7.40c, and December, 7.50@7.55c. Coffee—Spot Rio steady; No. 7 invoice, 8½c; mild steady; Cordova, 9½@12½c. Sugar—Raw nominal; fair refining, 3¼c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3⅝c; molasses sugar,

MARKET IS QUIET FOR FRESH GATHERED EGGS

Several Quotations Are Reported for Selected Nearby Stock. Butter Is Firm.

Local merchants are unable to agree on quotations for strictly fresh gathered eggs. This subject has come up time and time again, especially when the egg market is weak. For this class of goods an inquirer received three distinct quotations yesterday and the figures given in the column were arrived at after a careful comparison of all quotations. The egg market in all grades continues weak, and no doubt will be so for some time to come, as there seems to be large quantities in transit. There is a large amount of storage goods still on hand and an effort is being made to dispose of it.

A quieter market is reported for butter, but the prices are still obtained without any trouble. Strictly fresh creamery is none too plentiful and rules steady to firm. Occasional sales have been made of the stock on hand at figures several fractions higher than the quotations.

Receipts of apples were slightly heavier yesterday, but the market is exceedingly quiet. Cranberries are in limited supply and hold firmly, but trade is rather light.

Large quantities of rhubarb are being received daily and the demand is fair, with prices favoring the purchaser.

There are still a few strawberries on the market, but no heavy sales have yet been reported.

As stated yesterday, the demand for celery is good and large quantities are being disposed of.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania lines, 6 cars hay, 1 cars corn, 17 cars oats, 7 cars straw and 5 cars feed. Baltimore & Ohio, 11 cars hay, 1 car corn, 1 car oats and 1 car straw. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 6 cars hay, 2 cars feed, 2 cars corn, 1 car rye and 1 car oats.

There was no noticeable change in the markets yesterday. The demand continues strong and the trucks are pretty well cleaned up. Most of the stuff is sold on arrival. There was no change in quotations during the day.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Buying of drygoods was increased in volume today. The attitude of sellers was very independent and, although no large trading was in progress, all are willing to wait until such time as there seems to be necessity for more freedom of purchase.

FAVORABLE CROP NEWS EASES GRAIN PRICES

Heavy Selling by Longs Also Contributed to Send Wheat Downward.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Favorable weather for fall sown wheat in the United States, improved weather in Argentine, and better industrial conditions in Russia weakened the wheat market here today. At the close wheat for May delivery was off 2½@2¾c. Corn was down ½@c. Oats showed a loss of 1½@1¾c. Provisions were 7½@10c lower. Weakness in wheat developed soon after the opening. At the start the market was firm, the initial quotations on May being up ¼@c to ⅝@⅝c, at 88c to $88⅜c. The bullish sentiment was due to advices from India and Argentina which reported damage by too much rain in the South American country and damage by a lack of rain in Asia. The slight advance in prices at the opening brought out heavy selling by local longs and under this pressure the market gradually weakened. Reports of rain in the southwest which will be of great benefit to the growing crop and promises of large shipments in the immediate future from Russia encouraged the bears. Then came a late dispatch from Argentina stating that the weather there had cleared, and that harvesting would proceed without further hindrance. This sent the market still further. From 89⅛c which was touched soon after the opening, the May option dropped to 86¾c. The close was weak with May at 86⅝@86⅝c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 258,000 bushels. The world's visible supply as shown by Bradstreets decreased 71,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 580,000 bushels, compared with 483,000 bushels one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 670 cars, against 552 cars last week, and 374 cars one year ago.

The corn market was weak for the greater part of the session. There was heavy selling by cash houses and easier cables and liberal local receipts caused some selling by local traders. Clearances of 1,250,000 bushels for the day and an estimate of small receipts for tomorrow held sellers in check somewhat. The market closed easy with prices at about the lowest point of the day. May opened unchanged to a shade higher at 45¼c to 45⅜c, sold between 45c and 45⅜c and closed at 45¼c. Local receipts were 474 cars, with 40 cars of contract grade.

The feature of trading in oats was heavy profit-taking by several leading longs. The principal buyers were shorts. The market weakened under the selling pressure and closed practically at the lowest point of the day. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 31⅛c to 32c, sold off to 31¼c and closed at 31¼@31⅜c. Local receipts were 232 cars.

The provisions market was weak despite a 5@10c advance in the price of live hogs. At the opening there was a slight advance on covering by shorts, but the small gain was soon lost on realizing by local traders. At the close May pork was off 10c at $14 02½. Lard was down 10c at $7 60. Ribs were 7½@10c lower at $7 65.

The market opened quiet at unchanged prices to a decline of 2 points under scattering liquidation and moderate bear pressure following indifferent Liverpool cables and representations that sentiment abroad was unsettled over the prospect of a change in government. Trading was very quiet, but there was fair support after the opening, and during the middle of the morning the market ruled steady and about 3@4 points net higher on bullish reports from consuming circles and reports of firm spot holders. Toward midday the market became more active and firmer on a demand from Wall street bulls, and covering attributed to some of the larger local shorts. Prices were about 12 points net higher.

Foreign Financial.

LONDON, January 16.—Consols for money, 83⅝; consols for account, 83⅝. Bar silver steady, 30 3-16d per ounce. Money, 3½@4 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 3⅝@3 15/16 per cent; for three months' bills, 3⅞ per cent. Supplies of money were comparatively scarce in the market today. Large amounts were owing to the Bank of England, on which institution borrowers were daily depending, buying at high as 5 per cent for loans, the bank having reduced supplies extensively for the purpose of forcing up rates. Discounts consequently were harder. Trading on the stock exchange was dull and inactive, due largely to the excitement resulting from the city elections. There was some nervousness regarding the outcome of the Moroccan conference, but the market closed with a better feeling. Consols were depressed on the dearness of money. Americans opened irregular. Some stocks advanced to above parity on New York support, remained generally lifeless, rallied during the last hour and closed firm. Foreigners generally were easier, but closed steadier. Kaffirs were weak on Paris selling. Some local realizations were attributed to the election results. Prices closed flatter. Japanese imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 102¾. Copper was depressed today on bear selling and declined 2s, but recovered in the afternoon and closed firm at £78¾. About 1,100 tons were sold. The fall in eastern exchange and reconsequent selling by importers caused the price of tin to decline 4£ 5s. The price afterwards rallied 5s and closed at £135 5s. About 650 tons were sold.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—Trading on the bourse today opened dull and inactive. Business was weak. A general rise in prices followed the opening, owing to a feeling of optimism with reference to the Moroccan conference. At the close prices were firm. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 83.75, and Russian bonds of 1904 at 458.00. The private rate of discount was 2 3-16 per cent. Three per cent rentes 96 francs 97½ centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 13 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Trading on the boerse today was dull and prices had a downward tendency. The Moroccan question continues to exercise a depressing influence. Exchange on London, 20 marks 44¾ pfennigs for checks.

ARRANGEMENT FOR SETTLING CLAIMS

Shippers and Railroad Men Confer—Panhandle to Take Up Bad Grade Crossing.

AGENTS CHANGE MEETING DAY

About 60 representatives of the largest shipping interests of Pittsburgh met in the Carnegie building yesterday with traffic and claim representatives of the railroads in this district. The meeting was designed principally to arrange for expediting the settlement of claims. The meeting was called by A. G. Young, traffic manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, and was presided over by Freight Claim Agent H. C. Barlow of the Erie, who is chairman of the committee having charge of the question. The meeting lasted all day. Among the other out-of-town railroad men at the meeting were Freight Claim Agent W. T. Smith of the Lake Shore on Cleveland, and Freight Claim Agent C. V. Lewis of the Baltimore & Ohio of Baltimore. The initial lines of Pittsburgh were represented by their traffic and claim agents of this city.

It is announced that a meeting to form an organization against fraudulent claims will be held in New York today by railroad and insurance companies. This meeting will have more to do with the claims made by passengers.

Among the Visitors of a Day.

J. C. Lovrien, assistant general passenger agent of the Frisco system at Kansas City, who was here conferring with District Passenger Agent Pentecost yesterday, says business is excellent for the railroads in the west, with a bright outlook for an increase. He says Pittsburgh is one of the best originating centers for travel in the east.

J. C. Ilse, assistant general freight agent of the Chicago Great Western, spent the past two days here in conference with General Agent Laird and is remaining himself with the enormous manufacturing interests here. He left last evening for Cleveland and will return to his headquarters in Chicago in a couple of days. Mr. Ilse was well pleased, of course, with Mr. Laird's good report of an increase every month over every previous month last year.

E. A. Peck, superintendent of the New Castle division of the Baltimore & Ohio, and E. E. Hamilton, chief clerk to Superintendent Thompson of the Wheeling division, conferred with Pittsburgh officers.

W. J. Peebles, special agent of the freight department of the Pennsylvania, spent Tuesday here, where he was formerly freight agent for the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division.

May Eliminate Bad Crossing.

Panhandle officers are again considering eliminating the grade crossing at Second avenue, on account of the Baltimore & Ohio's desire to build new freight houses and freight terminal just below Second avenue and east of the Panhandle tracks. Unless the crossing at Second avenue is bettered, teaming to and from the new freight house will be hindered by the constant hold-up of street traffic by Panhandle and P. V. & C. trains crossing. The Baltimore & Ohio will have an entrance into the new freight houses along a portion of Water street, but this will not be sufficient to meet the demands.

Plans for the raising of the Panhandle tracks at Second avenue were prepared a couple of years ago, and it is said these are to be brought before councils shortly. The elevation of the tracks at Second avenue was provided for when the new bridge was built across the Monongahela river, there being a heavy grade from the avenue to the first span of the bridge. A similar hump is just in front of the Fourth avenue passenger station, and this was made so the tracks could be elevated at Second avenue without interfering with the tunnel or necessitating a change in the tunnel line. The Try street yards of the Panhandle will be maintained, but it is likely the Third avenue crossing will be eliminated. By raising the Panhandle tracks about six or seven feet and lowering the street grade about seven or eight feet the grade crossing can be eliminated without serious interference with the abutting property west of the crossing.

Changes in Local Line Agents.

John Powers has been appointed night ticket agent of the Panhandle at Steubenville to succeed W. G. Hartshorn, who became city passenger agent of the Santa Fe in Pittsburgh Monday. Mr. Powers has been succeeded as night baggage master by A. McGinnis.

H. D. Williams has been appointed joint freight and passenger agent of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh and Buffalo & Susquehanna roads at Jumper. C. A. Smith has been appointed agent of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh at Rockton to succeed F. B. Dawson, who has been appointed agent at Marion Center to succeed C. C. Ackey, resigned.

P. R. R. Agents Meet Saturdays.

The regular monthly meeting of the agents of the Pennsylvania's Pittsburgh division has been changed from the second Sunday of every month to the second Saturday afternoon. This change meets with the approval of all of the agents, as they disliked to have the Sunday meeting, but could not arrange otherwise before this time. Over 100 agents were at the meeting last Sunday, when the arrangement for the Saturday afternoon period was made.

Railroad Notes.

Sam P. Woodside, Jr., took service yesterday as assistant stenographer and clerk in the offices of General Agent Hurd of the Lake Shore.

City and railroad officers will make an investigation of the elevator accident at the Union station Tuesday evening. General Agent Daggard regards the accident due to the clerks overcrowding the car at the fourth floor, whence it descended into the safety shafts.

Missionary Worker Dies.

AUBURNDALE, MASS., Jan. 16.—Announcement was made today of the death at her home last night of Mrs. Eliza Harding Walker, founder of the Walker Missionary home. She was 88 years old. In 1853 with her husband, Dr. Augustus Walker, Mrs. Walker went to Turkey as a missionary of the American board. Mr. Walker died in 1886 and Mrs. Walker returning to this country founded the home in which missionaries going to the foreign field could leave their children for care and education.

A TALK FOR FINANCIERS.

"The Man Who Signs The Checks" Will Soon Visit Business Men of Several States.

The next booklet by the Protaman-Farrar Company, Farmers bank building, this city, entitled "The Man Who Signs the Checks," will be ready for distribution on or before Wednesday, January 24.

The Protaman-Farrar Company claim that it private more copy for newspaper advertising and mail publications than any other organization in the United States. They do not place contracts for as much space as do some of the New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago agencies, for the reason that they act as contract agents for only such business as they plan and write.

The volume of advertising written by the company last year reached $2,300,000, an increase of $1,200,000 in less than two years, most of which increase has been secured outside of Pittsburgh.

The gratifying feature connected with this company's increase in volume of business is its proportionate increase in earnings and the fact that it has been offered unsolicited large contracts at higher figures than many of its competitors have been able to command.

IS ORDERED TO PAY FOR CAMPAIGN BEER

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—Interesting testimony relative to reform campaign methods was brought out in the Dauphin county court today in the suit of George Doehne, proprietor of a Harrisburg brewery, to recover a claim of $256.85 for beer furnished by John N. McCulloch for free use of the anti-machine party on the judgeship campaign of 1903. After hearing both sides the jury ordered McCulloch to pay the bill.

That campaign was waged by a combination of Independent Republicans and Democrats in behalf of Judge Michael W. Jacobs, whom Gov. Pennypacker had appointed temporarily to fill the vacancy on the Dauphin county bench caused by the death of Judge Simonton. The regular Republicans refused to accept Jacobs and nominated Judge George Kunkel for the full term.

The anti-machine party which nominated Judge Jacobs, was supported by many clergymen and church people. The party managers refused to pay the beer bill when it was presented, but evidence today showed that it had been bought by McCulloch as agent for the party and had been distributed by representatives of the party in the interest of the anti-machine ticket.

CHILDREN'S LIBRARIANS ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

New York Settlement Worker Lectures Before Young Women at Carnegie Library Training School.

The Rev. H. Roswell Bates, who is famous for his settlement house work in New York, opened his series of lectures before the students in the training school for children's librarians in the Carnegie library yesterday morning. Mr. Bates is lecturing on "Three Things Necessary to Understand in Order to Help the Degraded Poor," and will continue his talks today and tomorrow morning. Yesterday he was greeted by a good-sized audience of prominent settlement workers, in addition to the students. Bishop Canevin attended and evinced much interest in the lecture.

The training school this year has 15 students. The number is kept small by the great demand which is made by big institutions in all parts of the country for children's librarians, and many of the young women have temporarily abandoned their studies to accept remunerative positions. Last year there were 30 applications for assistant librarians and the Carnegie training school, which is the only one in the world, was unable to supply the demand, with its meager list of seven candidates. The young women enrolled this year are:

BREAK CHILD'S JOINTS TO CURE STRANGE MALADY

A peculiar case which is attracting much attention among physicians is that of 11-year-old Mary McLain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLain of Orchard avenue, McDonald. As an after-effect of an attack of rheumatism the child's joints became rigid. Ordinary methods of treatment failed and the attending physicians decided upon heroic treatment. The patient's bones were dislocated at the joints and reset. The operations began last week and enough time was allowed to elapse between each to allow the healing of the affected parts. Much improvement has resulted from the treatment and the child is now able to walk.
